I would be true, for there are those who would trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care;
I would be strong, for there are those who suffer;
I would be brave, for there is much to dare,
I would be friend to all – the foe,
the friendless;
I would be giving, and forget the gift;
I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up, and laugh, and love, and lift.

Chapter One: Introduction from a Gray Jinn

If you are interested in the gray side of things then I am the person to turn to. I'm barely even a person because of it. The gray side is understood easily enough, right? Most people have no problem with that. The problem they do have is accepting it. "You can't be good and evil!" Yeah, but why not? If even to bother them. Christian Satanism is the grayist of the gray. A bothering term that asks questions like no other. Intolerable. Offensive. While it goes against how others are so sided minded makes it so. (We are this because we are not that.)

A war where two sides fight and we come in, in between. But both sides can not be brought together but by us. By being us. I think they'd rather die. I think they like the fight.

There is nothing more that needs to be understood of it other than being both. Even in different degrees is fine. Sometimes being one more for the sake of being both more together. Which is fine, too. And the opportunity to use such a wonderful term as Christian Satanist.

Then there are those who would just use the term to refer to Devil Worship. After all if a Christian is worshipping Satan as Satan is in Christian context, then they are still Christian, I guess you could say.

Maybe someday gray sided things will be more common. I don't doubt it. It seems so natural to go from light and dark to shadow. A being who is not restricted according to the side they are on.

I have a lot to teach. Am uniquely a magician. Have come by my teachings bringing them to you at a high price. That price I paid was no small matter. Through madness making itself sane and hardship grand I have what I have for you here and in my previous books. I am looking for readers who are interested in the gray religion of Christian Satanism I bring them. That they learn and share it. For that sake my books are all free and in public domain. 100% so. As eBooks found online under my name Lucifer White or Lucifer Jeremy White.

If you are afraid for your soul and stuff then maybe God is blackmailing you. My God is more friendly and forgiving. The universe for me is a game. I know the other players. Maybe some day you will play with me. With us..

Christian Satanist is the team, Christian Satanism the game.. I welcome you into the winning team. Even when we practice we play, and play with an advantage. A basis needs to be made. A formula formed. A design rendered and I will do so here. But transform and experiment with it freely. I have always been a maker of drafts more then completed products.

Chapter Two: A Summary of the more important things

With empirical evidence things work in twos. It is a fact observable all over the body. From two eyes and lungs to two sides of the brain. Those operating with only one side of their brain have been functioning insufficiency. Man was not made to hop on one leg. We are the religiously ambidextrous. We are the children of good and evil. We are in a place whose time has come.

The hidden piece of the equation An unpredictable thing. Maybe too threatening for some, so be aware.

It is religion in stereo. Best known on a private and personal level. One with no masters over you. One without any leader that one would not accept for themselves. In other words a religion suited to the person, not the overlord. It is "the best of both worlds" as they say. I hope in what I teach a person gains the ability to make their own world. That in the process their lives are enriched.

We don't claim to have the master plan for salvation. That route is simple and already laid out: Jesus Christ died for our sins. If we accept him as our savior then we are given the gift of salvation. We don't pay for that gift. He already did.

We are married to the world and called to inherit it. Remember: a new heaven and a new earth. A lot of what I teach is spiritual worldliness. Things that plant people into the earth certainly not like a weed, but a flower. Not just any flower but a rose, one that is protected with thorns. That is not totally the Satanic component but perhaps most of it.

It is up to the Christian Satanist to find balance within their religious practice. I will show you both and a blending. But the proportions are up to you. "Drink but don't get drunk. Eat, but more than just bread."

Think of no man to be entirely good. That is a lie. That is a person that does not confess their sins. I have found it so often true that you cannot judge a book by its cover. So what is the person of great Christian guilt to do but to impose their own feelings upon others- those of guilt? Like the saying "misery loves company," they naturally put people under the same terms. I would never do that. They are told not to judge. They spend more time preaching against simple forms of sin then anything else. Most of their focus should go towards actually helping others but it seldom is.

I was homeless awhile. Any money given me would brighten my day. As a side note I say, if you want to improve the world donate to science and technology, but help the needy as well who may be starving/suffering. So to do a mega good (I so like the term mega good) go out of your way to help. Like the good Samaritan Jesus talked about. In your life you have a long way to go. Hopefully at the end of it you have accomplished a great good at least a few times. I don't believe that the long term selfish people feel good or like their selves. That requires outer appreciation.

And doing good helps you identify yourself as separate, not singular. And singularity can be a very lonely place. A place without profit really.

It is given to the Christian Satanist to inherit the Earth. It proves that through God all things are possible. Whenever you see a very openly Christian person, in the course of their talk, ask yourself what makes them think they are so special. Are they spouting hell fire at you? Are they greedy? There is a story to be learned about humankind. How they so quickly fool themselves. That a small time humble preacher is saved. That one that becomes a mega preacher begins to ask themselves 'does God want me to be rich?' They will always answer that with a sort of 'I am blessed' answer. Yet while they sleep in Mansions and a rich bed there are those that are homeless and starving that they won't lift a finger for. Surely God doesn't want them to leave such luxury behind. I think they'd be more saved if they just confessed to God that's all they wanted to begin with. I imagine God would have appreciated that. At least a little anyway.

However they have stolen God's money in their ways. God sees they made themselves into a star on His stage. They talk the talk of money. Not Him. God's certainly paying him millions just for his mouth.

Certainly moderation is one of the most important things in life. That is to say, a balance. Not too much but not too little. It teaches things like no other thing could. Too much of a thing could harm. Too little could too. Even within ones interests it is so. That things could be so over used or seen that a person can no longer like what they used to.

As such Christian Satanism teaches itself. You will know when a thing is too much and when to turn to another.

The Gray Side is a thing whose time has come. Or at least a thing whose time is coming soon. It adds a whole new dimension to things, those other things over done. It has always been heroes and villains. While gray sided figures have been they have just been, not identified as such. As popular as they can be, we in particular will be. We just stand out more, controversially, and we symbolize something that people never thought they'd see. Both a Christian and a Satanist. Some will find it intolerable, others interesting, some will find it perfect for them, but most will have a hard time ignoring it.

"A THING THAT NEVER SHOULD BE DONE" I have gotten more than a handful of comments about it.

But it is a part of God's plan. It was born between heaven and hell as a compromise and formed thereof. It is not an immediately created thing but one hammered out. The final Church of God for example was said to have to contain the Name of Christ. Isaiah 14 states that Lucifer was the bright morning star. Revelations referred to Jesus as the same, "The bright morning star." With that the name of God's final Church must use the name Lucifer.

As any biblical person would tell you The Old Testament was in its entirety a prophesy of Jesus, the coming savior. It is all linked to Jesus. And as the New Testament says all will become Jesus, Christian Satanism is Satan brought to Jesus.

And as Isaiah also says (35:9; 65.25; 11:6-7) basically The wolf and the lamb shall feed together.

We are those whose sin doesn't harm. We are those whose sin doesn't get in the way of our religion, and sin itself is our spiritual path.

Set your spirit free. God will not abandon you.

The world is a wonderful place. That has never been more true throughout history. The world was made for humans. After the fall it was assigned to us as work. Most of the hard work here is over. After many thousands of years humankind has come to a place where he no longer has to toil. It was our purpose to rebuild paradise. The paradise God gave us, conditionally, could not be stolen. God did not leave us entirely, He never would. We made of our offspring prisoners. That prison however was ours to shape and form.

A new earth is coming. One transformed by our powers. Our ability to cultivate and put to use the earth was given in our hands with all the time we could possibly need to make it happen. Believe me, above all else, God will not just wad it up and throw it away. That was a promise God made to Noah. The old earth will be gone, and heaven will be in our midst.

What is more than too much good then weakness, worse: frailty. To surrender all of your possessions leaving you nothing. What is too much bad then to never do any good and experience a relationship, one giving, and in return loved. Driven into good, a person would sacrifice themselves. With too much selfishness one lies and harms others. To hate the world one would commit suicide. Would deprive themselves. But God does not want such evil for you. Evil to us, The Christian Satanist, is harmful excess with either one or the other.

There is a means to build people up. It is to balance them out. It is to acknowledge that too much good isn't good. Like a person that hands out all of his money. Her/his true friends will try and make them stop. They will not take their money. Which is truly admirable. The much lesser person though far more common will take at every opportunity and pretend to be their friend.

Time is called for sometimes to tell the truth. So often and much it is true that the truth will set you free. Such as a person whose friend committed a vicious murder. They are brought in by investigators. If they deny having been with their friend at all that night, and it is found to be untrue, they could very well have invited the same charges upon themselves, those for murder. The person who immediately goes to the police however could have very well saved their own life.

Any person found to lie is no longer trusted. A person who gives gifts too much is expected of. They are no longer gifts then. It is all within the balance I am speaking of. What greater thing can be learned from that in life than of balance? Even readily learned from. What more a very easy yet so incredibly beneficial a lesson than that?

God will give you a throne by certain means. To do good, to be responsible, truthful, and such things. There are those that will be ensnared. Those captured by evil. Whose lot is punishment. Then there are those who are blameless. The word blameless is a powerful one here. It means to have nothing to be blamed for. That you are doing no harm. Just like the wiccan says so may be said for us: harm none.

A part of it cannot be left out however. That is that at least a part of your meat comes from work and determination. One that if at all possible is never ceasing (not to say literally so but to say that most of your days are work, with days of rest to lesser extent.) We are truly blessed to serve two: God and Satan. However we serve the two to serve The One. Start by inquiring your purpose in all dedication and you will receive your answer.

I am the Devil's spokesperson. In some ways his representative. In other ways just a person who was handed the message that is Christian Satanism The Gray Gospel. Made unto a Gray Shepherd. The root of blessings and salvation for a Satanist. I speak under his name. You could say under "its" name, Lucifer Jeremy White. While the process of my name currently has given me one (Damuel) with the others to come someday. As such you can call me Damuel The Messenger. I am a figure not unlike Hermes.

Where will Christian Satanism take you? Largely where you will be taken. And may it lead you to greater things. May you form your life within it accordingly. May salvation be yours. Worldly pleasure too, a rare gift from God, even unto the heights of King Solomon.

Here is the way: balance, and its importance. There is not the way: things that would damn and tear your soul apart. Being kept whole, by God, by Satan, the friend whom we love. And continue praying for forgiveness along the way. Reject anything that imposes a block between you and him. Be wary of mighty walls one should never build up. From time to time pray, humbly, but always be truthful and candid. Let God know what you truly want and it will be yours. Just don't become spoiled or it may be taken from you.

And God is with us always. Do not consider yourself divided. God will make up for what you lack. He will find you when you are lost. He will not forsake or abandon you. His love unconditional, His blessing of Earth given to us in full. The Middle Ground, which is ours.

Take a walk with me into a world you've never before seen. Take my hand into that place and I will guide you into great things.

Chapter Three: Middle Ground, Eternal Resurrection into a new bed, the world is our lot, here is our home.

The Middle Ground, which is to say the in between place of Earth, is our land, treasure, and kingdom. It is a place assigned to us. Christian Satanism comes late in the earth cycle. As it is so with other worlds. The Christian Satanist is the Tree of the Universe. Its branches expand outward. However it is a heavenly kingdom "up" there in outer space, ruled by God. Not until good and iniquity combines is a world in its later stages, but that coming together is an indication it is so, and inevitable.

The most highly developed Christian Satanist will see new life in a new place, waking up in a new place, from place to place, throughout time. With the purpose of bringing Christian Satanism to different worlds. They will keep the youth of their bodies forever. Their body itself they will have, always.

Christian Satanism teaches its followers to anchor themselves into the world. At some point the spirit must break free and go elsewhere according to their purpose. They will meet a new people no longer awaking into infancy, but good and ready to share and teach Christian Satanism in that place.

Christian Satanists are created by God like all others are, but are given a dual image. That other being Satan. The image of God is one that returns to God. That old Satan, into the netheral, but first, to dust. We are Earth-Wise, incarnating heavenly into the earth. Destined for these things. With wings of angels we ascend into our nest, that God given nest found through Satan, where we will someday go, and then unto another.

Ask of God the psychic sense and it will reveal to you where you are going. Use music that you can visualize well toward to know the same. You will see before your eyes images and enigmatic things regarding the next place you will be. It will in part be revealed to you. You will be more ready.

I have been a part of five worlds already. Sefra, Ler, Link, Pippy, and Orion. I have taught about them in previous books (The Books of the Five Planets.) Have on occasion gone to them. In my youth I went to Orion often. I knew them in great detail. I was their father figure and teacher in many ways, and a part of their development. Later in life I came to know the others. Would talk to them and even sometimes was able to summon them. Only I could see them. Only I had the connection. Something like a telephone line that God established. Like a Schizophrenic person hearing voices that only they can hear. I learned that it isn't really demons that the magician summons so much as beings from other worlds. That a connection starts from imagination. From imagination to clearer images, to reality. So think often of these things and they will be revealed to you.

Chapter Four: The Gray Side by Example, by Essence, The Truly Gray Side

It is really as simple as the answer to a row of questions:

What is in between?

What is balanced?

How do those two serve a person best, including spiritually?

Is it moderation and not excess or insufficiency?

Not too high a mountain or too low a hill?

With questions like these one arrives at the gray side. Perhaps good and iniquity are very readily known. Just all of a thing. Gray sided things take a little more examination. They are, I feel, far superior however. Our knowledge doesn't come so cheap. We are juggling perhaps. We are placing things on the scale. We are adjusting things, even often. The more we do however the more gray sided we become.

It is a perfect thing. It is salvation not to drown. The salvation to not over or under work, it is beneficial to such an extent as to be absurd. These are the questions our religion asks us individually and our means and methods to be within a gray cycle of things.

Our ways are ways of health building, dual insight and broader perspective, moderation and balance. They give us the opportunity to fight for ourselves instead of stuck on the side of war bent people. We are uniters after all, not separators.

Imagination also does us good. Unfortunately grey sided things in entertainment are still sparse. Someday they will be very common. In the meantime imagination is needed to turn any given thing into that of gray sided figures. That may involve art, fan work, personal adjustment to any given thing, or just inner imagination at night before you fall asleep.

As a Christian Satanist I have made just regular pop music be my worship music for God and Satan. A thing for angels and demons, too. It isn't so much worship music as just regular music that I feel comes from God or Satan. Or is for God or Satan. If it is relatable to either, if it is the voice and message I wanted to either hear or say, it doesn't have to be literally Christian music or metal music in either case.

As a Christian Satanist I made a form of magic that I call "Taste Magic." We all know the communion. And it was from that which I created a form of magic I use. It began really with the importance I felt towards my family while in a rubber room in jail for a month. Founded through insanity really. Nonetheless a brilliant form of magic in which every taste/food is attributed to an idea. A wish maybe. A person. Eating any such thing keeps its idea with it which is a visualization towards.

I don't have twelve disciples but twelve names. They are the names of the figures I admire most, like from fiction. I draw inspiration from them. The list is very useful to me.

My art combines good and evil. Like sevens with sixes. Like upright and downward crosses in a twist.

Some other random duality based things is like a drink made from tea and coffee both, which so many would have one as their favorite but not the other. What about a hologram that shifts from Christ to Satan?

You have for each of your sides its own thing. You have a third for both. The Satanists choice. The Christian's choice. The Christian Satanist's choice. Such as for a favorite team of whatever sport: three teams. Same as for books, games, movies, styles, music, and so on and so forth. Just make that Christian Satanist one the most important, as it should be.

It is a whole new world we are exploring. I hope that things you never before considered start to reveal themselves.

Chapter Five: To Fully Embrace the World, Make it Your Pleasure

This is the world that gods have made, with a million hands. We, as gods, and the Bible teaches us, have made the place we are today over ages of time. The work continues. For some it is a difficult place. For others much work and others less. But to care about a person that care is unconditional. Those who will help the least of those who suffer help the world in full. Care itself brings about the inventions that make human kind stronger. So I'd never say that the homeless are worthless. That's something I would never say to begin with. There are those that care about them enough to make a change in the world that benefits us all, so let them.

We are no longer cave dwellers for sure. TV was entertaining enough. In fact radio was just about entertainment enough. But to see what we have today.. it is astonishing. We can eat from food grown all over the earth. We can pick our fish or our meat of any kind. We can buy so very particularly anymore due to internet. We can travel fast. We can communicate over long distances. We are very much god like.

Forget inflation: things are becoming better and cheaper at the same time.

Without appreciation however it just doesn't mean so much. Taking into consideration all of the good things you have can be important in life. Even if to go over them here and there. To not devour food so readily gotten, and to not glug a good drink as to take them for granted, just deprives. Positivity is important too. There's always a silver lining. There's the brightest of thinking and the dimmest. Unfortunately it is a process of thought that is lost because of things like TV. But all that is needed is perhaps an hour in the day to go over things in a positive manner while brushing away bad feelings. To "clean up" the mind. To sharpen it. To bring it life.

Chapter Six: The Christian Satanic Church

I can only imagine what kind of reaction it would cause to see a large sign bearing its name. While people have become familiar enough with Satanic churches I imagine a Christian Satanic Church would be far less agreeable. That aside, we have the right to create them.

Artistically the Church would include both demonic and angelic imagery. Black candles and white candles. Holy idols and iniquitous idols. That's understood simply enough.

Overall it would not be a traditionally designed Church. It is not a traditional Church. Some things are just all well kept. Only ours is a more gray sided shepherd at the pulpit.

I don't believe in exclusive rights for a Church. That only one body may be in charge. It isn't a thing of singular leadership. It is a thing for the people, not an individual. My books themselves are free. I've never said only I could teach and write about Christian Satanism. Which makes me different because all other religions only have one author/founder to go off of. Like Mormon, Islam, LaVeyian Satanism, Christianity, you name it.

"I'm the founder it's mine it's all mine! And nothing different!"

Those that create good things should be either funded or provided to. For example an artist, musician, or author should be paid to create or provided materials to help them do so. These are the things that would help our cause just by existing.

If there are votes needed towards decisions then sections can be made, each having a vote. Section 1, Christian, 2, Satanists, 3, Brotherhood, 4, Humanity, 5, Universality. Something like that. An enjoyable place to be. Not a place where you can't keep your eyes open. Maybe even very simply put together. I have made my books thin enough to be cheaply reproduced. They are all public domain books and I would not have any problem how they would be used. Either for profit or not. Believe me, only the cause matters to me.

Chapter Seven: Your Own Beliefs and Cultures Untampered with by those of others

When a person finds a religion acceptable for themselves they find a people they want to be with. They find those they want to learn from and enjoy their time with. They may find a style of work, like a cause to share and work on together. Christian Satanists believe in the separation of Church and State simply for the fact that it resulted from the harshness of Christianity imposing itself upon others. Children in school in that case. We fled the old world to escape Christian tyranny. Christianity showed itself to gallantly dictate the lives of others, very harshly, often cruelly. It couldn't be solved by outlawing religion. So it was a problem fixed by making all religious beliefs a right. I would say accordingly that the separation of Church and State was its kind of intention. People were free from spiritual philosophy ruling over them. They could follow it on their own terms after that.

Slowly however a new form of morality came to be. That new morality was based mostly on health and political correctness. Maybe people have it in their nature to be ruled over by ideas. In a better world people would believe "live and let live." I believe that people within groups and causes want power over others. They may lie to themselves and feel it is for the better good. Sometimes it is but it usually isn't. The more they can control others the better. They often make either themselves or others into victims that must be saved, thinking they are heroes, but sometimes are just wolf's in sheep's clothing with a villainous plot.

You may find some of them being like doctors that have invented false illnesses that must be cured. Or to take a traditionally accepted vice and magnify it as a greater problem. They will barrage its instigator into oblivion as close as they can. While the problem itself was just always menial or maybe due to irresponsibility. They fight for people who don't want to be cured. They may even raise laws against their vice wielding adversaries when in fact they are doing no harm to anyone but themselves. Then they are taken away from their families, or stripped of their jobs, or denied them, or other horrible things that are certainly the greater evil.

It is a new form of morality. You could say based on old standards people have become immoral. They aren't. They've just become moral in a different way.

People are expected to be involved in beliefs, cultures, these moral schemes, in an impersonal way not their own. They are stripped of their own due course. Their religious ideas are dismissed as nonsense. They have foes on every side robbing them of truly free religious practices by interference. We however are fully aware of these things and repel them as any good magicians would do. Being against their tampering we are fully engaged with our own culture: Christian Satanism, without their ploys. We have escaped from them into a hidden place: that of religion with its own place and time apart from theirs.

Nothing corrupts like a group of friends. We are law abiding and responsible peacekeepers. Without friends that get others into bad behavior a person could go very far. We encourage things like intellect and individuality, happiness, worldly pleasure and simple daily satisfaction. We would never sacrifice the individual to the group. Nor are we over loving which itself is harmful. We are fine to gather with magic into a coven. Or to pursue a philosophy that truly improves lives. We take on the more important matters, not those constructed by outside forces who are permeating the earth, robbing it of its good. While they are in a panic we are probably just doing something like sipping on a cup of coffee.

Do not be robbed by culturally popular mechanisms. They greatly hinder growth as an individual. They can twist and squeeze you dry dripping your soul out like blood on the ground from a murder scene. Unfortunately, they that are made by it lose their soul in the process. Those that are hit by it early on may not live to see a day of their own design.

Foolish choices accumulate and before you know it you are addicted to something or stealing from little stores, which happens all too easy. By choice many things will get far worse before they would lose their friends. They see their own kind for the first time, locked up somewhere.

As those that hold up signs for a cause, have in their hearts the dire need to save the planet, or writing an entire book based on modern simple minded things. It is better to at last open the eyes to see them as they truly are: as clowns.

Chapter Eight: Inheritors of the World

A good gift should be handled well and appreciated. Who would truthfully say that God would destroy the world and all of its sinners? God who made all things and has always conveyed the message "let them." While we bask in the warmth of life we are in a cocoon that establishes our future being on Earth. Our presence that is to be, as finalized beings, fully capable of living here forever and enjoying the lot that man has made. Our servants are human kind. They have been since the beginning. Our latter lot has been brought before us in full to enjoy. The time is at hand to take what has been made, but not before God places us into our role as gods here, as fully realized and rendered gods.

We are those who partake of a new fruit. The tree is one old, ancient you could say. That of both salvation and damnation, will receive eternal life here. With that life its kingdom, in all directions that you see, as well as all those unseen, even unto the entirety of The Middle Grounds. We are the prince, the princess, the royal of the earth.

The Church has not expected us. Neither did the people expect Christ but when found him were bitter of his presence. It is much the same as us. But for all things made, God has given. He gives to the most deserving. Those who are righteous yet hated. We are not an evil entity. We are God's work on Earth. We have been known and defined by time. Established and cured of sin just as equally. There is no man or people that can take from us what we have inherited.

So let us enjoy Earth together and in full. Because there are places we shall go which need our presence and guidance, not so much different than here. Even better places, places time and again until all are known and created under our guidance. Pray to God that you will find nothing but friends there and willingness to have you. Our work is great, our relaxation less, but by it we are whole.

He will treat us with the care of a newborn. He will send angels to wrap us in their wings. He has given us the Guardian Goddess Aeon. He has equipped us with the best knowledge of progress for the world and the its greatness as our reward. We are not souls trampled on by hooves but are galloped into a new day and time preserved for us. God rewards all those who love Him. We are a story buried deep. It is time we surfaced.

To see the greatness of the world is to see Him. To reveal our desires to Him is to accept the gift He has given us. To act in accordance with worldly desire and pleasure is to have taken the gift and work at the same time.

It is the lesson that God cannot be robbed. It gives the people the knowledge that God is not evil, not a blackmailer, not a hell fire God but a loving God. So very many Christians are only so because they are afraid of hell. Guilt ridden, due to the cross. A people who pray far too humbly, accepting God not as their God but their dictator. Our perspective on Christianity and Jesus Christ is not the same. We take the gift of salvation equally. But for us it is not coupled with fear.

Chapter Nine: The Message of Samael

Samael was The Balance. God assigned to him that purpose: of balance. He was an in between deity. He was the first truly Christian Satanic being. He resolved issues in a balanced way which pleased God. God knew that Samael was a very important being in His realm. It is from the love of Samael and balance that God understood The Gray and so He prepared it.. Having us in mind all the time. We born into heaven first as all humans are, were given the gifts and roles we would all play from the start to the finish.

In fact God knows all. So He gave the world enormous resources and had Samael protect the human race. He directed it into what it would become today. He prevented our species from extinction in the meantime.

God told Samael:

They are not those that accept my gift of Salvation, but are as those whose Savior is Judas.

And Samael fought for his people. He told God that while the people of Judas should find damnation those of Satan should not, for the Pagans are good people, "only lacking your message."

It was from this that the Catholic Church formed. It was from this that rituals were made of Christianity. It was from this that Christmas became Pagan. God found it to be a beautiful thing. While they were Christian Satanic they did not know it. In the centuries to come Christianity became greatly corrupted and God spoke to Samael again.

God told Samael:

My people have become corrupted. They have become murderous and vile.

Samael knowing this offered God his advice (and his wishes.)

Samael said: Send the people to a new land away from its tyranny. Establish them there in great freedom. Then you will at least know what humans truly are when they can act more freely.

So God did. He saw a conflict after that. He saw the sided minded nature of people. He saw the judgmental and the slaughterers, people that cared only about what side they were on. He saw the two fighting each other, constantly. Yet both had wonderful ways and knew all of that conflict could be resolved by uniting the people. He let the people grow into both sides, Christ's and the Pagan's. However they fell into atheism and secular ways and God felt alone again.

Samael came to God at that time and worked out a plan to create Christian Satanism. That was guided by my hands. That was spoken of by the voice of angels. Through turmoil given me even, even horrible states to undergo. As like going into hell to find a treasure. But also entering into heavenly states sometimes, as rapturous, indescribably euphoric. Heaven and hell I ventured into.

I should say here just what hell and heaven is. It is a presence, not necessarily a place. They amplify sensitivity a great deal. Nothing is subtle in those places. People as we knew them are unmasked. The sounds of their voices speak much about their feelings. Some things sound totally sexual whereas a normal listener would not perceive that. Some of what people say sounds totally moronic. Music that is perhaps just regular old rock music has a feeling of great evil to it.

Reality is found through fantasy. All things mean something. All things mean a lot more. Any given thing can mean any given thing and yet all be true. Heaven is a brilliant feeling peace. Hell is a beautiful suffering.

Through hardship I wandered off into insanity. Through madness and homelessness I was taught, in such a hidden way. It was when I came back together that I was able to continue my work on Christian Satanism. I was able to look back on the things I had been taught and bring them together into new books for the religion. It began with The Christian Satanic Bible. That book took 6 years to finalize. After that though I have written many more books about it. First the punishment for having stopped, but due to what happened Christian Satanism became excellently better.

Those books are free and in public domain. I had gained the psychic connection needed to do so. I have had the answers found through the thoroughness needed to make it all that it should be. And I pray for Samael to be with us always. Which is not a prayer of worship but one of friendship and gratitude. Hales- Nema, So Noted in Memory.

Chapter Ten: The Secret of the Unstolen Soul

Christian Satanists were assigned a different sort of position and rank than the angelic, or other forms of beings that God has created, from Cherubim to Jinn. God has created many different kinds of beings. Those beings themselves have done so as well, but what role does a Christian Satanist play in the scheme of things? That answer is coupled with the one of what a Christian Satanist is to become.

We are born again beings who are at the same time born differently. We are also born-into We grow with Christian Satanism. We are princes of the world (as either gender) its inheritance is ours.

Nothing picks up pride like a new set of clothes. No other thing is needed to be a Queen or King than a good throne. A good throne is nothing more than a nice seat, good food, a good drink, comfort and entertainment. From that seat you should write or create (the thing you wish to, which would help our cause and presence on Earth.) I am sure in no time I will train you accordingly for leadership.

Popular devices all too often rob a person of individualness. I say “blend in,” and “when in Rome,” otherwise you will come across as strange. The unique self should be however, even if hidden. Worldliness is a thing of modern issues and concerns that don’t relate to us and the culture taken from it is not our own. So go forth privately in the world, discreetly enough making a difference. If you find friends along the way then you will have found a family of people who share the same interests as you and can form a group or Church. I am sure in fact that God will guide you into making it so.

It is those among us who listen the most carefully that will do the best. They that transform the world with the knowledge it provides will help in its evolutionary course. They that find missing pieces or can add to what is already there in a worthy way will be considered the best among us. Angels have a way of speaking secrets, even unintentionally. The knowledge we carry runs deep. There are many books of it all and they include even books that seem unrelated.

The rarer books themselves have the quality of containing a knowledge hidden. The same goes for things like music. A particularly skilled magician can pull a rabbit out of the hat like it came from Alice in Wonderland, or a turtle out of its shell. Are people that procure knowledge even from video games. That starts by knowing a thing well more than the looking. It requires a depth of thought while reading or looking into any given thing and not taking anything for granted.

In the process of it your Satanic side is best formed. It must be formed from the lesser known/enjoyed. In fact if that's the only way you are Satanic, it is the best way to be so.

May you become a leader of uniqueness and not just a clone of another. Some education however is indispensable. Pagan ways, usefulness in context, superior knowledge, transformative depth, and broader perspective without bias getting in the way (by imposing itself) among them. As for being an author the best way to start is with a draft then to go from there. Going from there means that you just improve your book over time. A simpler thing could be worked on. Such as poetry that is loaded with good ideas even if it is poor structurally. Or to draw a little each day then to scan it all into a book. I have an underappreciated art book. Its only flaw is its title! Assign yourself each day a certain number of pages. Work on that during the day before you do anything else. Reward yourself later, especially with pride. The good thing or the good things about writing: you can do so anywhere. Computers, especially smart phones, are very lending toward the practice. No more do you have to carry around a large type writer, for sure. It is a job in the pocket. It is a job at the park, coffee store. Books contain more information than anything else. More than a song, more than a painting. When a book is done it is done forever. You post it online and after that it works for you. It will always be around.

People like me who don't want Children or highly personal relationships find other children to make. My children are my books. They talk too, with their own time, place, and personality.

Chapter Eleven: How to Act on Purpose

With devotion: ask Satan and God. Then it will be made known to you. It is a personal matter. It is a determination among choices. Some are, more than anything else, happy to give. Some have decided to invent things that would help others. Whatever your choice is that choice is the right one. Even if it doesn't make you happy so much as spiritually satisfied (or are those two the same?) These things change over time, too, which is bitter sweet. It's good to get into something new and appealing. It's awful that you didn't go as far as you think you would have. A thing half done is bad in all cases.

The two easiest ways I know of to get rich is to get a good education or to invent something. That is unless it is inherited, which is unlikely. Inventions require thought. They sometimes require greater or lesser education, but general education is just fine. As for corporate things a knowledge of history is highly beneficial. So many seem to fail for the same reasons. My education stems from video game companies. I know broadly the extent to which they've failed: too high of costs, outdated formats, difficulty to program for, lack of advertising, poor advertising, over abundance of poor software. I am not a programmer though. I don't think I am so much interested in actually programming however than I am giving the story and ideas for the game. Similarly I like to write music but not to play it.

Your reward will be there with you wherever your heart is with it. It is a guiding force that unfortunately some people don't have. A purpose doesn't have to pay you in physical-world cash. Though naturally we want to be paid professionals over being considered just hobbyists at what we do. We have to start somewhere and along the way we may even hear that knock on the door but without trying we both know it is impossible and that we never even tried. It's so sucky that sometimes we don't even become famous until our death. They'd make fun of a musician even in their later years then when they die 'boom' people can't stop talking about them, full of praise.

Not surprised if more than one celebrity killed themselves that way.

There are imitators that so often go nowhere. It is the innovators that go far, not the imitators. Not those that "clone" another thing. It is a cheap buck for the imitator but not much cash gotten. Nor any semblance of originality alongside. I'd compare Mortal Kombat with Street Fighter 2. Street Fighter 2 influenced Mortal Kombat but those that made Mortal Kombat had their own ideas and way to do the same thing. No one ever said "that was just a copy of Street Fighter 2." It is in fact just like they wanted to do such a thing before they even saw the game. They were just missing a little something. Not a lot of something. More like "oh, that's what I've been wanting to do." In this case it is like The Devil woke them up.

Inspiration counts for a lot. Immersion into favorite things in order to know what is good and why it is, to not be "dry." Every movie is largely the same of what had been around already in different places. They are just pieced together differently from story to story. They are the same basis sometimes, just done in a different way. Instead of a destructive sphere a large cube, or like in LEXX one a pyramid shape. Mantrid Drones instead of clones or BORG. Altogether copying something however just comes across as a mutated offspring. It brings the thought 'this sure is ugly.' They are highly familiar with it based on what it copied, and it ain't pretty. People who make good things are always inspired. Companies that have engaged their employees have always done better. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

The magician should know that the problem with perfectionism is that it may be going in the perfectly wrong direction. The direction of perfectionism is not always good. The further that has gotten into the worse it will become, in fact. It can also close the eyes to better things. They may get too involved into things trifling, struggling to make that good, not knowing why it can't be. In such a case they should abandon that and work into a different more worthwhile place.

Two heads are certainly better than one. While we often tell ourselves "I wish I had thought of that" it was more difficult to have done so than we realize. It is difficult to be the best. You must decide if you'd accept second best, or third best. You must know clearly what your product will lead to. Some are all too sure that what they've made will immediately reach the top. That kind of encouragement itself is good. However it can cover up the truth and even the best of things in what could have been fail. Mushroom land is a wonderful place, if not strange. It is strange and wonderful both, however, and possible only by its creator. But first there was a lesser thing. Without that start it would not have become what it did. It would not have become anything.

To be the best one must not settle too easily. To continue being the best they must not tarnish their own product too much. Things of former glory turn into a convoluted mess and that is a thing far too common. They'd turn a fun cartoon into a boring life like movie. They'd been given more on their plate more and more until the meal itself is no longer desired, not a thing of familiarity but a strange and unfamiliar meat. If it was a sibling it would not at all appear related. The original idea packed its bags up and left a long time ago.

People want a fresh breath of air. They want an array of things: the fun, the style, something they can relate to, a proud thing, accomplishment. They don't want something boring no matter how much it sets up or explains the story. They want an escape. They don't want something that is just the same throughout. They want a quick background of someone they are curious about. They want the emotionally sticking, the compelling, the engaging, but they want different things. Some want to cry to a movie, some want a villain and another a hero. So it's often a process of knowing your audience and appealing to all who would be involved.

Just be wary of getting too involved with things already done too much. That novelty no longer is. Such as means of controversy. If you are to be controversial it must be in a new way. That may be where you don't expect it. A Satanic Church is nothing new. A Christian Satanic Church is. Or a Satanic restaurant. Some drink place maybe. One with Satan glorified on disposable cups. One with body of Christ snacks. That's controversy!

Chapter Twelve: Dispelling the Hell Fire Christian

According to what I represent I have gotten some obnoxious comments from Christians and they almost always involve hell. It is like a weapon to them. Like they are in the mob and The Big Boss has a hit on me. He doesn't. God loves me. He appreciates me. I am doing His will. I'm sure that if someone told them the same thing they'd get a lot angrier than I would. They are in fact a lot closer to hell than I am.

They who spout hell fire aren't coming from a place of help but desired destruction, awesome to full extent. They secretly feel that Christianity is too much work. They don't know that's what's going on either. They want to be left alone. They yearn to be fully engaged in sin. It is like "Christ died on the cross for me and you don't care, so you can die along with him."

They enjoy more an evil side to Christianity that mostly involves the Old Testament. If they were to honestly pray it would be "God grant me the ability to burn the heathens and rule under your Name." They suffer under the Stockholm syndrome more than anything else in all of creation.

Christianity has a way of creating magicians, "sorcerers," Devil Worshippers. Imagine the strictness of a biblical parent that "spares not the rod." While at Church the evils of the occult are preached. Some sort of compelling force lent well to. It takes a young Christian person to appreciate the dynamics of the occult and Satanism. Magic is appealing on many levels: its power, its freedom, its natural self defense mechanism. So a Satanist is born from Christianity. They may find themselves going back and forth from Christianity and Satanism. As a Christian they had a loving heart toward God and Christ. It was never fully abandoned. Salvation for awhile becomes fun. Through all of this a Christian Satanist is born. I know this very well. It happened to me.

I say have fun with them, give them an exorcism. They aren't the only ones who have fun with Christianity. There are those that walk up on stage and are miraculously healed by the mega preachers. I had communion time in my youth at Church. They gave out grape juice instead. I didn't know what that was all about, the little piece of bread and tiny thing of juice on the tray. I chosen to be baptized when I was very young. Can't remember the exact age. 10 or younger, even 7 years old.

When I was a teenager I went off into the desert aways in Arizona. I went there with my girlfriend and cousin to perform a Satanic ritual. I had everything I needed and we performed a ritual at an abandoned and collapsed home. My uncle was different than "fire sharing Christians." When he found out about it he told me that the only thing that mattered was that God was in my heart. There are those who would become shocked and spit hell fire things in my face, but he wasn't one of them.

There are those who are completely understanding and those entirely not. Prisons have at times refused to let inmates carry Satanic books. They'd probably try to cut my Christian Satanic Bible in half. Though in fact I had no problem at all getting my own book into jail with me. People there quite liked it, too. There are some though that think horror movies are fine. All of them, no matter how murderous the mad man, but when it has the Devil in it that is unacceptable.

Then there are those closet Christian Satanists that secretly like shows and movies with demons and Devils, Satan and Lucifer in them. I say that any Christian who is trying to save souls miss the point. It isn't their soul to save, more importantly, Jesus saves, not them. It is not based on their guidelines. It isn't based on the approval process that they manifest. It isn't even theirs to truly know who is saved and who isn't, and it isn't their place to judge.

Chapter Thirteen: Christian Satanic Art (And Design)

Worry not of creating idols. They are fine. The best are carefully carved out of wood and contain special metals. If Christian Satanism had a stone it would be crystals. They are magic, yet poor, magic but not illustrious.

Prayer sheets are sheets of paper that have prayers written on them after being specially prepared. They have ribbons on their borders stapled and glued on. They may include either drawn or printed on imagery, or stickers. You could include glitter glue. They may contain Christian or occult symbols (or both.) On these sheets your prayers are made.

Those papers are put into a folder and tithes are placed on. You could use any kind of coins. I like to use foreign coins I purchased online in bulk. Or you may use foreign bank notes say, that are laminated. After that you take a folder.. the folder itself may have the coins taped on to it. Feathers are placed inside, taped inside if you like. Then these are just closed up and it is your choice to store them away or just throw them away. In any case just know that higher beings have observed them. Some say that Gehenna (Hell) as referenced in The Holy Bible was just a pit in Israel where trash was burned.

As for drawings and art that is Christian Satanic they include the yin yang, twisted crosses, some up right, some downward, 6s with 7s, upright and downward triangles, the number 8, white feathers, black feathers, or just to say it more basically: Christian things and Satanic things brought together.

Chapter Fourteen: What Earth and Life is Really About

Since the fall Earth has been a prison. The forbidden fruit was sex. God did not want his creation of man and woman to procreate. If they did, they'd have to have committed incest. Seth and Cain had no partner other than their mother. God prevented humankind from becoming godly eternal life beings on earth procreating. That wasn't the plan He had for them. He didn't throw them out to punish them. He did because it was the only choice He had.

Earth is like a prison. It is humankind's purpose to work on Earth. We have seemingly limitless resources. There are no lack of things to use and discover. The world itself keeps us going. We are always having to eat. We are always having to build shelter. We are mortal. Life here is cruel. It doesn't care about life so much as its regeneration. Survival is secondary to regeneration. If a thing becomes too much then it is devoured and if it is too great to be devoured it is ravaged by disease that hidden weapon.

What is all the work for? For one it teaches higher beings. For another it is for humanity to become as gods. Not by God's hand, maybe with a little help, but largely by our own hands. There is no escape until we reach that point and rise to the heavens. There is no interference allowed either. That is why we never see aliens. We know there is more than meets the eye, but those things cannot be seen.

No one enters into such a place without being in heaven first. Heaven means space, just remember that space is more mysterious than we know. We don't remember being in heaven because we came here as infants whose brains we have become trapped in. We ourselves can't remember things earlier than 3 years old. My earliest memory however was saying to myself "well here I am." However that brain we entered into doesn't hold the memories of heaven.

Taking into account the great ball of fire in the sky, that thing we dare not look at, but goes its course and keeps things shifting, keeps life alive, indicates more of what I am saying. It was made to last practically forever. We are in a system we can depend on. God made these physics. Physics elsewhere could be entirely different. Gravity keeps us here like a ball and chain. We have to go find water, prepare for the winter, etc. We have to keep active and keep working else we will find great pain, suffer, and die.

As for the question "what did I do to deserve this?" I can't really answer that. Except that we are the lucky ones. We came late. We came when things have gotten far and enormously better. Those ahead of us are even more fortunate. Our work materials, science, will lead people into immortality. I haven't a doubt.

Things like this are too perfectly designed to be accidental. We didn't come from apes. The Bible more accurately translated states that the world became void and desolate. It was like a wasteland tinkered with. It is like being sent to Australia.

Whether or not they know it this is the most Christian Satanic generation that's ever been. People are gray to great extent. It is the type of people most needed in the latter days. People were given two choices. Freedom to operate on two choices, and they have come to accept both. They are only going after advantage, a balance of the spiritual and material. They may not take their spirituality from Christianity always, usually from Buddhism in fact, but they take certain parts out of that spiritual side. Those usually being things like material gain.

Maybe the mega preachers who have their pockets lined are themselves Christian Satanists. I wouldn't count it out. That is, unless, they are liars. They shouldn't lie to themselves either that Christianity is obtaining them Satanic gains.

The people of today are very gray. The times made it so, naturally. First there is good. Then comes evil. Then comes freedom. Then comes both.

They need a new hero. A gray one. They are finding them too, all the time. They may not literally know their heroes are both good and bad. There is the hero that crosses the line and by choice decides to double down on defeating the villain, then their selves questioning their morals or something. Then for the first time starts to understand that they are not too much different from their prey. That they must fight fire with fire.

Like the magician that refuses to use magic to destroy but in the end must do so, as there just wasn't any hope for their foe who willfully destroys. It is like coming to an understanding that they must be gray. That for the better food they cannot restrict their choices. A gray coming into age. The age of today doing so as well. It is like a hero that has an enormous power in his pocket. He tried to change his foes. He tried to bring them to understand that people should not be hurt. He fought his foes and did all to bring them into reasoning but when it all failed with but just a lift of his hand he sent them all into some sort of twisted dimension, hell.

It's funny how people go back and forth so much with health facts. First they say "it is harmful," then, "in told high an amount," then land on, "but is good for you if not overused."

Yet people have not so much yet liberally designed the Gray. They will begin to, and someday soon.

Chapter Fifteen: A Relationship With God, The Devil, Angels, And Demons

People make a truly awful mistake. They treat them like they are all the same (God, The Devil, etc.) So they worship them all the same: much like slavish servants who must be super humble. That is a bad and harmful way to identify with them. It is much better to be children underneath them. As such, childish, and in the long term lovingly formed instead. God is unto you largely the way you've established your relationship with Him. Satan too, and it's true in any relationship.

There is the type of worship music that is dull and serious. My worship music comes from things like pop music. The lyrics don't even have to match. The song may be about a human being but they may just as well be for God or the Devil, in certain songs.

Magic is largely a relationship between you and deities. Maybe some rituals aren't even by themselves magic, but when they call on deities you have come to uphold, they become an act of magic. Not even by any other way. Rituals are made for them and little else matters.

A Christian Satanist prays honestly. That is a part of their prayer code. The others are: normally (to talk to God like you would talk to your friends), openly (to not hide your true self from Him), and lastly, to not pray with disrespect.

When you have moved from having God as your overlord into having God as your friend, then your relationship can really begin and move forward. Have general thanks but as a Christian Satanist don't just assume that God gave you any given thing. For all you know it could have been given by Satan.

However one of the most important things I can add is that if Christianity begins to overpower you then you must lash out against it. You must not have your Satanic side removed by it. Nor the other way around, your Christian side. However it is more likely for your Christian side to try and gain great power over you. Pray to God always that you keep that balance as a Christian Satanist. If Christianity is overtaking you then just go over in your mind just what evil is becoming in your mind. All of its flaws and wretchedness trying to take over. Why it is a crooked philosophy that is trying to take over you, fears, insecurities, etc. just as many Christians have fallen prey to.

To cover here as well relationships in general among Christian Satanists:

I wouldn't impose strict rules upon you. Other religions have already mastered that.

Rather I would just offer sound advice. I used to go to a church that had you walking around suddenly to shake everyone's hand. Everyone you saw. In fact that was the first Church I attended in my life. It was done in the name of brotherly love but felt awkward. I could swear Paul was hitting on me sometimes. It's too much love for me. Too out of place.

I was a shy person in my youth but sometimes loved my gatherings. Especially those on my birthday which my loving parents organized for me. There were so many. On every birthday and more: on Halloween, Christmas, Easter, etc., even May Day. During May Day the School wrapped a ribbon around a pole as over and under, like a braid, to Pachelbel's Cannon.

Halloween may have been the best. We had a carnival type thing in elementary school with such neat little prizes. I remember it all very well.

My point is that gatherings are a lot more important to them than for us. Family is important. Religion shouldn't get in the way of it. There are those that have a family and should focus on it. Church of course as attended could teach a lot to both children and adults.

There was this Church camp I went to when I was 8 years old. It was at Pike's Peak in Colorado. Church was all day. There were some precious moments of fun and the environment of mountains and things was great. Overall it sure ruined it for me though, having to attend so many sermons. We did though climb to the top of Pike's Peak. For some reason I called it Devil's Peak for years after that. Maybe for the same reason I called my favorite birthday cake "Devil's Cake" when it was Red Velvet Cake. After years my mom corrected me and said "but I know what you mean."

Christian Churches can be very boring, naturally so. Of course some are willing and able, the Bible is difficult to understand but important to so many. We are not, completely, a Christian Church however. What their right design is, isn't ours. I would include learning in any Church but I would also include any entertainment based learning. To create a good place to be instead of some sorrowful penitent dungeon that captures you every Sunday.

If any among us has leadership over others that is fine so long as it is not power-forced upon them. As long as the leaders do not impose dangers on the non adherents they would collect. That includes spiritual types of threats. It should be made clear that we do not force others into our religion using hell fire methods. This way all leaders are qualified. They are more accurately teachers then, than rulers. Let not anyone be fooled by Christ's return in the flesh, either.

In order that what we are isn't made into a cult then certain rules must be made. Rules like non separation of followers and family. No forced isolation. Caution against becoming too involved with our doctrine except on a personal and harmless basis. Really a lot of rules don't even have to exist to make it so, as long as they are followed.

Just try to be polite. Be mature. Do not collect into groups and wage war unless both sides agree to the fight. Certainly never bully, as pathetic insecure cowards do. In fact defend the lesser person and fight for equality among all.

As for leaders beware of them that love to spend our money on frivolous things in the name of good.

Chapter Sixteen: Life Found and Formed of the World

Producing spiritual growth through worldly things is uniquely Christian Satanic. Spiritualists that live on bread and water could find greater peace and satisfaction from the world but that knowledge is wrenched out of them. First appreciate food and drinks. Let them not be carelessly wasted. Amplify your appreciation for your things as much as could be. Reflect on them at least a little each day. You will see you have a heart that may have not been there before. Sure you could lose it all. Will die someday among it all. But it is a good way to live and die, having lived a good full life before that time, and you will always have some place from which to start again. Simply put into the saying “better to have loved and lost to have never have loved at all.”

After all if you’ve never had you’ll never have found a thing to fight for. Starting from rock bottom is easier. Build the same home you’ve built before. Instead of living in a desert or refusing to walk to the water that is nearby, go where good things are found.

How love of such things is good is that they give you a reason to live. They bring contentment. They quench our thirsting needs. They compel. They build desire up and transform our souls into searchers for the worthwhile, driving us forward. You may not have a car but you have a motor. You may not have a house but sometimes you get a brick. To be just halfway there is to be at least a little happy and hopeful of what may become. Often to build up slowly is to build up perfectly. The promise of a new day is with them. Their time comes around occasionally when they can go farther. With every new class completed they are closer to their goals and some would say it isn’t the destination, it's the journey.

Whatever can be gotten that would make daily life better should be considered.

Whatever makes your home better should be too.

Whatever helps with cleaning, that too.

Rewards gotten for yourself in times you deserve it, are especially good.

Hoarding? That’s just when you don’t put your stuff away.. into tubs, cabinets, large dressers, compartments, instead of throwing things anywhere and everywhere. When people collect they do so to get everything of it and to always have it, which is fine, except when it comes to food!

Sometimes a nice meal is deserved. To buy food enough to live off of for sure, but a good meal when at all possible/practical. Sometimes brand new clothes. Things of your own tastes carefully crafted over time. Discovering your own taste in things, as the markets of today more greatly allow. Things of nostalgia if they make you feel better, even just on a coffee cup. A nice ice maker or electric kettle if they help. Whatever it is there are so many possibilities. So many choices! And it both requires and is worth a lot of thought.

Try to buy the thing that is just one better than you would have. You so often get what you pay for. In fact with just a little more spent you may be surprised at how much more the quality of the thing is. More than once I went with the cheaper option. I've known those that bought a dozen batteries at a rock bottom price (that weighed as much as toothpicks) actually mad at how little power they held. If the meat is cheap you are probably eating tongue.

Intuition is important and trustworthy. You can rely on it. You may not know why you want something. It can be so simple too, like a green cup. When this happens then you should act on it or it would just keep bothering you. Once you get it you will be happy to have it and that's all that matters. I've experienced it often that I thought I didn't need something but after I got it I began using it often.

Buy spares. In fact try to keep three of every thing you need. That may be earbuds, daily things you depend on, for example. By having at least as many you'll never be on your last one, "a spare for a spare." Believe me I've known so many people who do not and it costs them. They come to me for chargers or earbuds because "they ran out." Then there is of course the reason to that is just because something bad may happen with your income or you lose it altogether. Which can happen to anyone and if it does they are just out of luck.

This is just some of the advice I have when it comes to buying things. I have put a lot of thought into my expenses, they have never been that great so I had to make the best of things. Whatever it is you buy that you truly enjoy is not a mistake. At least it isn't if it doesn't lead to suffering in some other area such as starvation.

Chapter Seventeen: The Creation/Realizations of New Worlds

When I was young I came to understand a world called Orion. It asked me to create itself, and I did. I gave much thought toward it and built it up through and through. I came to know and understand it better. Things became more quickly known of me through it. I spent many years after that speaking to it and visiting its inhabitants. It was a child of mine that asked to be born and I raised it into full being until it could stand and walk on it's own. It is a place I will return to someday but not until I am called forth. It is much the same manner in which Jesus came here. I created Orion as a Father. I will return there as a Son. One made of them. As made as them.

To see into the heavens is to see into a profoundly great expanse. A great deal more than we can comprehend, space goes on further than we could ever know. The only "nothing" there is, is dark matter. Otherwise space goes on uninterrupted forever. Out there are all ideas and things we conceive there, somewhere, though very far away indeed, somewhere it is.

If you come to know that place it will come to know you. You are, after all, its creator. Or at least an identifier of a place that identifies you, for you think it so. You are thinking of a place that thinks of you.

It's a long road you are on. Time to make a place of your own is time well spent. A great mystery in the universe is open for you to know. Today may be that day when your heart asks what place is out there for you to know. It will slowly form after that. Then though after a little time you will come to know a place well and belong to it. That is the purpose of The Vadic/Yasatic/Christian Satanist.

It is not magic that makes it be, it is just faith. Our image comes from God and like God we create.

Alphabets and Language

For every letter in the alphabet a new symbol. You'd be surprised at how quickly these could be memorized. Symbols should be found through similarity however instead of created based on nothing. The place to start is by looking through films, cartoons, video games, books, and history of old alphabets to find what you are looking for. What's more they have to be those that are related to your world. As well what world you would create may have to be created from what you find instead of Visa versa. For example you are looking for newly created magic symbols from movie to movie to find symbols to include in your alphabet.

Then one day watching a random show the beginning of that alphabet will show itself to you.

As for sounds for that alphabet they are best a collection of previous sounds for ancient words. For example the word for Devil as it sounds in a mix of languages, shortened, "summed up," brought into one. Letters themselves can be gathered and formed similarly.

Astral Travel

At an early age I found a phenomena occurs from astral projection. That at night I would practice it then during sleep I would be trying to reach heaven, though never quite fully could. My interest in heaven was getting in the way. Then I found that my desires and intention were all wrong. After that I could perform astral projection just fine. You see images in the process. They come clearly, as such that you know they are not generated by you but by where you have sent the eyes of your spirit. It is a warning true and stated by other magicians that you could momentarily lose your soul during astral projection. That is more mind based, however. That's because it confuses the mind and the mind (consciousness) may not know for a moment where it is. Though it is a very scary feeling don't let it stop you. Fortunately the mind is excellent at pulling itself back together. Just stop in those moments and breath.

After that's been said Astral Projection is done easily enough and can lead you into areas of the universe only you could know. I advise you to use visualization to help you with that further, which I am going to elaborate on below. They go hand in hand, after all. There are two important things to know: it is to receive, not to form. Your mind must be open to receive the images. You are not trying to imagine something. You are trying to just see. It is not actually a far jump skip and a hop away to make it happen. The mind often sees things far away as long as it is trying to look. They can be very far away, or even nearby. When the scientist asks for proof of these things, what can the magician say? "I am seeing () in an apartment a few blocks away, go look?"

Just remember it is a vision received and not one concocted for yourself. You may be lucky to see 10 seconds of one to begin with but with practice you can see it extended much further.

Consecration

This is temple work regarding your new world/ world newly discovered and aligned to you. It is very important. In the long run you may even create an all new religion based on it, and nothing could be a better help. If not a whole book about it or a large Church created around it, at least a kind of coven worshipping the same place. If it is solely done then candles and prayers are used, rituals perhaps, and any form of magic you prefer. Those can include just about any pre-existing form of magic: the Tarot, scrying, spells, herbal magic, etc. One of the better ideas however is for idols that take on the form of aliens dwelling there (which by the way may be entirely humanoid if you wish, or of diverse species.)

So then create a coven. A "Coven of (the world's name)" and see how far it will go.

Films, Books, Stories

This could very well be the most difficult thing to do but the most beneficial. The thing is, it can't be done at all until you have established all the world you created. It may very well spoil itself if it is done before the other things. Your place would not have gained a root. So it is very important to grow it before you uproot it. As for short stories however they are good to create, as soon as you can. They can include "a story of your visit," or "The prophet who found me," for some imaginative examples.

New Foods/ Herbal Magic

A communion between you and the world afar does well to connect you to it. Pray along with food providing you "the nourishment of creation." You can as well use herbs in pill form according to the effects attributed to them. "Magic potions of life," potions of unity between you and them. With the power of magic connect yourself with them based on the things you eat and drink.

Numerology

A thing more randomly created could be a good thing. That piece by piece, by design, are formed based on the roll of a dice that determines the shape of things. To receive answers that way knowing that magic can manipulate the dice.

Taste Magic

Taste magic is when you associate tastes with visualization. Each taste is given an idea, people, place, or thing. For example a corn chip your brother, a crown on your head, a revolt, whatever you wish to give it to. Tasting is important in this. To enjoy what is being eaten and to eat it slowly. Candy is very nice to use in it. Before you begin, just take a group of foods, organize it, then make of it what you planned it to be, in meaning.

Imagine also that the food you eat is being eating by them. As such, bring food into their world.

Visualization

It is a very good idea to have certain symbols as well as symbology associated with your new world. That could be as simple as a triangle or something more complex that you have made yourself good at imagining.. exactly. I am always disappointed when I see how others visualize. They go over mundane things like beaches, simple things without anything abstractly formed. Forming from the abstract is more magical, more meaningful, more special feeling, than the methods they use. When you close your eyes and wander around seeing profound things then you are a magician who uses visualization right, and not before then.

A level of imagination is essential as well. I used to imagine drumming on the heads of my enemies, all goofy faced. After you do these things for awhile they become quite pleasurable. I follow a light into the hidden places of my mind. I imagine every cell transform and heal my body, helping the others out. I find a profane Satanic ritual being performed, An evil scene of blood and goats and symbols.

Imagine yourself there and being married unto their world. Imagine yourself as their Father or Mother sitting beside them, talking to them, and they will be heard.

The Rest: prayers and conversations, just speaking to your creation. Drawing of them in notebooks.

At the end of it all your adventures should be well documented into a journal- among which the best of Christian Satanic books are formed.

Chapter Eighteen: Guardian Goddess Mother Aeon

Be aware that we have our Guardian Goddess Aeon. Communication with her may be limited- even strictly so, but our Guardian is there. Our master, the one who guides us and watches over us. Know as well that others have their watchers and over seers. Depending on your importance in the world, more or less, things for you have been plotted out. In your handling of people, the workings of your mind, will not go unnoticed. So as to do good you will be rewarded by the higher powers. Think not a thing will go unnoticed, whether for reward or punishment. In all of this may you find a good place in the world as purchased during your time here. May your advocates fight for what is best.

Mother Aeon is with us to protect us and guide us through life. She is a Guardian Goddess, not an angel. She is worshipped through visualization treated as such like a Great Mother. She is our councilor. She is such an entity of wisdom. With that wisdom we grow as Christian Satanists.

We are wrapped in her black wings. We receive nourishment from her. We learn from her. We achieve greater things through her. She is perfectly so a mother who guards and guides us. She will give you all things you need to grow. We erect idols for her. We pray before her. We see her with the eyes of magicians. That third eye most importantly as one founded upon magic.

Without her we are unguided, incomplete. She is the middle of existence for us in which we dwell beside her, preventing excess of either way, returning us to the middle road. She is the true Gray Sheppard. She is both the helping hand of God and Satan. She is the sum and total of Christian Satanic existence. When art is made for her it is of duality. The only prayers she will hear and answer are only those that are gray, from the gray. The gray can speak to her. The others cannot.

In visualization see her as a Mother, a Goddess, a Gray Shepherd. See her as a loving being. Through hatred she isn't known, for she has only love for us. That love will carry you through both the darkness and the light. She wields not a sword but a lantern. Not a rod but a shield.

In her temple are found things that are gray. From idols to sigils and symbols, ritual items and altars, candles and all else, well balanced, and when brought together they conjure her and invite her into your life.

She is the child born of both darkness and light. She was created by Christian Satanism. She is its sum and total. She is where all of its energy leads. She is the result of that seed. She is our tree and fruit. Our source of life. And now she dwells with us beside the waters.

Chapter Nineteen: The Inverted Pentagram Has Turned Upright

Or maybe it has turned just halfway to stay, as a Christian Luciferian Pentagram.

The light of Lucifer has come into the world for the sake of rapid progress. The Church of Lucifer has begun to be established. It will replace the former Church, that of Christian Satanism.

His name meaning bringer of light as illustrated by comparing him to Venus (the morning star) which before it fades just before dawn, new light comes. So then he is "the light of a new day." He is not "The Prince of Darkness." I, Jesus, have sent my angel to give you testimony for the Churches. I am the Root and Offspring of David, and the bright Morning Star Revelation 22:16.) May this flame be found still burning by the Morning Star: the one Morning Star who never sets, Christ your Son, who, coming back from death's domain, has shed his peaceful light on humanity. (Easter Proclamation- Roman Missal.)

Lucifer is God's most perfect being. The equation of Lucifer is speed plus quality. The power of Lucifer is quickness and power, like lightning. It is of his pride to don the most precious of jewels, the best of clothing. Lucifer is wise, beyond measure. He is a being of greatness for sure.

The world itself invited him in. After which great progress was found and things were put into order. Lucifer is a being of both the dark and light. He is darkness with an inner power to lighten. His name means Light Bearer, some would say Enlightenment. He is an immortal being who was assigned to shape the world, to evolve us.

It is a biblical truth that Jesus was Lucifer (Revelations 22:16. & Isaiah 14:12.) He carried the weight of the world on his shoulders. He paid the price for corrupting humankind. He had everything good. He sat at the right hand side of God. He fell from heaven (a term usually meaning born into the world) through God's seed, and his evil was removed (the flesh) upon crucifixion. He then became part God and part his former self, as such became The Son of God, and The Son of Man. Before his fall he corrupted the nations. He brought up dictators as described in Isaiah 14. He was "wiser than Solomon," but first "wiser than Daniel."

Jesus (Lucifer) went from being donned with great things—jewels of all kinds, the best clothing, a being of great pride, God's perfect being, until he was born into the flesh and came into a poor and decrepit life, wearing rags and without even a home. He lost his home and could not return until he paid the price. "I have come as light into the world, so that everyone who believes in me will not remain in darkness." John 12:46.

Here are some quotes from Ezekiel 28:

You will be a mortal, not a god, at the hands of those who slay you.

They will bring you down into hell, and you will die a brutal death. (And from Isaiah 14 the quote "Yet though shall be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit.) After Jesus was crucified he went into Hell for three days to free the saints.

"That made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof; that opened not the house of his prisoners?" (Isaiah 14:17.)

You will die at the hands of the gentiles.

And it is said that his death will be due to his wisdom and beauty, and that it was. Lucifer was corrupted by his possessions and so God stripped him of it and his godly immortal state.

The wandering into the wilderness to find oneself is a commonly done thing, and in the Wilderness Jesus found himself. In my reading of the Bible I always felt it was a thing out of place that Jesus would find Satan there. Satan knew Jesus was there? I thought. 'And his plan? And he was in the garden?' But much like Jesus saw Satan in Peter, he saw Satan in himself. The Holy Bible has mysteries that even the smartest people may only touch upon. But wisdom is blocked by Christian prejudice more than anything else. It takes a Satanist to understand the things formally considered forbidden, tainted by a fearful kind of bias.

We are not to worship Christ nor angels. We are not to pray to them either. This is the mystery of the trinity but the mystery is no more when we know Christ to be God incarnate, through the Holy Spirit. The Trinity became. God is the only God. God is One.. Lucifer became as a part of God. Before he came to Earth he was that angel, Lucifer. There are large sums of The Holy Bible yet to be explainable by Christians. Christian Luciferians know that they are all simply answered with just the fact that Jesus is Lucifer. Such as the strange thing that Jesus was always in heaven with God as His Son. Yet begat himself upon Earth. Why God would slay His Son for us rather than a deserving Lucifer. Lucifer paid for the sins of Man.

In all of this the Luciferian Church is the true Church. It is in the fullness of Christ realized. The one truth and the final truth, the final denomination of Christianity and yet the first. We who are equipped with truth and best able to provide it when others cannot, must do so in the reckoning years of Christianity's final years. As I have written before the evolved state of Christian Satanism is Christian Luciferianism and that of Christian Satanist becoming Christian Luciferian. Satan in that context only means before Lucifer.

God makes for humankind religions that suit them. Sometimes humankind does so all on his own. Rest well young Christian Satanist in the knowledge that you are loved and kept safe, and it is the time of your earliest years, as God has lead you into such great days as you thought could never be. Christ had such great love for his friends (humankind) as to die for them. He said "do not call me Lord but your friend." They struggle to even know what Son of Man meant. The forbidden fruit was sex, which forced incest and corrupted the line. The birth of Jesus reconnected human kind with God, which Lucifer cut in half was sown back together.

Chapter Twenty: Sin as a Spiritual Path

It may all be acceptable with just one thing: responsibility. Having moderation can be added to that though, and to harm none. Like a good cigar but only after a wedding. To buy a gambling scratcher here and there. Any gambling is just fine if you don't lose important money. After maybe years and years of buying scratchers with some discretion you may even hit it big! Odds can't stay low forever. Drinking here and there to reduce stress does a mind good – especially if you don't get plastered and careless. Unless maybe you are genetically inclined you are not going to get diabetes from a little sugar. Sexuality with protection, taking time off of work for a weekend of pleasure can refuel you. Slight aggression against an enemy you don't deserve may stop his or her behavior towards you and others. Some sins are no harm to begin with. To dress flashy, go about proudly can be argued to be a sin but just by those way too involved in the intricate details of the Bible. Love of your possessions is always something a spiritualist will warn you about. That money doesn't make you happy? Sure it does! Amusement parks do, really good theatrical movies. A very engaging game. A great meal at a restaurant. They cost money, and if it doesn't make them happy then nothing does.

They say "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," It's also true that all heaven and no earth makes a person insane.

I think a lot of Christians end up isolating themselves because the standards for them are so high socially. So they retreat into their Bible and much harm is done. I retreated into video games when I was young. I remember the opening cave room in Zelda where a sage tells you "It is dangerous to go alone! Take this." It was an imaginary sword. I was in my own little world away from people. Where I lived, the kinds that did drugs, party, and formed gangs. I think if Jesus had something to say about "loving everyone" these days he would say something like "there is little left to love."

A little really good food is a great thing. Naturally when we get older then we have to start eating more healthy. A steak or fast food sandwich from time to time won't do you in. Can you really imagine living solely off of these health foods? Nothing but rabbit food? Besides humans need meat just as much as lions do. When I hear of meatless people I kind of imagine a cowardly lion, I hate to say it.

They are all lessons that are readily taught to us as Christian Satanists. Moderation, balance, they teach more than anything else and yet are so easily known and deduced. Realizing them may be a little more difficult. Doing them may be more difficult but they are there to help you and are a great help for those who do.

When you ask yourself if you should or should not do any given thing ask yourself if it does any real harm or not. That's all you have to do. If things do get out of control however then self discipline must come into play, and if you succeed over it you will become stronger by it.

Chapter Twenty One: More About The Gray Side

As I've said, many things are gray sided among people and fiction these days, they just have yet to identify it that way. It is within a hero that does evil against evil. Their evil against them is naturally a lesser evil. They don't carry so much etiquette against villains, such as a proper arrest with court proceedings. Maybe somebody killed their loved ones and they can't take that so lightly. Christian Satanists say yes, vengeance for God, but vengeance for the victim, too, but not for those who would be indifferent. It is the place of the victim to have the punishment for their foul deeds. I could say "no death penalty!" but without being victimized in horrible ways my perspective is lacking. So the Christian Satanists believe "let punishment be given from the victim."

Interestingly the color of red and green makes brown. Red is often a strong hand color, green a more soft color. As red is bold, green much less imposing. Brown, gray and black are called "Earth tones," and Christian Satanism represents The Middle Grounds. What's more are the famed light-sabers, and the good wield the green, the bad the red.

We naturally divide things into good and evil. That is so through and through. In all fiction practically, every game, movie, story, there exists a good side and an evil one. It stands to reason then that there is an in between place. Everything has a middle, a center. It's true, Christian Satanism is there. We hadn't so much opportunity to express evil and good powerfully and liberally as much as we have recently. In other words could not have really seen the other side—in films and other things, until fairly recently. Looking back on a hero and villain movie of the past, it was just all being touched upon, not delved far into. Maybe now that we know both sides much better we can begin to draw a line down the middle and create gray based things. Before we couldn't know the whole picture. Now we can. There is that image that was hidden, that is finally revealing itself to us.

Christian Satanism has its real place already there to draw upon. It is the first of its kind in religion. It is a newly discovered thing in so many ways. With how sided minded people are, it sure took a long time. As people are more a part of their religion by being among others that are, than they are of the contents itself.

Geographically it is like New England or New Mexico. That's almost like a taunt in the face to take the name of their nation and make it their own. It is like taking over (name of nation) and calling it (our nation now.) Similarly Christian Satanism is like saying "our Christianity" or "our Satanism." Yet saying both! The Satanism for a Christian, The Christianity for a Satanist, to put it into perspective. You could just as well say "The Christian's Satanism" or "The Satanist's Christianity."

In the past such thoughts of Satanism could not be dared to be had. Heretics looked far and wide for such prey. Things so strictly remained Christian for eons of time. A long time, a very long time. Satanists emerged in the 1980s for the first time, a much more sizable amount of them at least. They were mostly harvested by heavy metal. Just as I myself was. I was a Satanist cultivated with Satanic flicks and music. It was a novelty. I had no time at all to consider anything "gray." Once things cooled down though I found my life as either a Christian or Satanist was never fully sincere. I was a Christian when very young. I'd bounced back and forth so much that I stopped even getting dizzy from it. Once I could stand on my own two feet I decided that creating Christian Satanism was what I wanted to do, and was given the help needed to do so. All the help I could possibly need. It was a necessary thing. A destined thing.

Maybe the same will hold true for others. Maybe they'll get bored of the same two figures.. in everything they see, with all the over-familiar places they look at. I believe that it will be. That they will start creating things on its basis. Religions to follow, sure, because it is under religion that it is best represented.

We are more like an adaptive power. A people for all people. Those that can more easily blend in. Those that can remain agreeable and harmless enough. Perhaps a people more private and reserved. Able to keep company with both sides. And they that consider both sides without so much bias. As a result we learn things that others naturally do not. Therein is our power. Our power also comes from broader choices, to have options that others do not. We have the ability to make our own rules generally while the other two sides haven't such options. To look up and see one thing, look down and see another, remaining centered in our ways, and unhampered with either gravity or lofty headedness.

I would advise against perfect balance however. That is more of a fault than a virtue. It can be too restricting. Sometimes the best balance weighs more towards the other side. No balance has to be at all, sometimes. We make up for over exercising a side by turning to exercise the other and then we can find balance, power in both arms. Also, by being each individually you are better at being both together, naturally so. Just like any other religion excess is not good.

A bad thing that leads to good is a very interesting thing for us to think about. Like the two statements "the end justifies the means," or "all's well that ends well." Then there is "what () doesn't know won't hurt them," concealing a truth to protect someone is certainly Christian Satanic. There are a lot of such questions.

Making up for wrong done is certainly a Christian Satanic act. As is not "biting off more than you can chew." A little in the hand instead of too much to handle. Paced perfectionism is ideally great, and Christian Satanic. Paced perfectionism is perfectionism that doesn't overload you. It is coupled with patience and determination.

In effect the Christian Satanist enjoys all phases of the moon, all seasons, the dark, the twilight, the day, the night. It is entirely up to them to pursue both sides of the same coin.

Things can be quickly brought to its tail, its head, but the Christian Satanist is always permitted to be both or either, as long as they want to. How they want to and how they will is up to them. It is throughout an adventure. A Church gone to for sometimes good, other times in iniquity.

If it boils too long it will overflow. If it freezes too long it can't be drunk. We are after that sweet middle spot. That is often not in an exact middle but rather on the fringe of it. Sometimes to fly you need two wings, but sometimes just a balloon.

We can learn from things like omnivores, the wolf who runs alone, the priest who is honest, the ones that dare to upturn their lives just for the sake of something new to embrace and learn, and experience. Let us not make choices for others in the meantime but remain open minded, never entirely closed to others but with at least a little consideration and respect as it is always due. "People are strange when they are strangers, people are alone when they are alone," but you can be sure that the life they made for themselves was made by themselves, for better or worse and some even enjoy being in jail. Some actually enjoy in playing the fool, being childish, being daring, being themselves.

I hope that I have been a good teacher however and that you found an abundance of wisdom from me. Although I understand if I don't always have it for you, it may be more fitting for another sometimes. That after all is Christian Satanism: not one sided. Not just one way of doing something for any given thing, but two, and many more.

Chapter Twenty Two: A Scattering of Other Things

We are those whose sin doesn't get in the way of our religion. Whose sin makes us better, not worse, and whose sin itself is our spiritual path.

We don't work with one light but two. We operate with two polarities.

We are an accidental creation and don't deserve to be blamed for it.

Even the worst people feel better by doing good. The most selfish people especially feel better by doing good.

We will make the final denomination of Christianity called Christian Luciferianism.

It may not be the last made denomination, but it will be the end of matters.

God is not evil, not hateful or cruel, but on the side of anyone who loves Him and has faith on Him.

It is our secret to know, but not for others, that Satan is not doomed, and never was.

We practice the way of truly being whole .

We fully embrace the world and make it our pleasure.

We blend together our perspectives during meditation. We meditate for perspective and perspectives.

We are careful for we know our religion may be offensive to some.

We will not have our own culture hampered and detoured by those of others.

We have the instinct and perspective that others do not have.

We are the inheritors of the world in essence and in pulling it in as we so masterfully do.

Samael is the Angel Saint of Christian Satanism.

Madness is excess, sanity is moderation, moderation is Christian Satanism. We have the gift to reduce excess of ego, of emotions and stress.

By name Christian Satanism cannot be deduced to hypocrisy. We say beforehand we are both, openly professing to it.

The highest among us are of dual personality induced by a broken spirit. That cannot be self caused, however. It is caused from being tormented, such as being severely bullied. Blessed are the Broken Spirited, for they are Christian Satanic and blameless before God.

May it be the beginning of our philosophy, our religion, our people, but it may only be with all of us active and involved.

Give consideration unto all things as they could be gray-made. Deduce what any given thing is – is it Christian? Or Satanic? And from there give it to the other side. The more you do so the better you will become at creating things into the Christian Satanic.

A good leader would say “trust that what I say is right, but know that what I say is not always suitable.”

Israel is God's Earthly Kingdom.

Outside are the Christian Satanists

Who are invited to eat from the tree of life

Granted they purify themselves before entering,

But it is His pleasure to bring all into His own.

The Christian Satanist has something to fight for. A being who is good and well at raising things up. To regain if they must, as they have loved good things. As such they have good reason to go on living.

A level one resurrection is waking up in a new bed. A level two resurrection is waking up after being washed up onto a shore.

You will know you are becoming enlightened with peace when the light before your eyes brighten and your spirit is happy and free. When no worry can burden you. When God has saved you. When you know you are saved.

The only usable religion for Earthly Godhood is Christian Satanism and to greater heights Christian Luciferianism.

They want to see how deep the rabbit hole goes. Oh fools! It is bottomless, a thing most have become lost to, but found therein is the greatest of knowledge. It is The Unholy Spirit.

I am no more dangerous to them than thinking contrary to their Lord and Master, LaVey, the Satan whom they worship and idolize.

Hope in its due course, the hopeless, and what should be done for them, an offering of light and the strong arm of Christ to pick them up. We will not render evil to good people.

A Christian Satanic holiday: better life day to improve things in your life. To organize and clean, create something profitable, and maybe for a month, not just a day. After that a time of peace, a feast, relaxation and satisfaction.

We offer balance to a wicked shape shifting world. First, identify it then second, work to remove it.

No person is good on their own but through Christ and truth is goodness shown.

People will wreck havoc on anything they greatly protest to a public that does not understand, whose impositions are actually desired by them.

We know what is good for us and bad for us. We know what makes and keeps life better or worse for us. So we should create our own list of sins that we have personally decided not to do.

Things are only worth as much as you make them and some wealthy people have everything yet less than a poor person does, who fully loves their things.

Being forthright with truth is such an uncommon value. People will deliberately go over a lie to speak long before justice comes a knocking. It would have been far better for them if they were just honest to begin with.

Hold in your heart a unique place you'd someday like to visit. For me it is Da Lat Japan and Indus Valley.

Resourcefulness is not a sin, perhaps ineptitude is. To me convolutions are a public sin. To me personally splitting hairs is a sin.

It's not the Devil who is in the details more than it is the money that is.

A good way to learn about your family is through gift giving.

The persistent will learn to win. The lazy/ uncommitted never will.

Push ever forth westward, that is where hell is found.

Among religions, among realms and peoples we are perfectly suited as Messengers.

If life on Earth is most closely anything it is an awakening and gradually falling back asleep. Awake/sleep cycles go far beyond our Earthly realm into more spiritual ones.

There are many things on Earth you can relate to the heavenly realm.. realm of the metaphysical, too. The rendering and composition may be different, but they are comparable.

Your strength and power comes from your love—love of people and your things, love that finds greater things with a heart to share them. To obtain to give with the love of things is very Christian Satanic.

Even the smartest people encounter the fact that sometimes there is no clear right way to do things.

As far as money goes it is more important to make contacts than friends.

Be aware when there isn't much distance between you and a bad thing.

Give out your heart to your material possessions.

As a Luciferian don't die until you have won a victory for humanity.

Human beings are a type of being that can sleep soundly in the shadow of a smoking volcano.

Sometimes the lesser of two evils is about picking your poison and finding immunity.

Always look for things that will make your life better.

Though often in life nothing mattered to you, but now everything does, is true evolution.

Though they think that they have me righteously cornered I know the basis of their judgment is wrong to begin with. They think I am destined to hell, which they designed. I see things differently indeed.

Mistakes happen, more often than not lawsuits should not.

Life is a massive menu with things to pick from.

Let us focus on the good life. A good chair, a good drink, and entertainment.

Pushing away certain obstacles requires a certain kind of strength.

The best visualization comes from endowing the abstract with deep meaning.

They die every time they go against the fold. They fly and fly well with their own but it isn't their own wings that guide them.

For every given thing there is a Christian Satanic form, it takes the regular and as a whole makes everything enormously different.

All the rose wants to leave behind are its thorns.

Chapter 1: Introduction

This book offers my Satanic perspective, holds the understanding I have come unto, all things that have served me well in my lifetime of being a Satanist. I've had my tough but pleasurable times being homeless and a wanderer. Isolated as well in a white room for a month, endured madness, mental hospitals. Only to come out smarter, apt at survival, ready to capsulize my experiences into a book. It was during insanity that I learned my greatest things. Such as my Principality List which I will later show. Now I am living in San Francisco. My life turned upside down for awhile, but I picked up the pieces and grew. Currently I have all that I need to write quite leisurely. Give me a room, coffee, iced tea, tobacco, and I am all set!

I've come to know the other side of things. I'd developed habits and things that others wouldn't even think of. I walk and talk strangely. I make up words, accents, and sounds. I'd roll over my thinking forming chants into the best they can be. Haven't been ordinary, and have been a far from regular person. I'm a kind of actor, can be a kind of character when I want to be.

That and other ways lead me into hell eventually. I had changed myself altogether and because I did I entered into its presence/ certain landscape where demons could be heard, even seen sometimes. A place where spirits spoke to me. Where'd they comment to me on my radio. So I can say being a certain and far more different person is a way into hell. And hell is not a place but a presence. Can be here, there, up, below, in any city, the desert, etc., it is not a place to be but a presence to be in.

I also have to offer Satanic philosophy, some essays here, magic based things, anything good enough (and worthy enough to include) Satanic things.

My books are each and all in public domain, up until now that includes 43. I can't say if all of my future books will be so too, but probably so. Consider them an immense "sample." Free as eBooks under my pen name.

My objective is to rush forth knowledge to the reader, great Satanic things, hopefully making your Satanist self stronger, wiser.

My book can be read in any random order. Just like any Bible or other religious book. Please pick it up from time to time. I'm sure it will be very helpful for you, and I want to be helpful here most of all. If you object to anything I say, my apologizes. I believe that on the whole my book will serve you well. A free book. No strings attached. I am not after money (I do love money) but making a positive change is what I am after.

May your reading go well and I hope you enjoy the book I have made!

Chapter 2: Worldliness

The Holy Book tells us:

“Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.

For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.”

It is the perfect basis for Satanism. Satanists must be separated from God fully to be so. The route of it is “love of the world.” That includes carnality, an eye for beauty regarding the Earth, a proud life within it, and joy based upon the Rock of Satan, Earth. That is the best foundation for Satanism. All things of the Earth and the Earth itself is his. Satan welcomes his own into his paradise. And Satan is our Father.

Fortunately the Earth is an easy thing to learn by. It is a much more tangible thing for a Satanist, compared to a Christian person’s never ending battle in the pursuit of Holy Excellence. While our pleasure may not be too far away. Good food, entertainment, for example. So we should revel in life. We should enjoy our time here as fully as can be. That is not too much to ask for, right? We are not spiritually-headed. We don't pursue “peaceful spiritual thinking” which is nothing but surrender for the Christian, empty headedness from a Buddhist.

Our Nirvana is Earth, Valhalla if you like, Olympus maybe, but paradise in whatever form. We pursue happiness here fully involved. We can freely sin, not placing shame on ourselves. Naturally we should be responsible, and so we are.

Eyes are closed for most. Or partially closed, not fully open. The Satanist should learn to open them fully if they haven’t yet. That is the understanding of the world based on desirable things. To look for what you like, increase the amount of things that you do. To find them more easily, to know yourself. To wrap the world around you like a comfortable blanket. To slip through more tedious things and embrace only what you truly wish to invest time in.

Then the world is a wonderful paradise with an endless amount of joy from it. Our time here on Earth with not a moment wasted, as people eager to indulge in everything it has to offer. As much as you can enjoy your life on this world, the brighter you are, the more Satanic you are. The basis of Satanism is worldliness, no better basis can be found.

As much as you are a Satanist you have found a good place here.

“in which you formerly walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, of the spirit that is now working in the sons of disobedience.”

Chapter 3: The Fullness of the Earth

Referring to all the good things the world itself has to offer.

Tastes matter a great deal. More powerfully so unique tastes mean a lot. You'd heard it said so often “I don't really need this,” but what a form of self deception! You can't have anything you want without desire. Desire of longing, just wanting, whatever, without which the world can be a very empty place, void of good things, with nothing to be found. But for a Satanist who builds up desire, the world itself opens up.

It is a good thing to rehearse until it is memorized. To know very broadly the best of things material-wise, food, clothing, etc., and a discovery most fitting for an active Satanist in the world. It serves their lives well. Popularly derived things should be avoided. Room for non electronics to breath as they suffocate what else could be.

A list made: a master list of the things you love. Toy keyboards, white wing shirts, craft items, unique clothing to tailor, items of productivity, favorite food by type (candy, sandwich, cocktail, etc.) Coming to be understood in full.

Then your eyes will open to the greatness that is Earth. Good things will be in your grasp. You will never be lacking. You will easily come by great things. And you'll learn who you are in the process. It is one of the best lessons in life for a Satanist.

Chapter 4: Satanic Productivity

Your purpose under Satan as Satan has given you.

The World belongs to Satan. The true hearts belong to him, too. What is Satanic is most naturally preferable to people. And given room anymore, since Christianity has reduced in power. As a result people make Satanic things. They just like them better. And they may not be things called Satanic or actually contain The Devil to be so. Be it games like Mortal Kombat or some early Genesis titles, murder spree movies, heavy metal, so much of what we create is Satanic in nature.

Making Satanic things only require the right touch. Sometimes a more softer and regular form inspires one of a more Satanic kind.

Demons within a game complete with upside down pentagrams more apparently so. It is not all about demons and warlocks though. They include things like sword and sorcery books, games. But also include more subtle things.

A Satanist should decide what their purpose is in regards to creating a Satanic thing. Should dedicate themselves to that until they've found just the right thing. To work on it as long as it takes to master it. Continue from there.

Not long after freedom and democracy came, so did the Devil's things. People like it much better than Dorian music, things so moral as to be moronic (like 50s TV shows) preferring the more realistic. Venturing into a thing more exciting. Freedom leads to the Satanic. That's very apparent. It becomes the Devil's nation full of The Devil's things and is a place worth protecting.

To the Satanist who creates a great thing is given a part of The Devil's Kingdom itself. People that fail to will never had the chance to be remembered, really appreciated, to be famous or wealthy. It just isn't such a lonely place when you have given a part of yourself to it for others to enjoy and share.

Chapter 5: Having More Than One Soul

Because two souls are two lives, shifting, increasing.

We have our ordinary self. Most people do, in fact almost all do. Then there are those that just don't like the regular and singular part, changing freely to a thing that is different. A thing different in its perspective, speech, accents, etc.

It is playing many parts, it is becoming someone different: not derived from profession, just a desire to be. A detective, evil kid, hell even an evil clown if you like. To be every character in a movie until you are all of them.

Being Scottish, speaking as such. People don't even know the difference. Make it "every day is Halloween." To embody different characters, types of people, complete with accents and clothing the same, and best of all the perspective that goes along with it.

That for the sake of extending life, to get the chance to feel, not having to go through college or anything. Nevertheless knowing many, many different ways. Having gotten the experience of each, anything you ever wanted to be. You are.

You can also draw inspiration from cartoon animals. The mouse is the best of them. Some vary, like the rabbit. The cat is queer. The pig is always the worst of them, nearly down to a science. There have been very few goats in cartoons. The dog is highly varied. The snake is scum. The lion is among my favorites, personally.

Chapter 6: The Coming Satanic Kingdom

The best possible future is founded on Science and Technology

Science and technology can be counted on to make a utopia. To have AI powered cameras that can spot any criminal and identify them. To have androids and robotics as slaves leading us into "universal basic income," thoroughly cleaning for us. AI driven vehicles complete with better batteries, even things like free energy (or you could say practically so) and a cure for mortality.

People often see the possible destructive side of technology. It makes for a better movie. But I think we could grab a strong enough grasp on it to prevent that. That's the only possible obstacle. And God forbid a mind control device be made.

Satan represents progress.

We cannot go back to a dark age. Not with the knowledge we have gained. Generators can give us power. Fuel is all over the place. Food is better stored, to last and last. We no longer depend on horses. We have general power over sickness. It would take an extraordinarily bad virus or something to push us back into a dark age but that darkness will have a lot of light according to what we've accomplished.

Science and tech seems to go against inflation. Coupled with capitalism the same rules don't apply. Tech too, like cars. The best smart phone a few years ago is the weakest phone in a few years, whose price is cheaper. Even the wealthiest person 10 years ago hadn't what we do now. I am for capitalism, entirely. It is based on competition, fitted into the people's needs, catering to them to make a sell.

Anyways- candy and bread don't really change. Things of science surely do.

The best tithes are for scientific developments.

It is unfathomable how much the world will change in just twenty years. The more that is learned things eventually multiply, not just add, but multiply. I don't think we will be going around in space in a metal boat. It is all very hard to predict. Only great inventors could have surmise what would become. Things aren't considered until they are possible. We go from boops to beeps in the metal ship control room to venturing into space via VR and android robotics, in our bedroom. Why should you have to go there physically, anyway?

The best book a person could write contains ideas for future uses of science and tech, elaborating on what may be possible. Like a science fiction story may do, just without the story.

Chapter 7: Childish Behavior

Christianity is a dull form of maturity

The Holy Book says:

"When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things."

It is therefore Satanic to be childish.

The best councilor a Satanist could have would allow him or her to act freely against inhibition around them. As in a room alone with them and practicing inhibition, acting totally strange, saying strange things, entirely "acting loose." To free oneself in that manner. This can be called The Satanic form of confession. To show our sins, our true self, rather than repressing it.

Perhaps Satan is not our father but our dad. After all, He'd have us enjoy Halloween, right? In fact the more spoiled the better. The teachings of "spare the rod spoil the child" taught by Solomon does not fit into Satanism. Much better is a life of joy within the Earth. Much better the Earth would look itself. Things are dull because of mature adults. Things are so plain. I suggest more color, rather than just army color green trashcans. The right to paint a trashcan, how so harmless a right, made up of things looking better. All around better things. Roads not paved in gold but glitter, board game pieces all over the place, stickers too. A glow in the dark house. Fog machines, Blade Runner style lights and holographic displays.

I often use the comparison of a bed room. TV here, bed here, desk here, maybe a few things to display. How in my adulthood I lost the worth of a black light. Not really doing any decorating apart from holidays, not even then really, either.

At the further end of this is a jumping cushion instead of walking down stairs. Just jump off from high.

Other examples include tree house coffee shops, massive and high LED animated stars instead of street lights, "video stickers" whenever that becomes scientifically possible.

All in all I am not talking about being childish as I am of saying to be a child with an adult's brain and there is a big difference between the two.

You should find the freedom to walk strange, to talk strange, to be aware of your emotions, emotions that flow more freely, to randomly cry in the street, to dance to street music, to have a picnic there. To fully enjoy candy, to make your music what you want of it, of all things an experience like no other.

I created a type of magic I call "taste magic." It uses food or sweets to visualize with, and every taste given an idea in the mind of a person, place, or thing. As for me I am sour apple. My enemies are the more bitter tastes, to that effect. Before I created it I created The Principality List which attributes each person of my immediate family to four things. As for me I am Goat, White, Ring, Thief.

Keep any good and worthwhile piece of your maturity, but break down any element that doesn't serve your life well.

Chapter 8: Responsibility

Foolishness is foolishness, no matter what name it goes under.

A blameless person deserves no blame. Those that don't blame others do not either. The boldly truthful border on sounding psychotic, but of such great rights and forgiveness is found. Your true self being apparent and sure, with nothing to hide.

If it serves you well then it is always a good choice. Any form of self harm however is only fitting for a masochist.

The authorities would always say that the productive are doing well enough and should continue in their good work.

I say fit in. No one has to know you are a Satanist. Nobody has to know you secretly hate humankind.

Isolation so greatly reduces any harm done. It is mostly the groups of people that are a bad influence and lead to foolish things. I've never done drugs. I've never been involved in gangs or those things. I know very well for a fact that the world would be better off if people were isolated. Yeah, yeah we need to socialize.. soon science and tech will pose a solution. In fact naturally cause it. Of what's to say about holograms and such things. The fact that our interest in parks go down day by day. We are no longer living in a cave. We are naturally wanting our things delivered any more. Movie theaters will be found in our bed rooms, smaller perhaps, but certainly easier, and to be alone with. A refrigerator for snacks. Once food replicators are created I venture to say we will rarely even leave home. I'm not only talking about my own needs here, but everyone else's as well when I say someday soon we will all just stay home.

We may be sinners but we know better to invite punishment on ourselves.

We are not privately sacrificing animals as so thought. We ain't got no plans to murder someone. Actually our intellect is worldly based and it has created us as more pragmatic, sound minded, world-understanding people. The intellect of spiritualists is far lacking compared to our own.

We are perfectly happy to live peacefully. In fact are peace makers, even if we have it a difficulty to create in our lives, we will. Law abiding rather than anarchists. Supportive of a secular or Satanist society, whichever. We generally live happy and productive lives. As for enjoying our life in the world we are not self hating but self loving, and appreciative of such things. So never mind the weird things that Christians "most assuredly" think of us.

Chapter 9: Lucifer, Satan, The Holy and Unholy Spirit

Lucifer was God's perfect creation, bearer of light, enlightenment. To whom the world was given. Of whom the world is truly known. Continuing to own it, that, "The New World" as it is established in all places other than Israel for whom He so strongly fights for. From Lucifer is known the best music,

"the workmanship of thy tabrets and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created." As the Holy Book says.

He was the design of perfection, and so from perfection was formed. Had the wisdom to so create perfect things. A being of perfect beauty, which should not be taken lightly.

"Thou sealest up the sum, full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty."

Had rebelled against God and fallen with a third of the angels in heaven.

On the whole Lucifer represents a coming duality that I call Christian Satanism. The Anti in Antichrist means "instead of and against. From the start the serpent represented good and bad, by knowledge. Jesus said "you cannot serve God and Mammon." As well said "Satan cannot cast out Satan," The "Evil standing in the Holy place." The "Thief finding a different way in." The Devil "masquerading around as an angel of light." The Beast (Antichrist) having horns like a lamb but speaking like a dragon." They and others lead me to create Christian Satanism.

Satan represents freedom and liberty while the Bible says: "Servants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh; not with eyeservice, as menpleasers; but in singleness of heart, fearing God:"

Satan is The Little Dragon Full of Greatness. He speaks and acts powerfully. He takes all of life's pleasures in full. He honors all good things. He condemns all bad things. Satanic Forces are somewhat of a separate thing, a more spirit based incarnation. Those forces have raised dictators, have appeared as evil in the world. Has caused madness and possession, but also something preferable for a person: a highly brilliant mind. A mind that leads to great things in various ways. In the form of philosophy, science, invention, songs, and revolutionary things. It is the spirit of God that flies like a bird in the darkened sky yearning, crying out for life, for land, for food. It is The Devil's Spirit that overcomes on its own. That conquers a problem for good (like of the world) or bad. It is sometimes the price that humans pay. It is to put back broken pieces of yourself through the help of the Devil's spirit, as far as a Satanist will do, compared to its opposite: God doing it for you. If God fixes a person then they are given a Holy Spirit. If the power of Satan does, which is predetermined, then a more iniquitous person is made. So one either goes to the spirit of Satan or the Holy One.

Chapter 10: Magic

From magic comes greater magic and greater things

Well established magic will align you to Satanic forces. Its effects may be hard to see but are there. In fact they'll act on your "blind side," meaning just off sight. In some profound cases magic has lead people into a great and powerful Satanic purpose. Magic itself, call it witchcraft if you like, or wizardry, it's all the same, puts you "on Satan's side" by the very act itself. Truly being a being as such invites its powers into your life. In other words magic brings magic into your life. One ritual done results in more than just its intention. It opens up just a tad more that Door of Hell. More or less so depending on its potency.

Those forces will effect your life in various ways. Sometimes subtly, sometimes greatly. Like a river. A magic river. If you see it you can ride down it. If you don't notice it you cannot go where it would take you. So be observant.

Consider magic like a tempered sword. Also know that sword is always with you.

Consider it your shield, working for protection through it. A shield that protects all around. Or a bird that looks over you. The Bird of Satan watches over us. It reports of us, and sends forth help as needed. Only not but for the highest among us. If you have a good purpose then you will especially be protected and roam free for its sake. Death will not come easily or soon for such a person as that, who are doing The Devil's Work.

Worship of Satan is magic itself. To surrender to his will and tidings and keep him in mind often enough, as such see the directions things are going. That takes the right perspective. You can be sure that they make a joke of the world and all of humanity except the Satanist. The Satanist is guarded and treated well. Humanity otherwise be damned. These forces sometimes cause the worst of all things but we are in it together. Like Nero who sent Christians to the lions... this was a thing caused by Satanic Forces. They that did that knew nothing of Daniel and the Lions Den. That story how God placed him there and yet he walked freely through. Satan caused this to come upon Christians early on. After all, they were presumably protected by God. So what else is more fitting?

Satanic Forces act just as much as that, changing the world. Setting up leaders, authoring new books (sometimes through "auto writing") Inspiring The Tarot, setting up Satanic Churches, causing great change both good and bad. Including the good knowledge of Science and other things indicative of progress.

For the right magicians kinds of things will come to mind apart from themselves. As Demonic Forces would have you know and use. Not unlike a musician that spuriously divulged a great new song out of thin air. Or more lightly the words and terms you were looking for. More greatly are those picked from the lot and given power, even a power great. As for me I have a few examples to share. I was isolated in a rubber room for a month. Without even a toilet. A small room unmedicated, schizophrenic, and was drawing on a wall late into it. My painting just didn't turn out right. So I smeared my hand over it, looked, to see an image that was distinctly Satan. Enough to greatly make an impression on me. To take my breath away for a moment. An hour had passed and the guards knocked on my door. Sent me to court. Court sent me to a mental hospital not long after.

A more minor example is a time I was drawing occult symbols on paper. Didn't make much of anything. The paper got a tad wet or something and I turned out over to see a neat symbol of a crescent moon with a star of David beneath it.

It is important to know that magic involves relationships between you and deities.. demons or spirits, jinn's, whatever they most appropriately are. Personally I'd include the "Saint for Sinners," Santa Muerte. And personally I have a Guardian Goddess that greatly helped me in difficult times whose name is Mother Aeon. That and Neti which few know about other than me. As for the ones I feel are most worthy of serving and worshipping include:

Satan, Ares, Lilith, Shiva, Agnes, Abaddon, Samael, Azrael, Leviathan, Beelzebub, Osiris, Neti, Mother Aeon, Santa Muerte, Baal, Belial, Dagon, Bahamut, Mammon, Set, Pan, Kali, and Asmodeus.

My earliest altar was for Satan. I'd gotten by on magic from minimal sources. Not too minimal fortunately, but internet wasn't around. I worshipped Satan nearly a lifetime. My second altar was for Lilith, and it very much benefited me. Your relationship for these not only bring you blessings and power, but add to life good company and better meaning to both magic and life.

Know your tools well. Choose your tools well. Some of which are: Tarot cards, crystals, wands, daggers, goblet, symbols, candles, book of shadows, rings, ritual water, parchment, among many others. They do not have to be used commonly or even by any others but you. In fact that lends to an individualist touch. It can all be magically used given the right touch.

The height of magic is in the Nether where all magic is shared. He who created it controls it. Those pieces however may go into another's use if not properly directed by you. If they can't guide into your purpose or be realized through you, it will go where it can. It is a storehouse of power. It goes up, resides there, then when the time is right returns to you for result.

Magic is more broad than people usually think. They often don't think much beyond rituals and spells. It includes meditative walks, worship and prayer, symbol making, occult writing, and many natural things. I could elaborate on one of them which I call "occult writing," or, "Prayer Sheets." I had developed it over time. It is an inexpensive thing. It allows for a personal touch, is versatile. The way I do them is I put ribbons around a paper with glue and staples. Then I print out stickers or draw appropriate imagery (texturals) write prayers on that special paper. I take a folder and with glitter glue draw on "Satan is Lord," putting on the inside of it tithes to him, and tithes to another. I add black feathers to that. Then I just throw them away knowing these things have eyes to see.

It helps, it concentrates it all, to make of everyday things a thing of magic. For example a chalice you drink from to honor Satan. Or to add a bell to your prayers – to do anything that enhances should be considered. Every time you take a drink you think of one thing letter by letter alphabetically of your favorite thing. Like your favorite video game or movie. Going a to z with words regarding it. That may not seem like magic but it is. Then there is the way I've created to remember practically everything of your past. It involves taking a pocket dictionary of basic words and randomly using words in it to remember something. So the word ride reminds you of a trip, an amusement park, a school outing, or any number of things. The definitions of the words don't matter.

Guided sorcery performs great wonders and marvels in the life of a Satanist. What route that takes is up to the individual.

My book Lessons of Demonic Magic may interest you if you wish to learn more.

Chapter 11: An Inspirational Speech for Satanists

Any seat worth sitting on is a throne

Any time there is well spent

If only to wait for the next great thing

Is a throne with a drink at your side and entertainment. As the forces of Satan shift and change things. As for the one especially that has a good thing to wait on, having done The Devil's Work well enough to rest awhile. It's like the Emperor naturally guided by those forces who sits and meditates on a good instrumental musical work. To sit there beside him. Satan is destined to forever rule the Earth for better or worse. Let's see how through the news, through newly made things such as games, movies, books, whatever you'd best see his creations most pleasantly. That is the silent Satanic Sister/Brotherhood. The lot and fate we share together. Like being under a crescent moon turning into a full moon, then a blood moon, we may not see each other but we see the same thing.

And to wait for dawn when the Luciferian Star shines into the new day.

To travel down the same road knowing where it will end, enjoying our time down it together, and all good things beside. The mystery is life for a Satanist. For a Christian the only mystery is God. Our mystery is of Satan, of His World, along with his powers, his forces, and his magic. We are indeed very full.

We will not be bothered to be stopped by any who are apart from us and full of trouble, full of inner turmoil just as the world produced in them. We are not going down the same road. We accept things as they are. Unless the destructive find us anyway.

The direction of the world is guided by him. Where it goes we should come to know. If we serve his purpose then we should move it along accordingly, which is usually a counter culture thing other than things most greatly Satanic, which shouldn't be changed.

We are moving away from a Christian State. One that lasted and evolved for centuries. Nevertheless Satan has come forth strong greatly and quickly changing things as quickly as a coin is flipped. We are called forth as his own, and what a blessing!

We will see how the story turns out. The Holy Book may claim to have the answer, but it is buried too deep in metaphors to be truly known, a confusing masterpiece that can mean any number of a thousand different things. Thousands of possible meanings, yet just one answer.

We have boldly taken on The Name of Satan. While they claim that the bible didn't literally mean a "dragon," and in so many other things not taken literally, they'll sure believe that hell meant hell! Then they'd go off into their own direction in trying to know what hell really is (eternal death? Suffering? Just separation? A trash pit?) Yet God is defined as love and has always said of us "let them."

It is our own place wherever and whatever it is. We are like one that goes against an obviously tyrannical and black mailing being. They are said to enter into eternal worship. To be on a place without sin! We will take our chances over the border into the land we know as free, democratic by design.

The world is our Kingdom with more to share than we need. We live for the world and worldly things. We take from it the best. We have come to understand our place in it. Though in the darkness we were guided by the Light. Lucifer is the Light. Satan nature.

Swing those arms, go about dancing to the tune of Pan. As destruction of the truly wicked looms over, has been prepared for, is known how to be dealt with. As shall in Shiva's name. We will be kept from such destruction so long as we aren't totally uncaring around it. To not be in the cross hairs but be isolated. Maybe being protected as the rich are by simple means: thinking up and inventing a great thing, the money it brings.

Sleep well and rested knowing that the time of lawlessness and anarchy will end. That the evil deeds of humans always come at a cost. And that Satan has taken the cup of God's wrath against them. Our place here is as peace keepers, sinners, but harmlessly so. Therefore are not true evil, but life loving. We'd never inflict harm on an innocent person. I am speaking of today's times. Of the future I see, as it is going, humanity will soon have a massive debt to pay and as evil as they are, they deserve the worst. I will not mourn their loss, either.

They are going to have a bitter taste in their mouth when that time comes. They think themselves right in forming anarchy and so blatantly acting against authority. They abuse their rights. How sweet the Devil's candy that are they that are chewed upon. Devoured, just like all past people the same have been. Satan is ready for his feast. Things have been cooking up. The table is prepared, and the cup of his wrath will be spilt out by the greatest hand we can hope for.

I like it all like I like my coffee: black and sugarless, without the cream. Or my tea: black, sugarless, and cold.

I wish the best for you, reader. My best advice is to be productive, doing Satan's work, whatsoever that is. To enjoy life as much as you can. To not perceive some terrible apocalypse unless the world is in a state of utter and complete chaos. Satan will not allow that to happen as if he does then God will have to step in. But I see our continuing freedom into the far future, as long as we can keep ourselves safe. Otherwise the world is just the same as it has ever been: bad problems to deal with, but fixable. One area ravaged, another completely peaceful. A disease, earth quake, whatever, with nothing out of the ordinary. The question is simply "how is this any different?"

Overall life is simply enough enjoyed. All you really need is good entertainment, comfort, and good food. I hope and pray you have those, in Satan's name.

Chapter 12: A Satanic Foundation

The full basis of Satanism and its potential

Goals and plans make a good man, make a good woman. Those that have calculated whatever purpose they have for him will find life a very rewarding thing. Don't get into any sort of trouble in the process, else you'd just condemn yourself.

Worldliness is the most religious aspect for a Satanist. To enjoy it and all its good. That is a thing easy enough to understood. As I always say: build upon desire.

We are not evil doers. We are not murderous psychopaths. Such things are of those not fully with us. Naturally and biologically created demons, and not those truly good demons as Satan surely makes.

May your sins take you far and away into a place of happiness, good things always be in your reach.

As for creating Satanic things The Devil's touch is required. You have to be Satanic to begin with, whether or not you are aware of so being. Individuality goes a long way with that. Uniqueness without liberally just copying the thing of another. It is all a puzzle you create. You can use the same pieces. The pieces either much the same or less so. The way they are put together though and the entire picture they show is eye catching, original, the best yarn spun. All things are relatable to each other to some extent. Not a Death Sphere but a Death Cube in space, or not either of them but one like a pyramid (Star Wars, Star Trek, Lexx.)

Like a gong that begins the fight in Mortal Kombat, a small detail but excellently indicative of the Satanic. It all took a genre by storm, moving the fighting genre into the Satanic.

All in all it isn't about what should succeed as what does. However that is not literally true. Sometimes what you made really is a likely success, it just needs to be advertised.

Individuality is a major element of Satanism. It is not too difficult to come by. Just not brought into reality by the majority of people, who feel a great need to be popular and popularly be made. They share their culture, else feel too apart from it. That involves their identity. However a Satanist avoids liking anything that is liked for popular reasons. Seem to say "well it used to be popular," and nostalgia is fine. Like it or not as kids we strived to be popular. There isn't much in the ways of instruction for it. It simply goes "be yourself."

Satan stands for liberty. Satan stands for worldly things. He stands for individuality. He appreciates such a thing as a hand for perfection in a thing or thought made. Perfection is an ever forward thing. Going its route as far as you can may even lead to a godly seeming thing. They are among the greatest and most useful of thinkers. Too bad that their numbers have been so awfully reduced. Then again, that just means less competition for me and you.

Can you juggle around your enemies well? Do you ever turn your head in hatred and curse them? Have but a moment later fully engaged in happy things again? Not lost at all like them? Your enemies, are they generally lifeless and soulless. Is that how they are understood? As couch sitters with perhaps a menial job, collecting free money perhaps? Compared to us they are small and deserve to be looked down on. Simply crushed in a moment, swept away.

To flow in the course of Satanic winds one only needs the world to look unto. To go the direction that Satanism teaches us: as according to the good things of Earth. That doesn't include current cultural and philosophical paths of its people. In fact it can't be in so many ways. People are entwined in cult like thinking. They are problem finders. They march to the same beat of the drum. Modern people are a simple minded pleasure seeking people and those two spell out disaster. For many good reasons individuality and isolation would serve the world good.

Where are all of the things hidden? Those small publications, like comics, metal music magazines? Books of many thousands, at least a few worth your time. Some wholly so in fact, if at least not a little helpful. Such books increase knowledge that is elsewhere not used. They have hidden in them useful knowledge. We know it is to our advantage. It separates us from them. It takes us to an advantageous place. It establishes us as a real self in reflection. The mirror that casts the same reflection is what they prefer. Not us.

Chapter 13: The Future of Things

All things are rapidly progressing, forming Satan's Kingdom

People stored up a ton of things until internet came about. It was all packed here and there out of sight. If it appeared at all it was minimally, put into pawn shops where most of it wasn't purchased. Then online companies showed them for sell. An enormous amount of good things. It is all money based. A trading website could probably do well. To not sell for money but to trade.

3D printers will evolve into replicating kinds of machines as long as people keep buying them. As long as there continues to be a market for them they will learn new tricks. They will use resources like plastic strands better, differently. With just the right new material we can expect them to make very intricate things. As they do so already, but just better and better.

One good invention could change everything. We have looked far and wide to fix problems for people and society. It is right before our eyes: all we need is a good new technological thing. Such things among them are androids, AI, robotics, free energy, even longer lasting batteries. Easily produced homes, drones, driverless cars, food replicators, among the best of them. Crime deterrents as such with personal force shields, auto calling the police, AI cameras, stopping robberies, identifying criminals. No more hunger and all we need are rapidly growing seeds or lab produced meat just as quickly procured. Doesn't have to be as scientifically intricate as a replicator, just a process that speeds up the growth of a seed. They will bring humanity together like no thing before it.

Nothing really even progresses us except what we see of science and technology.

I went from tape cassette to CD. I had always been thinking about what the next thing would be. I thought up "credit card music" you slide the card, it plays music. How short sided of me though! As micro SD cards came, holding thousands on songs, the size of a thumb nail!

I went from mechanical typewriter to electronic typewriter, from electronic typewriter to word processor, that from computer to laptop, and finally to smart phone. I do like writing now, more than ever, a thing you can do anywhere. Doesn't make a sound. Is a job in the pocket.

Our progress leads to paradise. Our role in it can make every bit of difference. Our greatest honor to Satan thereof. Our best contribution coming from it. The days of a scientist in his/her room creating great things singularly are largely gone. Brilliant minds leading to windows, new territories of websites, still can provide enormous wealth to the person that would just try. Any that set forth with at least a general knowledge can create great things. To make new circuit parts, new forms of light, better batteries, revolutionary generators, is the best thing a Satanist can do for the world. For that reason I would say to write "books of free inventions," to share with the world your best ideas. I've made 6 such books, and plan on making more. That and to be a person experimenting, learning, creating. The pay off is excellently so. While money is hard to come by as a celebrity, excellent education, or just winning the lottery, making a great new and profitable invention only means you have to think it up and make it. Is certainly easier than the other ways of becoming rich and famous.

Let me paint a picture of the coming world:

Driverless vehicles taking us from place to place automatically refilling fuel or battery power along the way. Taking us cross country. They deliver our goods, they allow for more room within them, not needing a driver. All rides are comfortable then, taxing to none, without a need for knowing directions, going the best possible route as guided by GPS.

The earth can be scanned for every good thing, such as gold and silver, any element. Acquiring them then is easy, helped with robotics/androids who procure them. Resources are much more abundant. Trees are more quickly grown. All construction is done without people except those that would instruct AI, robotics, drones, 3D printers to create them. Cheap but abundant energy is inside. The electric bill is practically free. Further on force shields serve as walls. As such no one is homeless. In fact homes for everyone will be there as better than ever.

The Satanist is good at surmising what will be, for sure. We are not prophets so much as predictive. According to our perspective leading us into the future we know, unbiased, informed, understanding. We know these and share these to know yet more. Apart from preparation for the future it doesn't much serve us well otherwise.

Our best prophecy comes from knowing what the future will bring not socially but scientifically and technologically. As to know what will be possible (and science really does seem capable of anything) we will have come up with inventive thoughts on how to use the new coming knowledge. Just like science fiction has always provided us. Not only that but there are ideas of what should be. If never anyone ever spoke of some of them they'd have not been made when that time became possible.

I say that the world will be greatly new. That things will move beyond what the world gave us into what we made of it, a far different thing, a paradise.

A whole new world can be made amongst the regular. We'd not really need to go to heaven or places to be in a godly realm, here on Earth. Like the simulator turning a small room into a place without any borders to them. Those containing solid holograms, infused with AI, etc. Beyond that is your holographic image inside, and those of others you'd visit. There in every meaningful way. If people are content with just talking on the phone, then surely it is tangible enough. Touch sensing suits to add to that. The rooms of which could be a trip into the past, the more recent past as it had been recorded, or entertainment, "walking around in the movie."

Movies themselves could be auto generated by feeding its book into AI. Old characters brought back. Those shows long gone given new episodes. New music videos, thousands for every song, similarly. Even to have a different popular singer sing them synthetically.

Holographic headsets will certainly enhance reality. They'd come a long way. They'd end up as just regular looking glasses, as much as could be. They'd lend well to video calling. Gaming too. Scanning things, helping you find certain things. Showing maps. Helping you locate something. Letting you see any number of places via cameras connected online. Letting you read a book, watch videos, provide subtitles. Translate something told you in a different language. Allowing you to know a person better as much as they'd wish to be. Pulling up information on any given thing. Just look at a fruit and ask about it. You'll be told about its nutrition and a recipe. Letting you see people as they'd like to be seen (like a whole body avatar.) In real life they look human. Through the lenses they look different, as they'd like to appear.

They depend on AI cameras enabling these things, the rest being much easier. However, face recognition has come a long way.

What a great opportunity there will be to have and be in a specific culture. For example, a gothic club, a bubble gum pop land, one of vampires, classical era, Roman nation, or a Devil Worshipping Temple. These possible through holodecks, no longer needing a building, found there within as one place producing numberless amounts the same. Whole "buildings," "towers," complete with clubs, music performances aligning to it all.

Those all produced in a holodeck. As a result to live in the very kind of place you wish to.

A cup always full, electronics that are unbreakable, the refinement of home entertainment, smart home devices, thin screen, paper thin, batteries that never die, anti gravity, and what would Christians have to say about it all? What would they think of their water walking messiah when they see someone walking on air? He gave them bread and fishes, Satan have them replicators and a cup everlasting.

Chapter 14: Ideas for Satanic Churches

What good designs should be included

The bigger it is the more an abomination of it is perceived, and the greater its worth seems. As such better inviting into.

Whose basis is not of a Christian church. Determining what isn't Christian but Satanic. Not based on Christian designs. As far apart from that as can be.

Donating material things as a tithe would be blasphemous for a Christian Church which is clearly against materialism. As such tithes that are preferable. Money has greater value, however, "pound for pound." Candy of the Communion.

Sermons of Satanism, Satanic philosophy, magic, demonology and more. We have a great deal more to draw from. After all the Holy Bible is much less then it seems. Being a book presenting itself with one hidden meaning among thousands of other possibilities.

Naturally metal music is more fitting. Halloween over other holidays. As well as demonic imagery and more comfortable seats.

It is perfectly suitable to have a feast inside. To bring together the best food perhaps a couple of times a year. And a blasphemous communion inside. It would have more of a magician, warlock, witch, than a priest. Clergy that worship Satan, bringing Satan within its walls, those dedicated to his worship, calling on success for their Church.

A place to do the Devil's work. To fund better things being made by its members, or at least providing the needed resources. Like Satanic art along the walls, clay made idols, books for that church containing dogma and spiritual beliefs held and taught inside. Even programing a game. These as an income overall for the Church. That is at least if their makers are being provided for it.

Outings into nature is time well spent. That money gathered for it allows it to happen. A place of good food, a moment of separation from the outside world, with music, tents, and camping.

Coming up with inventive teachings such as about evil fairies, the jinn.

A place for useful rituals, at a price. Such as Satanic Baptisms.

Recruitment is important. Whichever way is most effective: flyers, advertisement, (perhaps too boldly) going from door to door.

A place of many idols of demons and The Devil. Each having their own row of seats. Those demons taught about, prayed to, worshipped, praised, and given tithes to. A wishing pond inside with an evil fairy behind it, to cast coins, to make a wish.

Church service starting when the Star of Lucifer is seen leading into the early morning. Special events on a full moon, others on a crescent moon, and on blood moons particularly special events.

A person to reveal one's true self to through inhibition, as helpful to them (something I've mentioned before.)

These are all the most important things. In fact not much more at all needs to be for a successful Satanic church. One that knows what it is doing, operating effectively, has a direction and life to it, comes from those.

Chapter 15: Having and Living by The Satanic Spirit

What comprises living in and working through The Devil's Spirit

The Satanist must find a truly deep and complex understanding of human people. One arrived at personally, of one's own. You must see humans in truth. Not as behind the image that hides. To know both the cover and book. In so doing the best way through is to consider as much as you can. Having given it great consideration you will arrive at an image you can use and operate with.

Be not engrossed in their manner of thinking. Take them as shallow really. There is usually not much to think of them to begin with. You will come to find they have thousands of jokes for just one thing. Their humor itself is quite shallow. It is always based on things of popular culture. To not be as them requires individuality. It brings your own mind into being, otherwise a thing shared as in a hell of a collective.. the sheepish way.

This unique mind that Satan has given you is best put to use in creating Satanic things.

Of the top five things of this world are:

Power, money, fame, pleasure, and worship.

And the top five things for humankind are:

Progress, individuality, isolation, peace keeping, and science.

These go hand on hand for The Spirit of Satan. The first list produces the second, and the second produces the first. An emblem for this teaching could well be the infinity symbol.

Pleasure of the Earth, uniqueness and individuality. Productivity for wealth and fame's sake, as well as having a strong image of yourself. Science that progresses all. Peace keeping and liberty, a happy life. What good things money can bring, including power. To be famous and admired, worshipped. To have general power and from all of them thrive, it is all very intricately interwoven. Both lists combined into one as The Spirit of Satan.

Chapter 16: Satanic Prayers

Selfish prayers but humble enough. Not haughty, but certainly not as degrading as far as Christian praying goes. Designed to serve you well, especially through repetition. You will be happier and more blessed for it. I can talk about Satan all day. I can cover a whole book that way but the demons and prayers to them shouldn't be left out. They express a different thing, each uniquely, but still right under the umbrella of Satan. So here are a number of prayers for that purpose.

For Satan:

Satan our LORD and Father, grant us greatness for this day. Come into our life fully, and introduce us to great things. Have in us your spirit, to conquer, to find pleasure on this Earth. Do not forsake us when trouble arises, but see us through, as you are Christ, our Messiah. Give to us a place of hiding, for both body and mind. Have enter into our lives choice people and great material things.

Make me wealthy LORD Satan, abounding in great things. Make me famous LORD Satan, known far and wide and on every corner of Earth. This as such the cost of my soul and never let my soul be mistreated but protected by you. Envelope me within Your Forces. Welcome me into your own, even though I am human.

Let me never bleed from spiritual based harms. Let me turn to see and embrace the world over the spirit. Reveal to me its truths. Keep me as your secret. Have me abound with Earthly treasure.

Make of our world one of peace and freedom. Remove from us the truly evil disregarding them just as much as they disregard others. May our pleasure of the Earth and our sin be responsible. As being peacemakers so to find and sow peace.

Establish your Kingdom here. Give to it great progress. Transform it. Let us thrive upon it. Take us out of mediocrity. Send us into greatness. Transform our lives with money, and increase our desires. Bring to us great treasures in full. Let only awful things be taken from us. Increase our good things in life, removing the bad. Take away the troubles and concerns in our lives turning us over to better things.

And may I abound in great food, great comfort, a happy and most pleasurable life for all of my years on Earth.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

For Lucifer:

Brighten our minds Lord Lucifer. Enlighten our ways. Bring to us Earthly wisdom. Shake off of us the rotten fruits that have grown on us. Tend to the things of your creation through our hands. Lead us down a path good and true, natural and pragmatic. Lower our thoughts that they are grounded. Lower our thinking into our own place, perhaps below that, but never too far above whose thoughts we really can't reach.

Bring into the world freedom and liberty for all. Progress the people of the Earth, form upon it a paradise as perfectly as could be. Give us the knowledge we need, collectively, but personally too. Transform the Earth in a way that brings about happiness and reduces suffering. Be with humanity as we need your help and always have. For none other can get us to Utopia but you.

Let not time be wasted in our lives but fill it with The Devil's purpose.

Let us come to know ourselves and uniquely form ourselves. Let us be alone whenever we so desire. Let not any thief take away from us the things we like. Let people have any personal pleasure they want to if it does nobody else any harm.

Magnify us in greatness until we are like stars ourselves.

Fill our cup every time we need. Bring into our lives great things we can't possibly find on our own. Send our enemies away. Bring forth friends good and true. Give us room in life not to be too bothered.

Let the way of competition be known where it is best that we can succeed. May we be ahead of our rivals. By luck give us the better hand. Let no poor influence come upon us. Let us be a body of perfection. Give us mastery over all things. These for the sake of creating greater things in your name. May as such be rewarded with wealth and fame. That and coming into power, living greatly and free.

We shall then speak your name and proclaim that you are the true God over Earth more powerful than any other angel. We shall let your name be spoken and heard far and wide. We will represent you with the greatest of things that could be made. We will show the world your greatness, and teach wretched people things of peace and civility.

As long as we create and live life in full please share with us your harvest. As much as we are unfairly transgressed may we have atonement, the punishment of our enemies. May no fiend stand against us and may the good tidings of your name continue to be freely spoken and may Christianity never rule over us again.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Abaddon we pray:

Guide us into knowledge that is bottomless. Thinking truly deep, penetrating and thorough. Bring us further into the pleasure of sin. Unbury the greater things of Earth. By descending may we ascend. Let not the gravity of heaven press down on us. Lift and remove it from us. May our arms be strong enough to hold Satan's sword and shield. As Satanists may we conquer and cast down our enemies.

Abaddon of the Deep may deepness in pleasure be ours. May our fall from heaven be just as strong as his, who hit the Earth like lightning, so greatly falling. Make our roots in Satanism be deep. May it seed a tree that towers high. Us our branches leading into Heaven from a place in hell.

In all things we pray for depth. Depth in life and its things. For pleasure unbounded. For sin to run deep. For our enemies to fall into our place and be devoured therein. For that and all of the deepness of intellect we pray,

Hales-Nema, so Noted in Memory.

To Agnes we Pray:

Come to us as a helping friend. Return us to more childish days. Renew our spirit in joy. Cast away all things of lesser living. May us and our own unite, not over serious matters but for a time of joy together. Remind us of the happier days of our youth. Transform our spirit into one care free. Take from us worry and stress. Assure us when we need assurance. Confide in us the knowledge needed to be happy.

May we come upon simpler times. May we come upon a place of a former time, the time we once lived in which is no more. Please bring us back the things of our youth.

Cast away the heavy stone. Remove from us troubles and troublesome things. Lord Agnes lead us into more joyful and better days. Send us to a place of celebration. Send us to the feast. Give us choice things in life that it be happy and problem free.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Ares we Pray:

Bring up armies that collapse dictatorships. Bring forth Democracy in your power. Lend us power against cruel reigns. Set our feet towards all things of liberty and freedom. Strengthen us against cult like thinking, forming in us an army of a single person, one and the other. Bring to us the capability to defend ourselves. Wage war against violent, hateful, and viciously harmful people. Through discipline lead society into having better people. Teach hard the lesson that excels.

Let no enemy penetrate our borders. Let no person strip away our rights, for better or for worse. Rather have us fight the good fight and uphold the humane. Be against any person that would take away our rights and freedom. Broaden them, not allowing them to slip through our fingers.

Let a new day dawn in which each and every person can go about freely, and even prison made more inhabitable, less of a workshop that produces the violent. Be there and understanding with mentally ill people and let no harassment come to them. Fight for the good people and may we do the same. Be against the vile, and may we be against the same.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Asmodeus we Pray:

You are the demon of desire. From you comes the lust for the world and its things. May the greatness of the world be given us. May our joy come from it, elated in rapture. Our mouths tasting fine foods. Our eyes knowing the beauty of things we surrender ourselves to. Our minds be wonderment. Most of all our hearts set with desire on the face of the planet.

Bring to us the better thing. Lead us to it. Give to us both new treasures and old. Squeeze out every bit of sweet juice for us to drink up, and so be the taste of life. Let us not have to quarrel and contend for better things, except to earn them, but bless us with them besides. As from your hands come the greatest of things.

So then let us not wander too far into unimportant things. Make not of our destiny one empty. Let us not be empty handed. Fill our lives with richness and may our experiences on this Earth be its best.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Azrael We Pray:

Place into our hands great power – the right power to defeat enemies who are enemies sure. Give us a way out of harm, a way away from harmful groups of people. Be as a lightning bolt against them that would harm any peacekeeper. May our ways be ever suitably right and therefore given freedom. Let our lives not be taken from the evil person. Protect our families as well.

Silence the person who slanders. Cast down the person who bullies – bringing them to their knees. Let us win in any just fight. Double down on the person who would gravely harm us or those we love. Be our power of magic as well. Guide our magic into the best result.

Burn away from us the harmful. Make of them dry weeds going into your fire. In all ways empower and protect us Lord Azrael.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Baal we Pray:

Save us as you are as unto a Satanic Messiah. Break down the locks and bars that keep us caged. Deliver us out of prison. Return us to freedom. Snap apart the cuffs that oppress us. Give to us the better judge, jury and lawyer. Put fowl words into the mouth of our prosecutors. Let no accusation against us stand. Help us with our debts. Keep us blamelessly enough to remain free. Most of all let us never be accused and punished by lies about ourselves. Let no false accusation be made against us.

May our days locked up be short if at all. In our life times never having done a bad enough thing to long keep us there. If we are there then bring us comfort and safety. Bring us as much happiness as we can find. Set our hearts on things to create. That when outside we can immediately work on them, as such in Satan's name.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Bahamut We Pray

Your fiery breath turns to ashes the truly wicked. You then take from them the things they made and give them to us. As all good things belong. As we are The Devil's People. Through your mouth is Satan heard. We must listen and live accordingly. We'd have not one thing be unheard. We will go the way you show us. We will listen to words of importance regarding our safety and escape. We will be wrapped in the power of your wings, protected by your fire.

You are the dragon form of Satan. The one from whom we accept discipline. The discipline needed to act and speak rightly. You are The Satanic Shepherd. We will go where you lead. We will not have cool water from you if we deserve boiling water. If we are taken to wrong ways you will lead us into disaster. As such we are Satanists of the wise way.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Beelzebub we Pray:

From you impurity is best known. Through you one enters into the depth of sin. We'd have known the deeper pleasures. We'd have known the impure, the furthest indulgences. Through you rottenness is grand, inviting us in, transforming it into sweet fruits. You are the wreck of a room that one wants as such. The one having us play in mud. Of you are acquired tastes. From you impure things come as a delight.

You are a thing that shouldn't be done. You are an excuse. You are a remedy from self conflicting interests. That joy we have when we eat what we shouldn't. That last dime gambled away. In all of these we pray for our safe way through. We pray they not deliver us into harm, but be a dangerous joy that yet does us no harm.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Belial we Pray:

LORD Belial master our occult ways. Bring unto us power for the magic we use. Increase us in the world by Netheral means. Cast upon our lives supernatural blessings. Bring about a mystery, a fantasy true. Open our eyes to demonic things and hell. Make the Satanic forces active in our lives.

Show to us true magic. Teach to us true magic. Guide our wisdom. Empower our hands. May we have the luck of heaven. Take us down the road we cannot see, those that end in the best places. Bring before our eyes ghosts. Bring us visions Satanic. Bring us into our own. Shape our fate through your magic. Bless us with it every waking day.

That the world be less ordinary. That greater things are known and seen. That we are not as the common person who will never know you, and so be able to serve you.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Kali we Pray:

Goddess Demon of Glory Kali we pray for the warrior way. For the way of strength. To be made tough through hardship, until we have become the strongest of people. Take from us insecurity. Place in us daring confidence. Make us bold over weak. Remove from us our fears. Have of us a striding and determined people who can fight in The Devil's Name.

Let no nay sayer be powerful enough to stop us. Remove from us the opposite kind (the weak.) Making us strong hearted and head strong. For the sake of the world bring down the weak in replace of the strong. Cut out the bleeding heart. Let stronger things more strongly stand. Let the weaker things die. Let us of your strength thrive.

Never to turn a head without due worry. To be as those acting boldly. To disregard another's principles, having chosen strength over them all in your name.

Hales- Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Lilith we Pray:

Lilith Goddess of Relationships please bring to us the best of partners. Form a friendship with them true. Bring into our lives intimacy. Bring forth unto us our partners in crime, those of whom we work with. Enter into our lives people that will help us create good things in Satan's name.

Let us not be lonely. Let us not be without our own kind. Be our pleasure, with love intertwined. Turn a hateful person in our lives into one more loving. Change our enemies into friends, or else cast them out. May all in our lives be loving and understanding, and shut the mouths of those that would slander or treat us roughly.

May we then celebrate together. May we then create together. May we truly love each other. Given all such things as we have earned and needed from others.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Mammon we Pray:

Mammon, God of Money, please make us rich. Please make us wealthy and live exuberant lives. Bring us out of poverty. See us through an excellent education. Give us the winning hand/number/card. Give us the right thinking to invent something that is highly profitable.

Be with us when we make a new store. Bring to mind what best company we could build. Bring us into favor with them, and even make us into billionaires.

We desire a better life through money and its many pleasures. We desire to live richly, not poor. We want a nice home. We want the greatest of things inside. We even seek after a palace, a mansion great, to be dressed in gems and diamonds, to be dressed in silk and eat whatsoever we desire.

Hales-Nema So Noted in Memory.

To Mephistopheles we Pray:

We ask of you a Satanic purpose. We ask from you the Devil's work. To be worked out as a Satanist, proceeding with a purpose. Whose hands you crafted, whose clay you shaped, who was assigned a purpose to work through it. Teach us talent. Give to us the right inspiration. Make our education come most easy, most naturally. Fit us into the best purpose we can have in all honor and good workmanship for Satan.

May it be highly profitable for us. May we serve in the higher ranks, even the elite, being true and worthy to create for our LORD. Give us the capability to work excellently, even unto perfection.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Mother Aeon we Pray:

Guardian Goddess Aeon, Mother to the Satanist, may your name be known far and wide. You who protect us and see us through our earliest days as Satanists. Wrap us in your wings. Nurture us and protect us. The Great Brain in the sky known as Magic – form us through magic. Enter us into that Netheraly Intelligence. A place far away that you can take us. Let our water remind us of you. Watch over our steps from the first to the final day. Pick us up if we fall. Hold our hands on darker days. With your sweet voice calm and teach us all of our days.

Be into us the greatest Mother. May many people come to worship you, for you are worthy. Lead us into the excellence of The Halls of Satanism. Rapture us out of a mediocre life into one well fashioned. Wash us in pure waters, cleansing us of sin and doubt. And may none take your name poorly and abuse it, because you are our Mother, the Mother of Satanists.

For such we pray.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Neti We Pray:

Keep us from lunacy Neti, God of the mind. Let us not believe in untrue conspiracies. Bring treatment to the mentally ill. Keep us in sanity. Bring back together our broken pieces. Impart on us a pragmatic mind. Give to us sound reasoning. Never let our rage continue for too long. Make us emotionally balanced. Teach delusions to be just that. Never let grandiosity come without truth behind it.

Reduce our stress and anxiety. Pull us out of a depressing bed. Our days more happy and carefree, a life not toil some, come to us Neti . Be our sureness. Take away all guilt. Don't let us be fixed on any poor image of ourselves but show us as the good we truly are in your loving mercy.

Wherever there is pride, magnify it. Wherever there is self worth magnify that. Be with us in any mentally troubling time. Give to us the ability to see ourselves through any mental problem. Be with us, Neti, in times that our minds are just dealing with too much. Return us to peace and calm, sureness and hope. For these we pray.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Osiris we Pray:

Osiris make of us a Living Satanic Temple. Perfect us in Satanic religious matters. Bring The Devil into our lives. Consecrate us as Satanic. Let not that temple be defiled with righteous Holy ways but continue us forth as Worshipers of Satan. Teach us the way into that Dark inner place. Emerge The Beast from us. Bring from us the fiend that dwells within. Remove our hearts from philanthropic pandering. Replace it with strong surviving means, taking away the weakness of our hearts, playing through it like the Devil's drums.

Let us be at home of iniquity. Bring into our temple real truth, that of the world, of the Light of Lucifer. Put upon our walls Satan's image. Let us come forth as a thing wicked. Concentrate our darker powers in that place. Send our hearts to those places it would not otherwise go, if only to know evil.

Fill our cups in that place with an impure drink, one pleasant and never empty. Create of us a Living Satanic Temple where pleasure abounds.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Pan we Pray:

Old God of the Celtic who brought to life celebration, bring to us the pleasure of the greatest feast, music, and revelry. Life itself is worth celebrating every day. We ask too for the greatest entertainment the eyes can have. Entertainment is important in our lives. Please lead us to the best story, the best movies, music. As such as we could most enjoy from person to person.

Please make the best out of human made entertainment. Bring to success the things we like personally [which are:]

Be a helping hand for those that would so create. Make of those mediums the best they can be. There is no good of the forest compared to our homes. Human homes are so better a place. Please enter into those homes. Please develop such things as those that provide us with entertainment. Let not our homes be vacant of such things. That within our homes we are happy, peaceful, and even enthralled within.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Quesicotyl We Pray:

Energize our lives in great power. Equip our souls with power held Nether. Bring us back to life when we are dull, lifeless and bored. Bring to us change when we need it. Let our lives be passionately lived, exciting, and animated. Lead us into a Satanic Mecca, among its higher ranks. Have us excel personally. Have us within the higher classes. Make us into refined beings.

In competition have us win. Give to us superior and more benefiting wisdom. Have us worthy of being promoted. Bring into our lives the motivation to become better, with better lives produced.

Let there be adventure. Let the right people come into our lives. Give us the best connections. Help us into something far apart from mundane mediocrity. As such a life more worth living, even every waking day. That time in such an old bed no more, as better things have come pouring into our lives and homes.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Samael we Pray:

Fallen Angel of Balance we pray to find the best place between good and evil. To find moderation. To not find excess. To not over do. To be balanced.

Teach us the difference between true good and true evil. Even out our lives. Establish a fine line, but one we can walk. Let not too much bad enter into our lives. Let true good be where it is without harm to us. Don't have us eat too much or too little. Keep our form one that is even.

Help The Christian Satanist. Give to us who want it duality. Let both sides be of help to us. Let us not be too sided minded but be double minded. To be smarter, to have advantage, and to have the best of both. Let us know one from the other, seeing them in truth, knowing such things before hand. Make of our sight two eyes, not just one. In all ways like the yin yang would represent.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Santa Muerte we Pray:

Saint of sinners Santa Muerte, guide us in our ways. Be our best idols with our best altars. Tithing to you for blessings. Praying to you for help. Worshiping you for blessings too. May idols of you only increase. May we find you worshipped in the homes of so many. May we religiously teach others about you. Laying gifts and money at your altar, looking for blessings found, of wealth, fame, protection, or love. As success from such seen by all people, leading them to worship you.

We pray that your idols and altars be made in large numbers and you find yourself in the homes of so many.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Set We Pray:

We pray for the formation of Satan's Temples. We pray for the well being of Satanists the world over. We assign you to that task. To make of us a great people. A people strong and worthy. Never being an object of shame. Never being a people that don't create. Find us a worthy thing to do from person to person. Establish great temples, unto Churches. Churches that stand tall. That cannot be ignored, finally entering into ever city. Guide Satanists into increasing Satanists and the Satanic. As such as we cannot be ignored. As such the majority in the world. Increase both our numbers and our worth.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

To Shiva I Pray:

May indulgence triumph through you. May those that would take it from us be rendered powerless. Whatsoever we desire grant us. Enter into our lives liberty that cannot be taken. Freeze them icy cold and shattered that do. Bring us forth boldly and fully powered. Hike up our level of power. Rain hale down on those that rob, as You are the greatest power that prevents people from taking from us. You stand at its border. You are a soul demanding liberty. You shut out the closed minded. You bring to a halt an aggressor. You bring to us better things protecting us as a Lion protects its Cubs. So that as wolves we may run free enjoying the meat of the land.

Madness that is tempered, forming the strong.

Water that is boiled, removing the germs.

A seed sown where it may not likely grow, but blessed to not be choked out.

Bringer of a better life and the answer to tougher questions. We so honor and pray to you.

Hales-Nema, So Noted in Memory.

Chapter 17: How to Create a Satanic Video Game

I wish I could program, for sure. But couldn't do much more than touch upon Python. So the next best thing must do: providing free ideas.

Drawing inspiration from games like Mortal Kombat, Altered Beast, The Immortal, 8 Eyes, Final Fantasy, and many Metroidvania games:

Some games stand out as illustriously Satanic. While one genre went a long way without its Satanic counterpart, once its Satanic counterpart came about it was like a great new thing. Castlevania slowly became more Satanic. So much darker, more gothic, with more of a sorcery element, and grotesque enemy bosses. No longer was it a Dracula game more than a pure hellscape. I can tell you I enjoy them immensely.

Even a Satanic Pin Ball Video game has been made before. Even the pin ball stuff given a Satanic touch. That Genesis game "Dragon's Revenge." It doesn't have to include the Devil or even any Demon for it to be Satanic. That one does, however.

Final Fantasy has long been warned as the occult by many a priest. A lot of my very own religious ideas have been taken from it. Full of beings to summon, spells to learn, demonic looking enemies, just stopping short of having Satan himself in it.

But what can be described as Satanic? It ranges from the subtle to the stronger. The way the music sounds, for one. Music I'd call opposite of gleeful, but not "sad" sounding either. Sound effects like a gong, perilous at death, gothic sounding music are some examples. This kind of gothic music has been around for as long as music has existed. One example is The Devil's Trill by Tartini. Back to the Baroque as Bach's Tocatta and Fugue in D Minor. Maybe the best example I have is the opening Bassoon music to Stravinsky's Rite of Spring. Overall the music from the Romantic area as such is the best inspiration. Call it gothic or whatever, Satanic.

For convenience sake as foundation goes all that has to be created is a Satanic form of a previous thing. Can you imagine what a Satanic Mario game would be like? Super Mario Bros. (The original game) had what was a lot like a Dragon of Satan, Bowser. Later he'd take a more cartoon form. The Castle music from Super Mario World was music as such I'd call Satanic. So in so doing just look around. Take elements from game to game and bring them into one. Or transform a game/genre into one Satanic.

It was often just the question "how could this be more brutal?" The answer being Mortal Kombat, which was asking Street Fighter 2.

I've always said that the Satanic is more natural. Its apparent in Japanese culture, which was never so tainted by Christianity as we were. Anime is largely about demons, and presented in a way Christian corrupted countries never could. We are behind in Satanism and that shows.

The setting is a blood red moon, a Demon infested cathedral, dining with skeletons at a table, a strange setting, an eerie one. An ominous setting, one that sets such a mood. Where hell is the place to fight or venture through. Something is rotten in Denmark. The great and mighty dragon full of mystery, shown in iniquity. Having one enter into a time and place of magic, evil spirits, evil fairies, goblins, warlocks and witches. Strange abandoned homes, cursed forests, swamp creatures, tombstones and graves. Just ask yourself if it is all wicked enough, or has a touch of iniquity in a beautiful enough form.

I think Nintendo struck just the right chord in Zelda: Breath of the Wild. As far as the ominous nature of Gannon goes. Before that they tried to make him just look evil. In that game though they set forth the background of him and all else to make it truly so, moving it far beyond just appearance.

A draft is the best way to start. To set forth around 500 ideas on paper and go from there. Drawing out the images you need too. Rolling out sound effects, music, improving them that go well enough or else try again from a better basis. Inspiration is just fine, in fact more helpful than anything else. Fortunately it takes a lot to plagiarize. Uniqueness however isn't a far step beyond inspiration. It is easy to do something, only differently. Everything is really just a piece from something else, brought together differently. The best composers are seen to just have changed an obscure piece of music. There is very little done that hasn't been done already.

In your creation however you must be different in a way that all goes well together. It doesn't produce a thing as good if you are just doing things the same only differently. Base it all more on what goes well together not just forming opposites. You want rather an evolved form, not one mutated.

To be more than second best will require a lot. Some of that however is just luck. Sometimes just a few things will make it a total success. It can't be said really how well it will be received, but as long as it takes for you to deem it totally worthy is how long it should take.

Chapter 18: The Principality List

Here is a list that brings occult understanding to books, games, movies, among other things that hidden meanings be made known by you.

There are four elements for each person. They are meanings given to you and the ones you love the most. The oldest aged one among them is the first person. The youngest is last. You fit in accordingly. If you are the oldest then you are the first person. If you are the second oldest then the second person, etc. The rest are those most important to you.

It is all very simple: each person embodies a set of four things from the movies you watch, stories you hear, etc. Here is The List of the Principality:

Person 1: Red, Bird, Hand, Stage

Person 2: Brown, Bear, Bee, Cane

Person 3: Green, Rabbit, Seed, Stage

Person 4: Goat, White, Ring, Thief

Person 5: Red, Cat, Fairy, Whip

Person 6: Yellow, Rodent, Wind, Lord

Person 7: Bomb/Blast/Wand, Black, Beast, Fox

Person 8: Horse, Toad, Dust, Yellow

Person 9: Assassin, Word, Lion/Tiger, Creature

Person 10: Blue, Elephant, Spirit, Stone

Person 11: Mask, Dragon, Purple, Dog/Wolf.

Let's relate it to Star Wars to pull from a popular example. Luke had his hand (1, the hand) cut off by Darth Vader (11, the mask.) Vader given the title Lord Vader places him into the 6th person. The spirit in the movie, "The Force," is relative to the 10th person. Boba Fett is an assassin (the 9th person.) Lasers shot come from the 7th person. Yoda hand holds a cane (making him person 1 with the power of person 2.) Yoda uses the spirit to lift the stone. Later he becomes person 10 The Spirit. Anakin becomes a Master (becomes person 6) and a greater master before him made it so. Upon the desert planet was the realm of person 8. That would be a general overview but there isn't a moment in the movies where these things could be formalized.

I'll go over Final Fantasy next. Starting with Final Fantasy 4. The King of Baron (6) sends out Cecil and the Red Wings (1) to get the crystals (10.) Cecil has regrets stealing them (4) and returns to the King saying as much. He talks to Rosa later (3, Seed) and the next day the King (6) sends him out to deliver a package to Mist. It turns out it was a bomb (7) that destroys the village save one, a summoner.

Or elements of Final Fantasy 6: The Esper stones (10.) Cyan and pigeons (1.) Random battles of bears (2.) The Legendary Dragons and Bahamut (11.) The under water breathing helmet (11.) Wolves to fight early in the game (11.) Locke is a thief (4.) Shadow is an assassin (9.) The Opera with Celes (3, stage.)

Final Fantasy 8 has "The SEED" (3.) Has missiles and explosions (7.) Has an Assassin, a protective ring, spirits to summon, a dance stage, whip as a weapon, lots of bird feathers, etc., to provide another example.

And Zelda, Mario, Metroid, Star Trek, LEXX, Babylon 5, cartoons one and all, movies, shows, games, all are rich with ideas pulled from the Principal List. They teach how each go together as an occult understanding. They are metaphor. Overall who wins at the end is seen among them. A shared journey is understood. They are elements that come together for a whole picture to be visible. They place you and your loved ones in it all. Take "The Hobbit" for an example. It begins with "The Word" and ends with the dragon slayed, his treasure he stole returned by a thief himself. The thief wins in that movie. The very ring of power was of his element. You could say the god of that movie was the fourth person. Gandalf the White just to add more.

Chapter 19: The Satanic Force

Satanism as a force is a living breathing and even highly intelligent thing. It is the movement of progress, makers of Kings and Queens. It's the coin turned over, especially when it needs to be. It is humankind slipping into a new way. Satanic Forces are a storehouse of hidden power: building itself up in a hidden way. It is the objective of the Satanic Sorcerer to locate that hidden thing.

Satanism as a force is a living breathing thing—as such our breath comes from it. Our words exhaled. And our life acts through it. Our actions are caused by it. It is given thought in various ways. The most substantial is from visualizing. The Satanist finds their connection to it that way. Visualizing though is a misused thing by most. That is, by the unimaginative who can only picture peaceful beaches.

Satanic Forces cause progress. It is a spirit driven into among humans, whose power is turned over to it to act. It comes from desire: desire among us to do and have better, more than that to make better. When such energy is built up by the people of the world it enters in, fully animated. It is a body given power as such, collecting as much energy as it takes to come alive.

Satanic Forces are a component of counter culture. Those things which are contemporarily forbidden. Whose demons eventually come to life. Whatever the demon of the age is. The objective of the Satanic Magician here is to see the whole picture of such a thing. To think in a way people and their cultures forbid (to dare think negativity regarding race in times like these.) To be motivated by that Modern Satanic Force is to be driven by it with all of its power. With worship given the modern devil, as a Satanist worships.

The worship of Satan and demons is our first form of worship. Our second perhaps is the worship of ourselves. The third form of Satanic worship is that of its force, as embodied by modern devils, the things people revile. It is just as well with Satanic Devils of the past, those things that past people demonized. If you are especially enlightened to, determine what future Devils will arise. It will serve you well.

Eventually the river ends and goes into a waterfall. Just the right picture to imagine going into hell. Downward, as in a water pushed staircase. At last to fall into the water deep where Leviathan dwells and His power.

It is a source of power only the different will find. Always the born Satanist whose fate is sealed to serve Satan's purpose, whose very life reflects it. That power is only accessible by a person incredibly different. They are those that will go to the hidden place. They are those dwelling among the four Fiends: Satan, Lucifer, Shiva, and Leviathan.

Satanic Forces flow through the body of a Satanist. It enacts the Satanic by their thoughts and ways, providing the means. Is like a wind that carries, a river that sends down. Resides in those patiently wanting their time to come, knowing in the end it cannot be stopped. While our power leads us there, there are none that know better, none the wise. While people clamor towards us they do not know what demon are being made. They dress that person up. They glorify, deify her or him. They are like unto walking idols, carrying Satan within themselves, and awe inspiring. A Devil's Son or Daughter then comes forth.. in such a case. As such terrible leaders have been made while Satanists retreat into places of safety knowing full and well what happened.

Who are our elites? Our elites are made up of the higher and gifted class. Those Satanists Satanic enough to serve The Devil's purpose whether or not they know they do.

A wicked people do not know that they effect the climate. When great quakes come, hurricanes, great wild fires, it is largely due to them. They don't know that they are spewing out dangerous magic. They don't know they are magicians of destructive magic. That their prey and slaughter of innocent people are just virgin sacrifices. Their blasphemy against God to add to that. These things just make the world worse and worse. They calculate Satanic Powers the wrong way. They are the bumbling and unaware kind of magician. Their idols are of fast food logos, whose meaty sandwich is a sacrifice. Whose jingle is a chant. In fact the Devil made it all so. As such are a people he can easily and naturally act through. Trademarks are idols. Movie star worship is just as much Devil Worship. Movie actors are among The Devil's Top People.

And the world is directed by Satanism. Satanism can be defined in such a way as the power of the world and its driven course. Things will significantly change. We will not "stagnate" for too long. Humans will embrace a thing in full. Will grind it until it is dull. People will soon grow tired of their cultural ideas. They'd dream of something bigger, something better, something “different.” The youth will question things more than the adults. Things may seem permanently fixed. They are not. Things may seem everlasting but for the sake of newness and the growing minds who question old ways, will the new thing appear. Satanic Forces – things demonized, the Devil Embodied, will emerge with great power.

That forbidden fruit just looks tastier and tastier..

We know what is ahead of time. It is just what’s opposite to the ways of today.

Style and creation are a more graceful element to Satanism. Just as actors and characters stand out. Each individually having a style much different then the other. Like the warrior who makes their own sword. One maybe having favor for a mace instead. Dressed differently like villains do. Going over the Penguin or Joker, examples are apparent. The way they are villainous itself not the same. The more Holy just use what is there without much thought. We however choose to dress and wield our power differently. Style comes from us while our opposites just follow conventions. Create a list of 12 names, those you most admire, for ready inspiration. Be a character. Be the sum of them all.

Once in a great while a person is aided by a great magician into becoming a formidable leader. Sometimes a True Satanic Child is made that way. Some sort of powerful being usually. Satanic beings can be made that way to greater or lesser effect. It is all especially true if the time and place is right. As long as magicians are around that is so. That in a moment of time, though brief, magic is much more powerful.

Neglect not to learn to summon. It is of the Greater Power to do so. A Satanist is entwined with these forces.. aligned. Magic practice begets the Satanic in whatever form. Each demon contains its own entity as I went over in prayers earlier to some extent. Consider them the nature of Satanic Spirits, and a course of things in the world to flow with. Our demons within are so formed changing us from a regular form to one made of Satan. You are not then lost but to your former self, seeing and understanding better, whose reality is now complete and full.

The Satanic Way is one lost in happy pleasure. Satanism is not a bitter and self obtrusive way to be. Quite the contrary, it is world loving and well living. With all happiness and pleasure we move along in the course of the world unhampered. And for better or worse Satan will have complete rule over it. For us the better but for the spiritual minded no real life here will be had or found. Much worse for the genuinely evil though, who is grinded away into his teeth and devoured.

A thing good is soft spoken. When it is not heard then it becomes louder. If it comes to a point that it has to shout then it does so, calling forth Satan who will come to correct things, washing away evil for them. He will not come unless in dire need. Our faults are not his. When he comes there comes death and destruction in full. Some may succumb who are innocent but the strongest force is there, substantial enough to eradicate evil doers.

When that evil side creeps in you, you will know it. You will turn your head to see their destruction, and a fiendish grin will be on your face.

While your heart will be set on good things like progress. Where your joy will continue. As a Satanist wielding great power over the Earth, destined to receive good things.

Chapter 20: On A Different Road

We walk to the beat of a different drum

We hope to find Satan down that road. Like goats we go forward, up into mountains. To a place where the highest go so they may be alone. If there is one right we fight for it is to be left alone, to be able to be alone no matter who and where we are. Yes, even if it means "cruel" isolation in jail.

There is nothing more energy draining and time wasting than pointless conversations with "friends." While a person could spend time with themselves and should, creating good things, learning about one self in the process.

As Satanists we are individually geared.

We have our own culture/ community to tend to and work on. The popular issues of the day would stop us. Would interfere with it. They are cults of thought which say "if you are not for us you are against us." We are not so much against as unconcerned or uncaring. We have our own to work with. We have our own to be among. They would waste our time and tatter our beliefs in a harmful way. We cannot allow it.

We find individually what we like. We'd given it serious thought. What is ours is ours truly. We should appreciate the effect among our own kind. Whatsoever way a person would dress or talk (in fact new accents are common among deeply rooted Satanists) is allowable/ perfectly fine, in fact preferable. Among the crazy we get to act crazy. It is a thing we all can agree on. There'd be no new style without someone being different to start with. We are very often trend makers.

We see brilliantly different people among us, and it is most inviting.

Everyone deserves at least a little bit of respect. At least until a line is crossed that shouldn't be. We have found happiness enough to ignore many things. We may be a people unhampered by politeness. We may be people having no set principles at all. If we are happy then we will live happily, with not too much that bothers. We should correct ourselves if we feel we should and carry at least a certain aura of respect. We are not however a people of "majority rule," inasmuch the least voted on is probably a better leader, as far as typical human tastes go.

That very different road will lead you into the Realm of the Satanic. That is a place hidden from normal eyes. It is even spotted at a distance. To the day you've found yourself among our kind. To most it is a desert road. In the mind of a Satanist they sense something there. They are guided by intuition. Intuition itself serving them well, having been developed. So comes a day unexpected. That day you encounter The Devil. On that day your judgment comes. Never too harshly, but set to simply improve you. He will tell you of his desired purpose for you. Life afterward perfectly served with the Demonic ever so more all around you. On that day you'll have been brought into his trip ("A trip of goats.") Sitting among The Council of Goats, when you do, be attentive.

I don't combine isolation with individuality but rather define isolation in what I say as "independently one self." The word independent however is never fully so. We all depend on others to some extent. We are at least somewhat based on outer design. We have for ourselves our own people. To rot in a room is a horrible thing given time. I have experienced just that. No internet social groups can supplement it. Though we may start alone: our people are few and far between, we should put to heart creating groups for the sake of having with us like minded people.

Chapter 21: Perfecting by Enhancing

The home of a Satanist made better over time, a place to improve towards perfection.

If you lack a hobby then a good place to turn to is improving your home. There is so much within it that can be better, believe me.

Look into what could be better and slowly improve upon it. Examples are just too many to count but here are some ideas:

Better locks. Locks that will certainly be hard to break. To add a hinge and lock to a dresser drawer. To paint a dresser. To get tupperware for storage as for what's inside.

Thicker and better looking curtains over ordinary blinds. A dust buster for cleaning. Better door knobs. Better faucets. Better shower curtain. Better place for soap and shampoo. Better power outlet covers. Better clothes hangers. New shelves. Better lamps and better lighting. Better multi outlets. Good posters. Small fridge. Ice maker. Instant drinks.

To have anything that serves convenience. To have anything that serves ease. Things that make your home look better room by room. Small touches like nostalgic drinking cups. Having a few silver spoons (actual silverware.) Inventive decorating. Slowly but surely your home will improve. Much of it doesn't even cost much. While some live in a home that will change very little over their lifetime inside, a Satanist should give consideration into making it all better and better.

Some things are especially important, such as comfort and entertainment. If all you can do to keep it clean is to buy plastic utensils and paper plates then it is worth it. Sometimes new for newness sake is worth it. As you find things you need throughout the day, as you see them lacking or absent, you should provide. Could be a coaster, could be a dry erase board, could be many different things. It comes with the question of what you need for what you need.

Chapter 22: How the Accuser Should Accuse

In such a world as blame placing and irresponsibility as this, The Satanist should be sure s/he is not the same.

"Blamelessness" is a powerful word. It means undeserving of blame. To not have faults attributed to people worthy of punishment. How so many people are blameless! But how many more are not. That includes however stricter laws, perhaps laws that shouldn't be.

A person who is honest has earned trust. A person who accepts responsibility should be treated at least a little more fairly. They that do not cover up their crimes but admit them should too. These are traits not easily come by. Most would flee the scene. Most would ready a lie. Most would cover up. As for me I could never do something horrible, like murder. Those that are lucky enough to hide for awhile will be found out eventually. They will live their lives in fear. They will live looking over their shoulder. Their abomination buried but uncovered leading them to be found through the excellent science of forensics, until that day comes that there is a heavy knock on the door and their time has come to face the judge. Fortunately for me it'll never happen. If anything I'd just face some lame misdemeanor.

If anyone harms an innocent peace keeping person then their punishment should be double. More than double. Some of such a soulless nature to them fill me with rage. Such as the person in a car being pursued by some sort of biker gang until he could go no further in his car, they busted his windows out, took him from the car and beat him up. They that do such things deserve a most gruesome punishment.

Some find no difficulty at all going against the death penalty. Their "good morals" just won't allow it. But how different they would feel if their loved ones were killed. The power of the law must be string enough to not be as such a "morality." Good people do not want to harm any living soul. For the sake of both humanity and the victim however, the choice must be made to punish evil doers.

The Satanist begins looking around at the world. From nowhere it seems, their heart has grown. They can no longer themselves be selfish or uncaring. They even start feeling bad. They don't want unhappiness. They don't want others to feel bad. Even when they were angry for a good reason, they feel bad about it. That is a heart of a precious person.

Very well Satanism won't lead you into heinous cold hearted acts. "Not on The Devil's watch."

Chapter 23: Recipes for Elemental Spells

They are formulas to create new magic with. Magic words, corresponding deities, ritual items, definitions and prayers among them.

Of Fire- Ra, Phoenix, Satan, Ares, Bahamut, Ifrit, Azrael, Dagon, Dragon Whose Words are Fire

The Flame: Sapphire, Red, Sword, "Rafa."

Your flame be everlasting. The beginning of a new thing. A good and appropriate start. An area of protection.

Pray to Satan for an inner burning flame. Pray to Bahamut for his Fiery breath. Pray to Azrael that the power of fire comes into your hands. Pray to Dagon that fire become your plaything. For that touch of power to exuberate your life.

The Candle of Life: Emerald, Orange, Candle, "Raca."

Desire. Lasting goodness. Consecrating a good thing. Comradery, evenness, the light around, steadfast things, the light of life, bringer of good things.

Pray to Azrael that your power builds upon a foundation that can't be shaken. Pray to Phoenix that you survive the worst of things. That though life is currently bad it be made better.

Great Inferno: Topaz, Red, Tower Tarot, "Gren."

A quarrel that only magic can fix. Looming disaster, the power that surrounds (especially coming from you), a powerful presence, for great achievement.

Pray to Bahamut that you be protected within his wings. Pray to Dagon for the obstacle between you and those you hate. Pray to Ares for the talent of war. That you find yourself more apt over your competition.

Smoke: Smoky Quartz, Grey, Coal, "Rasmuth."

To make oneself obscure, a secret, power of fire over air, the last resort, Blasphemy of The Dragon, The Power of Satanism, a Satanic created thing.

Pray to Ifrit that the evil climate does not suffocate and consume you. Pray to Satan that danger eludes you. For yourself to be hidden among those who would calculate your destruction.

Flare: Ruby, Red, Incense, "Raflar."

When you want your enemies gently pushed away. Or simply for any problem to be. To cast a good start as well. Is valuable to perform after a new thing has been finished, magically pushing it into becoming a successful thing.

Pray to Azrael for the fiery power of your purpose. Pray to Ifrit that the power of your purpose reach far and wide. Call on Ares to limit the success of your opponent.

Of Water- Wa, Leviathan, Shiva, Set, Kali, Monster in the Depths

The Flood: Pearl, Blue, bowl, "Waf."

To bring things to shore with the power of Leviathan. To wash away bad things. To have your enemies consumed. For the pouring over of life into a life new.

Pray to Leviathan that you be enriched by The Satanic Tides. Call upon Leviathan to pour out the purpose of Your Name. Call on Set to wash away old and unattractive things.

Ice: Crystal, Blue, Crystal Ball, "Wac."

To solidify a thing. To keep a thing. To preserve it. To stop fiery things bringing them to a halt. To cool a soul.

Pray to Shiva that bad things are stopped in its tracks. Or that good things be frozen in place to stay. Call upon Kali to shatter the ice of an undesired frozen thing.

Rain: Jade, Blue, Smaller Crystals, "Wan."

To bring down good things. To bring forth blessings. To wash away the old (undesired) things and roll in the new and better.

Pray to Set that magic rains down upon you with its complete blessing. Call on the Beast which is The Monster of the Sea.

Potion: Angel Aura, Green with Blue, Container or Chalice, "Wapo."

Any remedy, fix, solution, error corrected, for health, for better living.

Pray to Leviathan that your waters are cool and most purifying. Call upon Leviathan to wash away the negative and replace it with good.

Of Air- Ga, Ramuh, Osiris, Neti, Belial, Pan, Hermes, Lucifer, Angels that Ascend

The Wind: Topaz, White, Fan, "Gan."

To carry a message subtly but effectively. To go the course of good luck and opportunity, or carried away by a purpose into greater things. Can alternatively mean to be given direction. To be taken where you want to be.

Pray to Hermes that your wisdom take you far. That the words of your goodness are spoken by the right people. Pray to Osiris to be lifted into a greater place in life.

Star: Diamond, White, Ring, "Gar."

Magnification of your own greatness. To be in upper classes. Used to make yourself rich and famous.

Call upon Lucifer to be as perfectly formed as he is. For stardom, for notoriety. Pray to Kali that your worldly purpose pierce and wields itself strong.

Lightning: Opal, White, Wand, "Gawl."

A quick and strong thing. A thing precisely wanted effected in the best possible way. To dispatch an enemy from afar. To deal down sudden and powerful destruction, magically. Or for the quickness of oneself.

Pray to Belial that you be both quick and strong, delivering good after good. Call upon Lucifer for Salvation. That he redeem you with the brilliance of his power.

Ascension: Jasper, Yellow, One's Own Soul, "Gawn."

To evolve use Ascension. To be made better. For self improvement. To be given greater power. To have charge over your world. To find yourself in better positions.

Pray to Hermes that your words descend into hell. Pray to Lucifer for enlightenment. Pray to him for all good things.

Blizzard: Fluorite, Blue, Woodwind, "Gab."

To make your world Darker- for a Satanic life among the Satanic. To change the surrounding world as such, inviting in Satan, opening the doors of iniquity into your life.

Pray to Osiris for survival. Pray to Ramuh to cut a path forward for you. Pray to Belial for warmth and comfort beside the Fires of Satan.

Float: Obsidian, White or Black, Feathers, "Gaf."

To prevent a problem that may be incurred by evil people and their ways. As when the Earth Quakes, those that float above it are the only that will be saved. If you want to glide above and over others then cast Float.

Pray to Hermes that heavenly beings uplift you. Pray to Set that you be a step higher than others. Have yourself out of the reach of troublesome people. To grow higher enough to look down on them, to their disdain.

Of Earth- Da, Lilith, Agnes, Abaddon, Samael, Beelzebub, Mother Aeon, Baal, Mammon, Power over the Lands

The Quake: Obsidian, Brown, Hammer, "Gak."

A sudden great change. Or to open the doors of hell. To cause a change that it seems only magic can. To rattle the foundation of your life, or to cause chaos.

Pray to Abaddon that the pits of hell be opened. Pray to Agnes that your material worth be effected. Call on Beelzebub that you are not laid to waste. Pray to Baal that your structure yet stands.

The Eruption: Lava Stone, Brown, Trapezoid, "Dara."

Power ushering forth powerfully, as strong as can be.

Pray to Baal that your cage be broken apart. Pray for escape. Pray to Agnes that destruction does not come too close to home. That you be plucked out of such a place and as a Satanist, preserved.

The Season: Turquoise, Gold, Leaf, "Dase."

For a time of happiness, a time of pleasure. For a time of purpose and a time of treasure.

Pray to Samael for an even life. Pray to Lilith for a life of good friends and a loving family. That she corrects the unloving. Call on Abaddon that your greatness in life is continuing, without end.

Gravity: Agate, Grey, Drum, "Dagra."

Bringing things down to Earth with the power of Magic. To draw from the Nether.

Pray to Mother Aeon for the strength to lift heavier things in life. Pray to Abaddon that those against you are given a weight they cannot drop. That as long as they are, it is nothing more than a burdening imposition.

Shell: Tiger's Eye, Yellow, Sigil per Demon, "Das."

For self protection. For safety. For the safe road and to remain protected and unharmed. To dodge anything bad such as sickness and death.

Pray to Guardian Goddess Mother Aeon to watch over and protect you. Pray to Lilith that there is no evil in people's hearts against you. If they are after you, that they be brought to a halt, destroyed before they can destroy you.

Ritual Actions for Each: Fire magic involves candles, incense, swords, daggers, bold imagery, a cloak. Water magic includes bowls, a chalice, crystal ball. Air magic involves feathers, a bell or any sound making occult tool, a wand, astral projection, and things of visualizing/meditating. Earth magic includes herbalism, also a wand, stones, a ground circle, foods, blood. They are all apparent enough.

They all include pen and paper, the Tarot, Symbols/Sigils (including necklaces) as apparent enough.

The Prayer of a Total Sum:

Gak, shake the foundation of what is. Gawl, our enemies cower. Loft, our love prevails. In due season we will come around. Dase-Dara, it will be profound. Gan, carry us away into his purpose. Gar, where great things are found. Lift from us burdens. Gaf-Dagra, giving them to our enemies to carry. Ga, life in lush in your name. Gray-Gren, temper us.

May we bask in pleasure without end. Wan-Dase, in due season. Lift our souls. Raise us high. Make us a power over the Earth, Gawn, Gawl, Gak, Gren. Establish us in excellence. Forbid our enemies from destroying us. Gren-Das, Gar, too high to reach. With our sword in hand we declare ourselves a great power, at one with Satan. With this water we wash our hands of Christian obstructions to it. Gawl- Waf lend us your power. Gawn, greatly so with the sound of this bell. Now here what I say, as words in the wind that reaches all places:

Satan is King and we are his power beneath him. We sit at his feet. We will conquer in his name. We will take the world as our own. One by one mastering its majesty.

Dase, be with us in this time. Raflar, have us consume the entire Earth. Increase us in number and power. With this dagger guide my hand into it. May the curtain be forever closed on Christian ways. Gren, see to it.

Cast upon our enemies into a cruel lot. Have them extinguished as this candle's flame. That we may burn bright. That we may thrive. That the world over know our name. That we be as stars that look down upon the Darkened Earth.

The feathers fall but make no sound. Dagra-Gaf! The majesty of the Earth has been found by none but us. Gar-Gawl! Our sword has been tempered. Rafa-Wak! Now we may proceed forth as the power of the air.

Our symbol and flag a powerful thing. The gift of life for those that carry it forth. We drink in Satan's Name.

Our hammer breaks down the cross in the name of Lilith, Agnes, Abaddon, Samael, Beelzebub, Mother Aeon, Baal, and Mammon. Gak! Has split in two. Gawl! Has shattered!

We take off that ring of our marriage to God and replace it with that of The Devil's. Now living to serve and worship him. Ever so and for all time we are Satanists. May we enter into His Kingdom Earth with eyes washed over to see the new dark brilliance before us.

In time due deliver our gift at the altar. In rehearsal against God until God is no more within us. To pray for a total and evermore separation. To go the Satanic route being invested with the great things of Earth. Never to be half heartedly Satanic but Satanic in full.

Gak-Dara, may our enemies be consumed. Dagra, bring down from Netherly Heaven our blessings. Lucifer, guide us through the night. Satan, may we find greatness beside you.

Our lives transformed into your good and everlasting flame. Wan, may those roots grow to cause as such a towering Satanic Tree.

Raca! Hales-Nema. So Noted in Memory.

Chapter 24: Some of my Favorite Things

A list of your favorite things is handy when money comes in. To have a specific and well thought out list is like having a treasure map. You know where it is, you just have to get it. I based mine on things like intuition. I've come by it with a lifetime of thought. Some I have dropped since then, others not. Some I have added to since then. A lot of them aren't expensive really. I would prefer these over money when it comes to copyright stuff, not including my books, which are in public domain (until now.) However I would be more interested in simply saying "give me this and that before you sell or trade what I made." That instead of money.

Anyways here is a chunk of my current list:

I like to have good body wash. Brut body spray and deodorant, Dial soap, a scrubbing brush or pad, a quality electric shaver, among some of the better things for my hygiene.

Touch lights, you press down on them and they light up.

I find tape is often useful.

I love having a variety of pens. I like multi pen pens (one pen letting you choose between a few different colors.) And singular color pens. Marker pens, too. Along with those small and large notebooks and graph paper. Stencils as well. Anything that aids creative writing/drawing. Also: a Spirograph set. As well retractable erasers (erasers like pens.) Also a pack of sheet music paper. I also like NFL and Halloween pencils. Retro gaming pencils, and mechanical pencils, too. Large post it notes are very handy. For glue I like rubber cement. Rubber stamps as well (ink based.)

I am always needing stamps and envelopes. Usually I use the smaller envelopes. I like designer stamps. Usually there is some good choices at the post office. Also shipping envelopes for small packages.

I love stickers. I like making my own especially, with a cheap printer. In particular I like holographic and glow in dark stickers. Best of which are glow in dark stars for a ceiling. Also a stick- on LCD clock (one about the size of a watch.) Sticker books are cool things if you like what they are based on.

A comfortable chair is essential.

Ice trays for my large consumption of ice tea, or better, and ice maker. Ice trays made of silicon, which don't break.

100% wool socks. They are warm, look good, and dry quickly. Long John's are very good at keeping my whole body warm. Rain coats: gotta have 'em. A good umbrella, too. For other clothing a hood by itself. Not a sweater with a hood but just the hood. Toboggans sometimes too. Having every team clothing of the NFL as they are each good in their own way. Retro gaming ties are my kind of ties. White wings on a back of a shirt. Long sleeve shirts. Extra wide pocket jackets (enough to fit a medium sized notebook inside.) A retro gaming wallet. Not just outdoor sandals but top name shoes as I've spent an arm and leg on before. Arm warmers help as well. As do scarfs. A fanny pack is a good thing itself, with how much I carry. Along the same lines are solid color cargo pants

Calculators are handy. Especially with money figures.

For batteries I like the top brands. I also like rechargeable batteries and a recharger as they save you tons of money.

Mp3 players. I still believe they are more convenient than smart phones for playing music files. Being small they fit right into your pocket, taking up very little room.

Pocket radios. They are still alive and thriving. To this day I see people using them, even people with smart phones. The AA battery kind for me. Power for it can last a month, easily. With day after day use you can even get 2 weeks out of two (cheap) batteries. To add to that an armband radio, while the battery life is shorter they are even more convenient. Oh, and wireless headphone radios or music players. A remote control radio as well.

A good pillow. One thick and soft. An air mattress. A yoga pad. Egg shell bedding to top it off.

A power bank. At least my phone would have power during a power outage!

Jell pillows are nice as well. A retro gaming pillow case. Inflatable cushions are good to have, if you have to deal with unpadded seats.

Earbuds over thick and cumbersome headphones. Besides, I've never seen much difference any way. I have a brand I like. That brand (Sony) lasts me a year or more while the cheaper ones may last but a few days. Big, big difference there.

I love outdoor sandals. They are easy to put on, take off, and are comfortable. Plus they make me feel like Jesus! Shoe pads are also nice, adding comfort.

I sometimes stock up on thin malleable things. Such as a pack of cards or neat foreign bank notes. I mail them along with my letters. Necklaces, mood rings, stickers, a lot of such things.

I drink iced tea more than anything. Has to be instant tea. I drink instant coffee too. Not as much but just as important. Just black tea with ice. No sugar. No flavor. Not green. Black. There's only one better: Oolong tea. A thermos for my tea. Just one plastic but thick. A cooler for ice is also nice. Retro gaming drink coasters. To include in it a chalice/goblet or stainless steel cup. A coffee cup as well, especially things of 1980s nostalgia. Disposable cups too.

OTG cables are useful for backing up files from smart phone to whatever or visa versa.

A good gamepad. Fortunately they are much more universal thanks to USB. My favorite game pad is the X Box 360 controller. Also the Genesis 6 Button. But whatever works and doesn't break is good enough. PC games are simply cool as long as they are big box. My first PC game was "Betrayal at Krondor" and what a game!

Handy little fans for a hot day. Those battery powered. Times when I was in an especially hot climate I needed very expensive powerfully running fans. Didn't need a cooler after that. However refrigerated air units are much better.

Watches with indigo. With a calculator maybe. Definitely with a specific date shown. Also watches of such things as Nintendo and Mickey Mouse stuff. In fact I have a Mickey Mouse Wizard Fantasia watch.

I like novelty lighters. Designer lighters. Zippo lighters, lighters of all kinds. As well a magnifying glass lighter, or a USB electronic one (though good ones are hard to come by.)

I love figurines such as D&D based. Of little devils and stuff or just little crystal/glass figures of animals. About best of all are well made plastic miniature dinosaurs. Little green army men too. A crystal ball. A magic 8 ball. I also like MOTU (Masters of the Universe) figures. The He Man sword, too.

Idols are dear to me. Especially Shiva. However Santa Muerte or any certified demon is a good thing to have as an idol. They can even just be a Devil looking action figure. With another occult tool: a bell. I'll add to that fairy statues small to large. Troll dolls, too. And I'll add to that Aeon Flux figures. The larger idol the better. I also like King Cobra statues and other King Cobra things.

If they made Tarot posters I would buy one. Such as a poster of the Major Arcana at least. I very much like Tarot Cards. Any of a good drawing design but particularly the traditional Rider Waite deck.

Am always needing tacks and I like tack boards.

Neat folders of neat designs are nice. I also like binders, especially The Trapper Keeper brand.

A measuring cup for warming water in a microwave, one of thick glass for the times I brew my tea. Also: collapsible cups.

Necklaces are nice to have so long as they come on and off easy and don't snap apart. Those of maybe an Udjat, Lucifer Sigil, Eye of Providence. I also like key chain necklaces of retro gaming things.

Clip on sunglasses to hide the eyes, yet still be able to see. Glass wipe cloths as they clean lenses much better.

Nice ice trays, like those that glow in the dark.

Any memory card I could use

Fingerless gloves are nice. I like gloves but they inhibit the fingers. Fingerless gloves do not. And it is a family tradition having grown up in a biker family.

Just a nice blanket that goes with my retro gaming interests.

Toy keyboards are a thing I especially like. Just a narrow set of keys to strum out a melody instead of a "masterpiece." Small flutes as well. Other toys include micro machines, hot wheels, TMNT stuff. Also harmonicas.

Game Boy games are the games I like to collect the most. Whatever it is, game cases are good to have with them, CIB (complete in box.) As well I like any valuable old gaming thing. Not just games or machines, but comics and books, manuals, figures, cards, whatever: a wall clock, a watch. Come to think if it: a game and watch from Nintendo. As well the GBA, especially the pearl blue color GBA SP.

Retro gaming flags. Retro gaming clothing of all kind.

A great big Nintendo or SEGA neon sign or banner would look so good in my room! An arcade machine too, especially TMNT Turtles in Time or Mortal Kombat 2. Also: cloth posters of retro gaming things.

I also like well made LCD games including poker and Sudoku. In fact Konami produced a good TMNT game in its era. However Sudoku on paper is just as well.

Old gaming magazines, especially EGM. More than that: Final Fantasy strategy guides.

A room divider for a bit of privacy.

Crystal necklaces.. more powerful than diamonds! In particular blue and rose quartz.

I gotta say, I love Pogs to this day.

A ritual box (such as a small wooden box) one that I paint sigils onto and place inside blue and rose quartz stones.

I use pocket dictionaries of basic English to remember things in life word by word.

A nice clock radio that let's you charge your phone on. One that plays music files as well. Also: shows the temperature.

Bluetooth speakers. Bluetooth display screens.

Remote control lights are awesome. So are EL panels and a nice lamp. My favorite kind of lamp is a frosty black gray Lilly lamp Pixel art too such as of old pixelated games made into a figure of light

I like Satanic posters. Also retro gaming posters or any late 80s to early 90s nostalgia.

Tokens. Pokémon coins, stuffed animals. Retro gaming figures, stuffed things like Mario.

Certain playing cards or just movie cards. Final Fantasy, NFL, TMNT, old Nintendo cards, Magic the Gathering. Pokémon, the best among them. Final Fantasy cards most of all. Card protectors for them. As well Marvel Universe cards.

I especially like to collect old video game manuals. More than games, more than just about anything else.

A printer/copier/scanner and ink, designer paper, printer and sticker paper along with it.

Needle and thread, patches, sewing machines, leather, buttons, tailoring things. An interest I've never followed through on. Shirt making tools would be nice (things for making your own designs on shirts.) Particularly good are Jade buttons.

Game making software though I am not sure if I'd ever use it.

Picture frames for online printed art. The more subtle digital picture frames too. Also: grotesque art.

New cart batteries for old games, as a thing to fix, to restore usability to. Safety screw driver as well. A soldering iron and things needed for modding old machines. Computer parts as well.

Reproduction carts, everdrive cart, PCB board and cart for a new ROM file, as well as new game boxes and all the bells and whistles to make your own game.

I love a good calendar especially one of my particular interest, retro gaming.

Good snapping together Tupperware. Make sure they do snap together good! I thought I found a great deal once. Got them home and found the top wouldn't stay on. So I had just a rectangular bucket. I also like Halloween pumpkin buckets, are such an awesome way to store things. Big pouches serve the same purpose, especially for pens. As well lock boxes or locking cabinets. My favorite carrying case isn't a backpack or purse but a brief case.

Valuable coins are good to have. I like The Walking Liberty coins most of all. Bullion is a good commodity. Silver, gold, to buy a little at a time, having it tucked away.

Comic books are among the most fun thing to buy. I like to just buy a few at a time, at least when there was a nice comic store just a few blocks away. Whatever came to mind, Harley, Loki, Lucifer. If you see a first run, issue 1, then all the better. I opt for the cardboard backing and plastic sleeve per comic. Stores that sell comics always have them. I also like all TMNT comics. Comic book subscriptions are a good thing to have.

Magazine subscriptions are nice, though dwindling. I predict they'll return to fashion however.

A good electronic lantern whose light is bright, preferably with a rechargeable battery as they burn through power quickly. It is good to have a soft light too, drinking coffee at night listening to music in a dimly lit room. A fiber optic lamp is awesome, too.

Things like mini PCs, Arduino, Raspberry Pi, are neat little electronic project-based items. So are bread boards and things like computer or radio projects. Honestly though, I'd rather have others do that work. I'd just buy what others quickly put together.

I love 3D printers. Never had the chance to get one. They'll go down in price, I'm sure.

Resin work looks like fun. To make things of plastic with it. Like pouring its liquid form into molds. Along the same lines, clay.

Glow in the dark tape. Glow in the dark paint. The higher grade. There are two types of glow in dark things. One is better than the other. Then a third kind, glow sticks (which I also like a lot.) Glow in the dark marbles, too.

Solar panel things from large to small. In the roof, outside of a window. Charging a large battery, charging a small one. Solar panels lights that carry through the night.

A glue gun. A stapler: one large the other small. A protractor for making circles, one metal.

My favorite supplements: DHEA, Ginkgo Biloba, Saint John's Wort, and vitamins. All in strong doses.

A devil version of anything: cup, Smurf, pencil, keychain with a Devil on it.

Valuable rings. Black pearls. Sapphire and diamonds. Lotto scratchers if any chance to have them. I also like cheap but well made mood rings.

Gift cards so that my money has to be spent on food. A black kitty cat clock (like Felix the cat.) Nintendo/ Final Fantasy/ Pokémon wall clock or watch. A plasma TV, the most magic of them all! Retro gaming pins. Black lights. Book shelf. Locks and hinges to add to things like dresser drawers. Dry erase board, Q tips, Brut deodorant, Peroxide plus baking soda toothpaste, long style ice trays for water bottles, digital projectors, surround sound and screen, cushioned couches. Phone and tablet stand.

Eye glasses. I sometimes need new ones. I don't get cheap ones.

Dictionary of music that goes over every term and method you would need to know. Such as the Oxford version as thick as it is. Isis unveiled (an occult book.) Really small refrigerators, foldable lawn chairs, time signature/ keyboard chord chart posters, electronic pencil sharpeners, any number of retro gaming things: thermos, cups, disposable cups, pencils, pens, stamps, folders, boxes, cases, totes bags, cell phone case, magnets, coin purse, fanny pack, socks, pillow case, binder, curtain, pouch, lighter, notebooks, sleeping bags, statues, hats, etc. of retro gaming design.

These and my Prayer Sheet materials (paper specially formed into written prayer sheets.) They are:

White cardboard paper, ribbons, glue, small stapler, sheet protectors, laminator, foreign bank notes and coins, thumb print ink pad, cards (like MTG), holographic stickers, glow star stickers, folders with pockets especially if at all Satanic, glitter, Tarot Cards, black feathers, glitter glue, printer for images/ stickers, that can scan.

End of List

The purpose of this list is just to give you ideas. Your own list is more important. You'll never have to look far to find a thing you really want. You will be ready to look for it. You can share it with others to show just what you like. They could serve for your own gifts and gifts for others. A list of giving added to it if you like giving friends or family gifts. They will teach you about yourself. They will broaden possibility. They will create possibility.

They are things I pray for from Satan. From people too, and demons.

Chapter 25: You Daily Chances and Choices

A life unlived is not a life. A life of no good has no good.

The principles are most simple: you take what you put out. What you have worked for you have earned. These days people have ever smarter things to say. It must be because of internet posting of messages. I have seen it and placed myself against it. I would rather talk vaguely. If a truth is simple and easily accepted then it is true indeed. People are looking for some mega speech in some cases. I haven't any more advice then to enjoy life and work to add to that. Like the formula to my Anti Voidalism books. Working to make life better is a craft. Even something you can call a "Satanist Craft." While others dim away (in this era they are many but we are few) we grow higher.. as sorcerers and craftsmen both.

A Great step toward adventure

Once in a great while a bold move could breath new life into us like nothing else could. May mean to just get a bus ticket to a place far away. Less so to just a hotel awhile in your own city. Any new interesting thing added to life brings with it quality. Things can become so mundane. The spark of a new hobby lights up a life. The emergence of any new and good thing makes life a bit more lovely. We like to handle new things. It isn't "new for newness sake," but "the goodness of variety."

A small step toward doing good

We all have to do good sometimes for the sake of our self esteem. It can be for yourself too, however. To clean, to tend to hygiene, a chore, among them. To actually give someone something (just hope and pray they can take from you just once.) We labor poorly when we only work for ourselves. We could gear ourselves toward bad things always treating others poorly and very well come to hate ourselves in the process or do as much good as we can. It's not true that "no good deed goes unpunished." We'd certainly not have ourselves taken from (I would say so at least) but better good comes from kindness and understanding over offerings of material things, over making others depend on you (who don't care about you otherwise.)

Stepping stone to heaven

Things entering us into higher classes. You've got to start somewhere. The place of the rich and famous. Bringing the protection and value of money in life. Things dreamers have long dreamed but few have awoken to better things. That Satanic Spirit certainly desires. It craves. It wishes. We are not damned who are not evil, except by evil people, but not by God. God isn't evil. God does exist. He isn't found in the Old Testament, however. Many a Christian is wrong to seek Him out in the old testament. It causes a lot of harm! Love, appreciation, and acknowledgement is more than enough for God. Faith is what pleases Him. Love, appreciation, acknowledgement is a powerhouse of faith and all that is needed.

The foundation of your life

On what stone have you built your life around? Brick? Steel? Aluminum? Aluminum may be cheap but it is certainly put to good use! We may not be people of diamonds but crystal has its magical effect. Particularly intricate people have carved their lives out as though with wood. Attention to detail is of utmost importance. That provides ways and means to enhance, reduce, increase in an optimal way. To have found yourself in a better place, even everyday, those that put in will take out, will reap what they sow.

Strength

Strength is the right way to go. It means to stop yourself from feeling sorry and to refute grief, instead choosing power over your feelings, life and viewpoint. It means to stop such thinking as "things will never be fair, they'll always hate me." It stops such thoughts as "my life is miserable." When you start to cry then start to consider more positive things. Like a bright sided thinker would do. Be emotionally strong. It will stop so many bad feelings: remorse, self pity, anger, intolerance, hatred, even hatred leading to harm, which may lead to your punishment. The choice to be strong is the best choice you can make.

Truly constructive thinking

"You are as you think." It is often said, and true. To emerge yourself in positive thoughts may very well be the best thing you could do. That is comprised of positive thought, a polishing of your image, optimism, pride, etc., those being the most important. So can you sit with these kinds of thoughts? Sometimes we have to start from the bottom. Sometimes we were at the top but slowly slid down. We have to pick ourselves back up in such cases. We have to go over our thoughts through and through until our minds are transformed into better ones.

Could be a material thing you use regularly. A kind of drink to keep in stock.

What material things are the best? They are things you use every day. Some of them are quite cheap. Some of them may cost a lot but last years. A new phone can last a whole year. A new pillow: the best around, add quality to your rest, as does a nice blanket. To use just a little better of a laundry detergent adds quality to your life. You will know what you rest on and wear is as clean as can be. Whatever your daily hobbies are should be funded. Iced tea, liquor if you prefer, or coffee. Mixed drinks, too. Remembering that variety is an important thing. There are many things you can buy that you get regular use out of, such as glasses, nice clothing, and a good watch.

Choosing to like new things

Ever notice you used to just love doing a certain thing but no longer do? That is so true for me. Not many of my interests have even carried over into my modern life. I am sure if I would sort of force myself to engage in them just awhile then I would like them again. It is a line that I should cross. I eventually do, kind of from impulse though, not so deliberately by choice.

Finding a fun thing to do.

There are masters of entertainment that know the importance of entertainment and bank on it. They'll have surmised theaters and exploration, travel and excellent dining. They'll have swimming pools and adult rides at a theme park. Take a friend, have friends that liking going around with you.

When sitting and waiting is good enough

The internet has enabled this to be so. In terms of higher and higher stats. Such as the Hope for a video to be well received. In fact it drives the internet more than anything else. If you have a positive and secure future then great. Anyone that can take a seat and know great things will come sits as a King/Queen. Hopefully you are not on the opposite end of the spectrum. Far more many are it seems. If you can rest awhile knowing there is nothing but hope and good things coming tomorrow or soon, then you have come far in life.

May your life be most excellent.

Chapter 26: The Devil's Cocktails

For my own amusement and yours, coupled with a long time interest in mixed drinks, I will provide several new Satanic drinks. These could be shared among adults, even in a Satanic Church. At a Satanic gathering maybe, or any person interested in creating the drink place I'd call "I Love Satan's," complete with cups of Satanic significance.. or instead of cups in the place, goblets, chalices, Viking mugs.

Plus as you will see, they are part herbal magic. Could be called "herbal magic mixed drinks," and as such are given both more meaning and fun.

Satan: Tequila, sugar, apple, bitters.

Abaddon: black coffee, peppermint, rum, cream.

Agnes: Pear juice, marmalade, frosting, brandy.

Asmodeus: Orange juice, pineapple juice, whiskey, black stones.

Beelzebub: Oyster sauce, onion juice, garlic, vodka.

Belial: Beer, alfalfa sprouts, soaked in wood, cotton candy flavor.

Dagon: Cognac, watermelon juice, red stones, orange juice.

Kali: Vodka, coffee, tea, rice water.

Leviathan: Cucumber juice, rosemary, vodka, blueberries.

Mammon: Wine, pomegranate juice, soda water, honey.

Mephistopheles: Wine, grape juice, cherry juice, black licorice (like a straw.)

Neti: Sake, rice water, oolong tea, coconut.

Osiris: Vodka, strawberry, cherry, blueberry.

Pan: Mushrooms, wine, apple, thorn stick.

Quesicotyl: Coconut, chocolate, tequila, coffee.

Samuel: part tea part coffee, rum, lime, orange.

Santa Muerte: Tequila, vanilla, rose petals, scent (on the side, such as incense.)

Shiva: blueberry, cherry, strawberry, vodka.

Additional ingredients:

To put an “evil fairy” in it means to add mushroom and a sweet juice.

Goblin it means to add a bitter taste and thickness to it.

Serpentine it means to add apple and a sour taste.

Demonize it means to add or replace something with wine, and add tomatoes juice.

Warriorize it means add coffee, rum, and make it more bitter.

Breath of dragon means add fire water.

That would make an awesome kind of restaurant or bar. That is only a draft. Honestly I didn't spend much time on putting it together. It provides the idea well, though. A “Satanic Bar” could very well attract a lot of attention. Or these that are offered in a Church, known well among Satanists, either way. Would have more metal music inside. Would have disposable cups bearing Satanic images. Would have it's own set of drinks. Some were made deliberately awful. I had the Klingons Blood Wine in mind- a warrior group tastes well the bitter. Some are ice cream, others more plain. Variety exists among it. Again, it is just a draft. Every “Satanic Bar” could very well have its own set of drinks.

Chapter 27: The Choice of The Satanic Side or the Holy Side

I was just about to turn to God last night. I thought it would offer a bit of spiritual peace after an abnormally rough day. I had been sinking into a bit of boredom and things as well. So I thought I'd have a go at it again, potentially finding something of value if I only tried. I did try. Tried, tried, but just couldn't have any interest at all in the Holy Bible I was reading. I found it just doesn't do anything for me. Spiritual peace? What is wrong with material and worldly peace? Things can be considered void, not everlasting, along other reasons to turn to the spiritual. I choose to accept life is difficult. I do not need a God to make it better for me. I don't need the Bible for some future hope. I will get by on my own strength and merit. In my youth I was sensitive towards these "spiritual awakenings," being "born again." Looking back I was always being born again. I'd just request of God tearful pity. Self pity tears- the kind that feels good as though to say "Oh! My Savior!"

It seems to me like it's a done deal: I've chosen the iniquitous, the Satanic, being a devil worshiper over a Christian. I think it is possible that our future as such is better, not worse as they say. A villain is wanted to stay around forever. They want their villains to raise from the dead. To somehow have survived. We in this story of Satanism are no different. Without us the world is rather meaningless!

My whole mind, all of my mentality, has been made of a Satanic perspective from which I work. From which I operate. As machinery I am familiar with and good at. I so love my Satanist way. I have found all good in it that I possibly can. It is a thing at this point that I will not surrender. I have been casting a poor image on Christianity for many years. My reasoning against it has just increased. I have come to find it rotten. To find it a miserable position. One self harmful, bad, misleading. I have simply crossed the point from where I could turn back. I made myself that way.

So what is the choice someone is making? What are they wanting to get into, to happen? Well spiritualists will say to no end that material things deter a wholesome spiritual life. That true happiness cannot be found in your possessions. That these things are not everlasting. Is heaven devoid of material things? I've heard of them with harps and very minimal things. "It's not a place of food and marriage" as the Bible says (although do we ever know what the Bible means?) Rejection of the world and its things is a hallmark of Christianity. Is with most religions in fact.

I could be stolen from. I could get it back. I would have a reason to keep on going. Material things/money doesn't bring happiness? It's nonsense what they are saying. It asks too much. That's unfair.

We operate on the fact that awful things can happen and do. I've found no good reason at all to turn to God. My prayers- especially those only He could answer, never come true. I fill ripped off. The Bible says I can have anything I want if I just have faith. What an odd thing! If I ask while making myself believe I will get it..

I am in a position where I have to depend on my own kind plus atheists to act responsibly. To think for their selves rightly enough to peacefully get by. Christians are a bunch of hypocrites. Very few of them actually turn the other cheek. They don't fail to impose themselves on others. I believe strongly that the world is better without them. I prefer that a person think for themselves.

Once you become comfortable in those shoes you will wear no other. I have endured too much to turn to God for help. With all this talk about the Satanic side imparting punishment and damnation that is not true. Christians have imposed on them "trials and tribulation," are often on trial, even when they aren't, they'll invent that circumstance throughout a lifetime. We however master the world at this time in our existence. There is no misunderstanding that God puts the Christian on trial to hone him or her, and they are most willing and able to accept that punishment.

Maybe there is a subtle touch of misery in what we do, from how we are, but we stand defiant. We turn to a problem and keep strong. We don't turn to self pity. We don't start to feel sorry for ourselves. Instead we face things strong instead of crying, instead of wallowing in despair. At our best we are gifted at seeing the bright side, the silver lining. By practice we are proud and optimistic. We aren't handed whatever pertains to our success. They are things we brought about with our own hands, save those born into such things. Our destiny is our own. We will have aligned with only the right people. We will only have made of our friends just the right people.

We may not go far without encountering one problem or another. But we shouldn't arrive there unprepared. Bad things happen in life, but at least we can know that through it we are made strong. The Earth makes strong, or weak, able, or unable, happy, or sad. Which of these we are strong, able, and joyful. Even if it is just a touch of intellectual happiness we carry, more than emotionally, that is good itself.

We know that turning the other cheek only generates bullies. Taking and asking is an imposition on others and isn't a thing that should be encouraged. We could go in every direction through Christianity and find it has only one Earthly outcome: what it teaches is both a danger to oneself and others. So they say "wisdom is justified of her children." How about "foolishness is made by its parents."

Chapter 28: My Cause Against Christianity

It is such a gift to be in the Satanic life, to have the life of a Satanist. It has beside it pride and individuality. It includes uniqueness and silver lined thinking. It makes one strong. It strips away weakness. It is founded in worldly pleasures, self gratification. It does not produce shame but pride. It prevents you from being complacent. It urges you away from the mediocre. It builds and builds tall, ever higher. In your lifetime of following Satanism you may even rise as high as the heavenly stars.

And where is truth found but in worldly things? And what basis of truth can be known apart from it, as all other things are invisible, inaccessible? What is wrong with wanting fame and wealth?

Who shall be consumed by the fires of Christianity? There are many eager and willing to. But we are saved. We will find great things. Should be fine with taking their's. They haven't a drop of a thing to appreciate. It is all to them slime. Bitterness.

We will walk free. We will be seen walking free. We will be seen enjoying life. As always, they will despise us for it. They are those who haven't that option. They are those of insignificance. We March merrily forth while they perpetually drag a cross with them. In every place they are they want out. Have been formed into creatures of spite.

A good purpose from Satan should not be taken lightly. Should be one we are fully engaged in. It is his purpose to make of things a bearing to his image. He will craft of you a thing of perfection. He will reward those that excel, and they will reward their selves too.

Truth is being strong. For those that turn into things of weakness betray themselves. They'll not have come far in life before they ravage others and are punished accordingly. The strong person remains stable. Why? Because they do not make excuses or blame, but more importantly they decide to continue living well, unhampered. When that pitiful side emerges, they brush it off.

Strength is dependable. Ever think that you were too mean? Ever consider that they should be as strong and resilient as you? Perhaps they were offended but speaking your mind is one of the most important things to learn in life, at least socially. It comes from strength. Telling others what you want and how you feel. It can evade disaster. It goes against keeping your anger private. Keeping your anger private will prevent you from growing correctly.

As freely as you can go, so do. While some walk as though they are being marched, the more free person gallops and strides. Some walk stiffly, others dance. For better or worse a person has to feel self confident. Not burdened by poor opinions of their selves.

The Light of Satan shows bright in such people. So gear your mind toward optimism. Be founded on pride- having earned that pride. We keep moving forward knowing that obstinacy creates nothing. Mediocrity is a pit. One that most will live a lifetime in. The strong armed have pulled themselves out and have found the true greatness of the world they didn't even know existed. Rich people dine so greatly. They have help. They have greater food and entertainment. Are found in greater venues, here and there. To be the best is truly difficult indeed. Worth it though.

The Devils that inspire us inspire in us immorality, selfish behavior, self inclusivity. It is the sole construct. We were born ourselves. Some however have faltered. They have come to embody others. They have come to be made by others. That in thought and deed both. Will never move far beyond personal shame. Will have never burned brightly and strong. Would rather be bothered all of their days.

We can become ourselves through and through. We can expand desire. We can intensify want. We can amplify our gratitude bringing the simplest of things into excellence. We can form our own opinions. Satanists very well do. They have come to terms with their selves just as soon as they have become Satanists.

We see beyond the fake. We don't belong in the roster of modern style but rather a complexly woven style of eras gone by. We draw from the past. Some draw from the future as they predict it. Satanists however do not draw from the current times. They are an obstruction to inventiveness, they hinder our own touch. We would rather craft something uniquely our own, and as such create ourselves.

Satan magnifies the importance of life. Jesus was sent to diminish it. I cannot speak harshly enough against God and Jesus, save my soul! My real soul. That person I truly am. That person who enjoys food. That person absorbed in modern Satanic aesthetics. Who invites more of it in most willingly. Because things created of him are good through and through. The Devil has inspired the best of things. Jesus only taught suffering. Suffering that is unreasonable, unfair, seemingly sadistic. God very well proved he was sadistic in the very treat He has given us The Holy Bible. What a dictator. He enjoys watching people fall into a pit so He can pick them up. He desires gratitude after the fact that He shoved them down into it.

So Christianity is unfathomably wretched in my book. They are the lions that devour. They are the things of fangs and venom. Yet with broken wings. Yet with stained wool. Crossed eyeballs and filthy mouths. Christians have mastered the art of imposing guilty feelings on others. In such a funny system of necessitating forgiveness. To first know the God. To become enamored by Him. To learn He despises you and to seek his love. To learn you can't receive love from Him apart from His son. If his son doesn't approve of you then by all might you will go to hell.

We are One as not the same. What Jesus would have would strip us of any uniqueness we have developed. Our closely cultivated individuality be damned. He wants all to "be in him as one." As "One of the same in all." See the truth, Jesus is misleading you in a horribly godlike selfish way. He throws godly tantrums when people do not adhere to him. He imagines disloyalty in a metaphorical kind of way. He is mad.

If we can continue on without him then we will progress. Far greater progress has come about because of the dwindling of Christianity in the world. They say often that Christians have been great scientists. Like Newton. Newton who was threatened with execution if he would not stop saying "the earth revolved around the sun." As of course the Bible says so. They twist up the meanings in the Holy Bible. It is not difficult. It is a book that can mean anything. So they'd go against a thing like homosexuality for eons until the public shows their hatred for it. Then suddenly start saying "well, the Bible did say this, too, so it is okay."

They abuse children. They place shame and inadequacy on them. They very well grow perverted that way. If, after all, all of it is wrong, how can it be done right? Fortunately as a kid I wasn't denied the Devil's TV and video games. Could enjoy Halloween, Santa Claus, The Easter Bunny. Some can't even give gifts. The stricter the household is Christian the more danger it is to children.

We've seen the worst cults from them. They don't even see the elephant in the room. They've had the horrible cults. Cults of all forms of abuse. Spiritual abuse, brainwashing, often leading to group suicide on large scales. They are going to tell us that we have evil cults? Their enemy was witchcraft. Most of that was due to blasphemy, not the danger of witch groups. They just wanted female victims for their perversion. An object of sadistic punishment. A man from time to time to torture. More than a few they just simply didn't like. Were perhaps jealous of. Or those they simply detested. Christianity is a perfect way and setting for sadists to gather.

In better judgment a person weakens their enemy. It doesn't mean they'd murder them. It just means a sort of correction for slanderous or obnoxious people. Christ says if you hate then that's murder itself. Why and how we can love our enemies is never told. Just because you dislike what someone does to you doesn't mean you are spiritually blind. Ideally a person is strong. We all have to become strong don't we? The Earth is harsh. Then comes Christ galloping forth basically saying "make yourself strong with me!" And the incompetent person complies.

Fortunately the Satanic way is more natural. It means being human. At least in a better way. Not in some kind of self destructive way, in fact just the opposite. To enjoy life. To lean towards things of happiness and pleasure. To desire more. To reach greater heights if only for the most excellent of feelings: pride. See the truth and the light: as long as you are peace keeping then you cannot be blamed for anything, speaking reasonably. We weigh good and bad better. We find and carve out our path. We become ourselves. We learn things like responsibility and decency. That's not asking for too much. Christianity however, Christianity asks for too much. It takes away your life, your mind, and your soul. So please remember that next time you open the Holy Bible and start to think 'what a lovely passage...'

Chapter 29: Childishly Satanic

Being Childish is greatly rewarding

The Holy Bible teaches you not to be childish. While that was very applicable in times when hard work was essential (when all work took longer and was more difficult) that has become much less so. As a result people could grow up more leisurely. They haven't difficult and daily work to tend to. In fact as a result of that, people are growing up less so. This is obvious in how adults continue to play video games and amass large collections of childhood things. I myself love nostalgia. Whether it is a lamp or coffee cup, shirt, poster, watch, there are tons of choices. As another thing is apparent: you can still buy things of designs decades old. Like a new TMNT coffee cup in the old 80s cartoon style.

We are all growing up less and that is a good thing.

Children have a better idea of fun than we do. They are not as plain and ordinary as adults are. They think tree house when we think bed room. Unfortunately we have our adult nature imposed on us. As much as that we cannot dress up aside from Halloween. Satanists should congregate in a more Halloween fashion. If we cannot go out into town dressed up as Satan, we can at least go to Church that way. Fortunately their aren't any such standards imposed in our homes.

A home is usually ordinary, seldom awesome. Maybe the best thing you can do for your kids is to make that less so. In the process having a much better home for yourself, too. To have a hundred balloons, to have stickers for wall paper. Lighted faucets, types of lighting using fiber optic, black lights, shifting colors, etc., would brighten a home. Any given thing should be better styled. Such as instead of just a wall clock a Felix the Cat clock. Less ordinary colors painted on the wall. In fact you could use glow in the dark paint. On the ceiling, glow in the dark stars. Neon signs, fog machines, taller beds, decorations, are other ideas. It is as simple as looking for fun things to add to your home.

As for a more childish mentality, I know well what that means. I've become like a childish adult due to mental illness. You could say it was because my mind and spirit were broken at one point. It gave to me a different half. It split me into two. I called it the evil kid. That persona would make up words and sounds, and shift accents, accents old and new. Would walk strangely (in a way more pleasing to me, flaying my arms and stuff) would dance to any music unembarrassed. I could enter into different mindsets. Mindsets never before known. I could enter into different characters and different perspectives accordingly.

And sometimes I was a cat. Sometimes a mouse.

All in all I was not a childish adult but a child with an adults mind. One is pretending. The other is not. I relished candy at that point in my life. I created "taste magic." Taste magic means that you visualize certain things based on taste. Like food for thought and thought for food in some strange way. I couldn't dress ordinary at that time in my life. I preferred to be naked, except for a thick blanket wrap around me. I tore apart meat. I would think things like "you're dead now chicken!" imagining that the farmer cut its head off. Eating and saying to myself 'This is a good part of you!'

Chapter 30: Useful Sayings

Fortune favors the bold

A Blessing in disguise

Cutting corners

Go back to the drawing board

It's not rocket science

Make a long story short

Miss the boat

No pain, no gain

Pull yourself together

Weather the storm

You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar

You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink

Chapter 31: Video Game Making Ideas

I think I will linger on this for awhile. I love to present them. It is good to present ideas. It is especially good to provide them for free!

Ideas to include in video games:

One- You can scare away beasts with magic. You can raise a fear bar like in a fighting game. You can use in game things to scare your enemies.

Two- In a fighting game there are a set of fighters who come up randomly for you to face. You can't play as them or know who they will be.

Three- There is a time skip that makes your enemies forget about you. A deadline too however, with things lost if you skip ahead in time.

Four- Per screen you can call certain beasts, or per room. As such you need to gain control over certain beasts/demons for help per area.

Five- The goal is to bring your great idol to life and to bring down the idol of your enemies. Slay the dragon for the head, the bones for its body. Collect the great magic to bring it to life.

Six- Having a potion per level to drop and open a doorway. Depending on where it was dropped leads to different kinds of help.

Seven- Potions are helpful but volatile. You don't have to carry them but if you do and are bumped back your whole body will explode.

Eight- An effect like a double of yourself rushing forward, attacking further ahead. A mirror that when you walk by a double of yourself comes out.

Nine- A weapon that transforms. Such as changing from a sword to a spear to an axe. Maybe the weather changes it, or a special crystal that simply makes it the better weapon depending on who you are fighting.

Ten- in every kingdom you visit there is the opportunity to become knighted simply by performing tasks the king needs done.

Eleven- Shop keeper asks things like "bring me three dragon heads."

Twelve- Every three of anything slain evolves it, so be careful.

Thirteen- A beat me up letting you go more places but still generally 2D. Going underground, in a building, on top of a roof. With things to find all around. Friends to gain assistance from. A room to recharge energy, etc..

Fourteen- We have all seen difficulty options as simple as "easy medium or hard." To have a difficulty meter would be better. You slide it up or down. The meter tells you the minimal amount to get the best ending. And the higher you raise the meter the more you get for so doing.

Fifteen- If you get a kind of powder on your feet then step on the wrong place then tough enemies will appear.

Sixteen- There are visible spheres- crystal, star like, that behave differently in the sky causing different effects, and are predictable, at least to an astrologer from whom you can get advice.

Seventeen-Every character you play as has their particular weapons and suit ups as usual, but also their own magical potion, each with a unique effect.

Eighteen- There is a cleric that can rise your soul to the upper/heavenly realm. There is a demon that will take you to the abyss.

Nineteen-More than Experience Points is accumulated spiritual power that concentrates until it must be drained. It harnesses the power into different things like into a potion or new spell. It is energy built up that can invest things with magic.

Twenty- There are four kinds of coins. They are used for four different shops. The first is the cheaper but least good. The fourth has the better things.

Twenty One- Attacking certain enemies with a sword gives it poisonous power. Drawing magic with an "osmoses" spell gives you power to poison instead, if done on certain plants.

Twenty Two- A draw spell. Maybe against a fire breathing dragon it gives you fire magic, or ice magic from an icy demon. Draw spell against a knight gives you armor or a sword. Maybe an unknown spell is gotten. A watery Leviathan gives you magic water.

Twenty Three- In icy regions your ice power increases, and stays increased even after you leave. Maybe you can even affect the weather to make it so.

Twenty Four- Certain areas give you a scent. Going elsewhere, different things are attracted. Scent could come from flowery places, or more rotten ones. Could attract dogs, or could attract fairies.

Twenty Five- Placing the dragon head into the volcano. Sending the special fire to the black Smith. Bringing a saint's skull to the cave. Giving the special ink to the one writing magic books. Glass making from special sand, etc.

Twenty Six- The dragon has magically potent blood. So them and their kind are slaughtered. You save it. It gives you some of its blood in return. Maybe a secret hidden power it had that they were not aware of. So you set forth to save them all.

Twenty Seven- A magic wind blows things to you. There is power at the end of all things, river, beach, etc.

Twenty Eight- Spells are based on two letter sounds. For example "Da," or "Ra." These letters are collected to form into spells. Like this: one is fire, another ice, combine if you want, or double. Basically collecting letters such as "D," "A," and "R," to create spells with.

Twenty Nine- You have a choice: either collect money from defeating enemies or get one basic payment once every so video game days. Having one but not the other.

Thirty- A God figure rewards you. Gods befriend. They protect who they like. They reward those that serve them.

Thirty One- Your letter based magic could present itself in such a way that you are given more sounds as you level up. Each spell has a sound. Such as fire being "Fa," if you can use two sounds then you can add a spell to that during battle. Many combinations of spells possible, and for those who can speak many consecutive letters there are new and more powerful spells.

Thirty Two- Different crystal stones effect things differently. Some are highly valuable yet are easier to use on a locked door than a key. Can be put on weapons, clothing for different effects. Could also be crushed with a hammer into dust to create an especially powerful magic powder.

Thirty Three- The sword has a stone on it. It becomes more powerful over time. There is a person that can take out the stone and buy it from you.

Thirty Four- There are charging stones for a sword. It becomes more and more powerful until, unfortunately, it becomes over charged and explodes.

Thirty Five- The King wants the Dragon's head. Unfortunately that is the dragon's most powerful part. So like on an RPG battle you must defeat the dragon without hitting its head.

Thirty Six- The King's Daughter wants precious gems. They are found in difficult places, some more difficult than others. The better gems you get the greater your reward.

Thirty Seven- You attribute things to a number on a dice. Those are determined by earning an effect for a number. If you can get the power of 1up then you can place that into a number. If you get the power of defeat-all then you can attribute that to a number. Some come with conditions such as "six has to be sudden death," but otherwise you can assign impressive power to another number or two.

Thirty Eight- Defeating enemies gives you a card. Just one per defeat. At the end of the level you can draw up to eight cards. They have different effects that carry over into the next area. Sometimes you won't even have eight cards. Lose all cards and you die. Be hit by an enemy and lose any card or cards based on it.

Thirty Nine- A snake comes out of a hole and tells you to bring him any number of things. May say "bring me a mouse," or, "bring me an apple." When you do he leaves his hole and lets you go down into it.

Forty- Grab a certain thing and a bird appears. May say "I will give you (something) for that." If you hold onto it he may offer you something better for it, later.

Forty One- Cloaks falling from above. If you stand right underneath them you don their power.

Forty Two- Sometimes when you are about to die a helping item falls down to you. Not always. Could be a feather that lets you escape, a good weapon or something. May be effected by a certain stat.

Forty Three- Jumping boots. Every time you land you go yet higher and higher. A kind of swing that propels you upward and forward.

Forty Four- Riding on a dinosaur. When he eats a special fruit he turns to a T-Rex. Else could turn to a speedy raptor.

Forty Five- Like Carman San Diego except solar system based. Like Organ Trail but venturing off into space. Like Sim City but terraforming a planet. A mix of Sim Earth and Sim City going over ages.

Forty Six- Riding alien beasts instead of those already existing, and being creative with their design. Having a familiar in a game (a demonic possessed animal.) As for an alien beast one may transform with potions. One may slowly grow wings according to food.

Forty Seven- A game of angels such as in a side scrolling game or beat em up. You call down particular angels to control. Or you bring up demons in the same way. One may be curative and defensive, the other destructive and offensive. They just come down or up upon command.

Forty Eight- Like a totem pole you stack figures of heads up for different effects. That maybe in a puzzle game.

Forty Nine- The plants that you gather can be extracted for their properties and those properties used.

Fifty- Power ups are flowers of different kinds and colors. Some look the same only colored different. Some need to be watered. Some scorch in the sun and lose their power. Some need to be chopped down. Some require seed and time.

Fifty One- An enemy can send you to a different dimension, such as if their magic touches you.

Fifty Two- Armor of lost warriors can bring its owner back to life with a life crystal.

Fifty Three- Main weapon a staff that has upgrades throughout the levels. Starts out like a club. One power up makes it a staff, then a spear, then an a mace, then an axe. Kind of like how Simon Belmont's whip upgrades.

Fifty Four- You have eight levels to choose from based on part A and B. After you win one of the eight the second one appears, for a total of 16 levels. Maybe those are optional but very beneficial in going after the final boss and his or her area.

Fifty Five- The God talks to you from the clouds above and if you don't do what he says then a great storm will come.

Fifty Six- You are guided by a father god in an area only you can get to. He wants you to become King as you were destined.

Fifty Seven: The graves talk to you. They want you to avenge them. They may be in a burial place for the King's Damned Souls.

Fifty Eight- You can buy or make flying blankets to transport with.

Fifty Nine- A talking broom in the game you can find and use to fly with. It takes you to special places on Halloween. You may lose it if you die. You'll never know where it turns up next.

Sixty- Hit by an overhead circular laser and you'll be forced into a difficult room in the game.

Sixty One- Throw holy water on a sacred statue and it will walk forth and thrust its sword or other weapon into a rock for you to take.

Sixty Two- Toss magic potion on a witch statue and she'll restore your health.

Sixty Three- Put a horn on a white horse statue and it will come to life as a unicorn, and be your new companion.

Sixty Four- You have a stone pouch. You are only allowed to carry a few magic stones in a small pouch, for larger pouches up to ten. They have tricks and status effects like relics do in Final Fantasy 6.

Sixty Five- A melody plays that is like a knocking on a door. If you mimic it right then that door will open. Depending on who or what knocks, it can either help or harm you.

Sixty Six- For power-ups you strike a candle. The candles flame changes color sometimes. It may be one color or another, unchanging. The color determines what power up it gives you.

Sixty Seven- Like Mario Bros. you hit a block to get a power-up. Only instead of question marks the bricks have different colors. Each brick can have one of four things which are all similar. Red means something of fire. Blue means something of ice. Yellow could be lightning or a flying item (air) along with two other things.

Chapter 32: Possible Uses of Future Science and Technology

Science fiction stuff predicts the future. It also provides us with future ideas based on what is possible down the line. Here are ideas without the story.

Softer shoes based on anti gravity. It reduces pressure on your feet by just a little. Or they transport you similarly. That perhaps with solid energy, batteries that are exceptionally good, or free energy. You then can go about fairly quickly with only your shoes.

As for crashing vehicles and things anti gravity could reduce the impact.

We see on the horizon already that whole new shows can be made via AI and CGI. With deepfakes that change the actor to whomever you want them to be. Even music made that way, with AI. The impact for that must be huge. Anyone could make an excellent movie by computer alone. Old shows could return. Could you imagine the settings that could be used? With options like "change actor" built into the watching apparatus? Movies would have random songs. The content would be automatically changed to any extent the producer wishes it to.

Solid energy holograms could produce plants and trees in the home or elsewhere. They may even be made artificially to produce oxygen and clean the air. They'd be easily changed. Things like that could make a home easily. Not just solid energy but solid energy that has shape and form.

Realistic holograms could replace an at school teacher. If not for grade school then college. The image of the teacher is seen and heard just the same. I am sure that people will go for convenience just as much as they ever did. They'd have meetings in their own room as much as possible. Visiting family would be reduced overall. Some won't even leave home any more to visit a distant relative.

Android body parts could largely be solid energy instead of complicated metal. An arm, leg, saving a center part to generate that solid energy. We may even go about that way from home using VR styled things and a suit. Solid energy itself could allow us to walk as such without some kind of treadmill.

Maybe sports arenas will have cameras in them suitable for a VR viewing of the games.

We have made advancements in telepathic like control of body parts for the paralyzed. We understand the brain well enough to almost pull that off. That means much more than only controlling arms or legs though. It would mean we could control all kinds of devices that way. Maybe the problem is thinking what you didn't want to think. With that problem solved then there is an enormous amount of possibility to be had.

How we'd not have all of our thoughts heard however would be quite an obstacle. One maybe unavoidable, and so a time in our history where nothing is any longer hid. There may be regulations on these devices to not be used in such a way. It is likely that the only control you'll have over most things is through literal voice, not the inner voice. However that is already mostly possible for any electronic device.

More than anything I believe free energy will benefit us the most. Might not be literally free but just so incredibly cheap and abundant. If they could transport energy without a wire then solar panels could be closer to the sun. Those panels themselves could be more easily produced by science. As well more heat resilient. Or as when you transform matter into energy, even better because that will result in the kind of cheap and enormous energy I am talking about.

The effect? It is monumental. Say we create robots and androids. They need energy. If they had energy as this would supply then they could work tirelessly. They could gather materials, metal, wood. Could fly from place to place constructing things. Could reforest areas as well. Along that deep scanning would help. A device that can find gold and silver deep in the earth wherever it may be. And someday people will send out machines to gather precious materials from asteroids. Maybe someday we could artificially create steel and silver, aluminum and gold. What I'm trying to say is that the resources are found and used automatically for whatever purpose. As for the purposes that is a thing that runs deep. Anything we would do they would do instead. Without needing to rest. With no complaint whatsoever.

The future of transportation includes driverless vehicles. If they too had all of the energy they could need then you could travel all you want. There isn't any work involved. People will start to prefer an RV much more. Room will be a selling point. Room will already be increased. People will want more of that. Especially if they are traveling far. They'd practically live on the road if they want to. Taken wherever they'd like to be. Might move that way landing on a lot. As much as energy is cheap then prices would go down. That's the effect of progress after all: things become both cheaper and better.

Chapter 33: Predictions of the Coming World

Things are getting awfully bad. But Satanists were made to fiddle while Rome burns.

Controversy has been driven into to no ends. What was once pleasantly obnoxious is now common place and expected. People have dulled out by the worst of things. Boredom capitalizes on our life.

People have become greatly spoiled. They have been fighting not for rights really but to be given things as some kind of privilege. They are mocking the politicians. People are attacking innocent people, sometimes brutally. The innocent are victims of mass murders. Cold and calculated evil abounds.

Where are we to find solace? We will find it where we always did: in isolation, only meeting with our family and friends, of whom friends should be specially culled and like minded, not expecting us to conform with anarchists and criminals.

Politicians are more and more spoiled. They are taking on the mantle of taking away our "silly irrelevant rights." And honestly I see a dictator looming overhead.

This virus is at fault. Widely available cameras are uncovering secrets we were unaware of. They give us sight to it as well and is a thing that can be hard to accept. Evil is more apparent, evil we didn't catch sight of before.

Everyone has to be a star. All people are talking, none are listening. There are those that are forcing about anarchy. And I am mostly talking about America, but problems are easily seen worldwide right now.

They can say for decades that war is not good. They can promote peace to those ends. However war is a necessary part of humanity. Humans want power. Some obtain it. Only to be put in a position not to use it. Sooner or later the curtain tears open and our true nature is thrust forward. In fact it is so overdue we are facing an especially bad and thorough war.

Society has formed from it a monster: a cult. Those not supporting that cult are ostracized, even greatly harmed. Stripped of position. Just as a cult does. Adherence and aligning with its principles is mandatory. I foresee that it will end just as any cult comes to an end. Things will become too tight. They'll all set their damn selves on fire. They'll commit unacceptable atrocities. They'll become mad. Sound minded people will see them for who they truly are.

If we need anything to save us now it is science and technology. That which simply makes life better, easier, and more enjoyable. Science and tech of those means will simply make life better, better enough to ignore the rest. They would have to be great developments however. Something good enough to end homelessness. Something reducing our work load, increasing our resources, leading to universal basic income. The means to feed others on a wide scale. The ability to live much longer. Those are some examples.

God will not forget the victims however. When evil is being done then all of humanity must pay a price. He will not let so many die in vane. We may not seem responsible, but did we care enough, did we work hard enough to defend and help people? Or were we just playing a video game when it all happened. Is it our very lifestyle to blame? It probably is. The way we have all made things to go.

That is God and His agenda. However the world was made for and by Satanists. The world belongs to Satan. There are evil doers hurting innocent people. That do terrible things. Then there is us. We are not a wicked people. We are iniquitous, sinful, but I would never use the word evil in our regards. We stand for justice and peace. Let it be known. We want an end to evil people as such Satan is tasked. Satan is their accuser and their punishment. It can't be said enough that he is God's Wrath.

Silly people.. where is anarchy to go but right into the hands of your dictator. I pose myself a threat by writing. I have always spoken against dictators. In democracy the things of Satan can be made and flourish. Lucifer plainly represents liberty. This nation was founded against the tyranny of the Christian Church more than anything else. This anarchy, this cult like entity, these means and ways may destroy democracy.

They've become dim witted. Entertainment and fast food has made it so. TV has been their parent. Socializing has been greatly transformed. Intellect to them is foolishness. Not to speak of all people fortunately, but unfortunately most. As empty headed as they are they need a space to fill. This cult they created is the perfect thing. It truly is "monkey see, monkey do."

It can be dangerous to even go out into town anymore. The more that riot and loot things the more willing others are to follow along. Once the riot has become a certain size then people will literally join in from all over and liberally destroy and kill. Their enemy is a sure enemy through and through. It is a cult with a complex philosophy which has been developing for a long time.

They are fighting for others the same. The greater the punishment they incur the more they served each other's purpose. It is like their purple heart.

We must stay at a distance. We must be both strong and smart enough to survive. Maybe the pot will not boil over, maybe it will. That is hard to tell. Maybe it is good that it does so that humanity may learn another lesson. Perhaps someday we will regulate that freedom of speech is guaranteed in any medium. The very things that run off of free speech (like publishers, social platforms, and news corporations) have taken away our right to really say what we mean. As a result our rights have become greatly diminished. If they can't outright attack you for what you say, they'll at least ostracize you and give you death threats.

Everyone should have a right to believe what they want. It shouldn't be anyone else's business to attack and slander them over it. So I pray for a whole new day in which free thought returns in its purest and truest form. The quicker this cult crucifies itself the better.

Chapter 34: A More Satanic Future

Only through a Satanist can the world reach its potential.

Let ideas be free and abundant. Every Satanist should have good things to contribute. That is something that requires work and thought, but more thought than work.

First off things have become too systematized. Over time things become convoluted in terms of tax appropriation towards increasing needs. The government and people both do not ask the question enough: "Do we really need this?" That includes anything we could do without, with more money given to the things we really do. It is a simplification. We greatly need simplification. We need less regulation. Sometimes that means just letting people make their own mistakes.

Perfectionism, true talent, expertise, must increase. That means things like learning well what you do. It means to work harder on making any given thing good. It also means just doing what you do best. To learn that thing well. To produce things truly better. It is a return to the inventive minds. Those that experiment with things like chemistry and electricity. That producing great new things, hopefully. Certainly on a large scale everything will be better. Satanists should do these things rather than waste away life. A more serious approach to art.

Improved Aesthetics in that beauty means more to us. Which things aren't. They are ugly. We long for less plain things. Anything that sparks up life is good. That instead of going about in things mundane, uninteresting. As I often say, "things could be a little more fun but they aren't." Just for the very fact that we like things uniquely we can piece together things uniquely. It isn't just the same thing with a different style. It is in fact a majority difference from thing to thing that we produce. Of course there is the more literally Satanic as well. We may come to erect Satanic idols someday. Things will bear our flags and sigils. Music coming from a university degree again. Music that is more complex and intellectual overall.

Peace Keeping which is difficult to find from the people of today. A people whom by practice show their teeth. This dog eat dog world where they can't pass by a tree without barking up it. Law and order triumph, deteriorating the Anarchist, the Devil grinding them in his jaws, may it so be. Let them come to their end. They will never stop until they go too far. We know this, and are assured it will end without us. See it as a new beginning, the beginning of the end. Let us uphold Demo-cracy, it is a worthy fight. When they begin to humiliate politicians however, split from the side of the people.

Allowing for mistakes and "self harm" We can't continue to save foolish people. It costs too much. It's impossible, futile. So we should remember to let the fool go where they will. We have to understand that mistakes happen. If it can't be stopped but by a little then it is nothing but a costly waste of time. One removed law in such a case could save untold sums of work and money- and there are many such instances. Sugar as much as anything will become good again. As for myself I get so sick of being told that it's detrimental to my health.

Unnecessary morality removed We live in the remnants of Christianity. Comparing us to the great Romans in a time much more of us, everything is a damn sin. It had the influence of 2,000 years causing great damage. Life was once about lively pleasure, sexual freedom and food. Gambling on the street was fine. People would work hard on idols and erect them.

Vices and "sin" more allowed Sin like gambling, drinking alcohol, pleasurable chemicals, adults doing what adults want to do. Anything of pleasure that does no harm to anyone but you (if at all) shouldn't be rigorously acted against through propaganda and social shaming. There are some nasty hateful people that do.

The Satanic Church would be like no other Church. Once true Satanism is implemented into a Church it will be an important body of progress. That in fact is most essential of it. We help the world in stronger and more meaningful ways. I hope to see the day when a towering high Satanic Church is made. Should be like Halloween inside. Who knows? Satanism may be the biggest religion someday. It is important for us to form groups and Churches. They that can spur themselves into doing so are a monumental help to us. Given a few dozen very good Churches, will have very many more to follow. Nobody passes by a Christian Church and thinks much of it. They are everywhere. No one however can help but notice a Satanic Church.

Progress of any given thing but most of all in science and technology. Science and technology is the best charity to give to. Someday people are going to forget about the miracles of Jesus. After all we could do things the same through science, all of them, sooner or later. I like to evoke the image of walk on air shoes to those ends. It says in Genesis that God doesn't want us to be like his kind. I think what we have worked for we deserve to keep, with the opportunity to become truly godlike. Immortal even, through chemistry or something.

No simple mindedness the world is on pause because of it. As much as person to person lives off of entertainment the more the world is on pause. Nobody really reads philosophy anymore. If they read at all it is some popularly spun story. People don't experiment in their homes anymore. People just get home and watch a sports game. Let's compare that to life without TV. It would be the same as seeing a play or going to see a game every day of the week for three hours. Everyday, not really doing much else. They are educated against something thousands of times a year. It is silly really. What information passes them by is pretty much just that. It's a basic set of propaganda that only the simple minded would need.

Individuality where things are much less popular. We each like our own things. If what another of us likes too that's just coincidental. This generates diversity. It brings about uniqueness. It embodies a person more closely to it than just being a thing like an interconnecting chain. Only a handful of music is heard, as far as new music goes. Believe me it isn't because they are in the upper 95 percent of all musicians worldwide. It is only because they were lucky enough to be found by a scout. That scout having the ability to mass distribute it. Just a handful of new songs every month while the world is most definitely full of musicians greater than them. I am not impressed by top selling authors either. It's the same thing.

Liberty Lucifer represents freedom. He is the body of power against perpetual worship against The King. "The King" is a disgusting sounding thing to a Satanist. While we don't promote open slander and obnoxious behavior we do believe in free and sound harmony. As much as we really do deserve it anyway. With liberty comes the creation of Satanic things, and not until then, or otherwise. Thanks to modern democracy untold sums of Satanic things have been created in various mediums. Liberty also allows the scientist to flourish. Liberty should mean you can enjoy something without being hindered or stopped. Among other rights the right of choice is important. Our tastes are far reaching, precise, particular. Naturally freedom of religion legalized Satanism and who could resist?

Chapter 35: Abstract Formulas

While it is not teaching Satanism so much but is a desired inclusion I have Abstract Formulas here:

An example to show what they are:

- 1: Play (your favorite band) here.
- 2: Quote (favorite person) here, in a relatable way to number one.
- 3: Pick up the music into a similar song.
- 4: Quote (second person) in a relatable way.
- 5: Repeat number one.
- 6: Show a few (of these) here, that represent the other things.
- 7: Fade into fire, then lightning.
- 8: Show Satan's servants with evil smiles.
- 9: Show the cross overshadowing the land.

The general idea is to have anything produced by abstract means. One formula, a thousand films or games. When you make something like a movie this way you can call it "Formula for (title.)"

There is also a technique for making just a few papers of sheet music have limitless combinations to perform. They are a number of melodies or chords that can be played in any order.

And I will let be done what is done.
